BRITISH TO ASK WORLD TO SCRAP BIG WARSHIPS

MacDonald Reveals Parley Policy.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—When Prime Minister MacDonald opens the five power naval conference on Tuesday he will propose the abolition of battleships and submarines, not with any great hopes of succeeding in obtaining total abolition, but in the strong hope of securing a drastic scaling down and the possible extinction of these forms of armament after a term of years.

Great Britain's Labor prime minister is full of hope that a good agreement will be reached, but he warns against undue optimism, because he fears that if public opinion is raised too high as to the results of the conference there will be general disappointment and perhaps a letting down of the will to peace.

Any agreement which will end naval competition he will regard as good, although he hopes for more than that. Substantial reduction has been his aim and he hopes to achieve it.

Talks to Newspaper Men.

Mr. MacDonald this evening received the advance guard of 400 reporters from all over the world, who are arriving in London to cover the conference, and he talked freely and informally about his hopes and plans. He answered questions frankly, and appealed for frankness and fair treatment from the world's press, on whose attitude, he declared, much of the chance for the success of the conference depended.

As a starting point in making clear the attitude of the British government, Mr. MacDonald explained that Great Britain is relying upon the various treaties, agreements and other political instruments of peace, which have been achieved during the last few years, such as the Locarno and Kellogg pacts and other various regional agreements. These, he said, have changed world conditions and have produced a situation when the danger of war is much less acute and therefore there is a better chance of achieving some real progress toward disarmament.

Military Force Is Felt.

Great Britain takes the view that military force must bear some real relationship to the immediate danger of war, and what might be necessary when that danger is imminent is not only unnecesary but provocative and extravagant when those dangers are remote. Another factor in making economy possible Britain also believes is the constant change in fleet value, due to advance in the science of air and under sea armament.

During the last seven years, the British government believes, there has been a dangerous tendency towards competition in armaments. Attempts to reach agreements have failed, it says, and feeling has exacerbated so that, if this progress continues, the world seems on the verge of entering furious, wasteful and dangerous competition in shipbuilding.

The only way to prevent that is to obtain a fair agreement, and with this in view, Great Britain declares it has called the conference. With the example of the Washington conference, which was the only really successful attempt to limit armaments, in mind Great Britain is full of hope. There has been no competition in building battleships since 1925, but competition in the other classes has gone on, so that in a few years more, if it continues, all the advantages of recent political agreements will be lost.

Three Reduction Methods.

In the view of Great Britain there are three ways in which reductions can be made. The first is by scrapping, the second by abandoning sanctioned building programs, and the third by extending the life of existing ships. For instance: The Washington conference fixed the life of battleships at 20 years, after which they may be replaced. Mr. MacDonald would like to see that extended to 25 years or even longer, and would like to see the same principle applied to all other classes of ships.

One method he will not propose, and which he would not expect any one to accept, is the reduction of any nation's naval power below the margin of national safety, nor will he countenance any proposal that Great Britain should set an example in default of the agreement by scrapping ships or abandoning programs which are considered as necessary in reference to the fleets of other nations.

Relativity is really the crux of the

FRIENDS, FOES OF PROHIBITION TAKE INVENTORY

Costs in Life and Money Cited.

This day—January 16—marks the end of the first decade of constitutional prohibition in the United States. This anniversary is the occasion for a brief summary of the outstanding results to date, in costs, in deaths, and in convictions.

This tenth anniversary also is the occasion for a national convention of the Anti-Saloon league, meeting in Detroit, where plans were launched for a $50,000,000 fund to be used in the next decade "to make the country dry, in law and in fact."

The controversial features of the act were emphasized this week by messages and recommendations to congress from the President, two members of his cabinet, and the head of his law enforcement commission.

In Massachusetts bells are to be pealed today by friends of prohibition and tolled by its enemies. Flags are to be flown from the tops of staffs by drys and displayed at half staff by wets. According to the Associated Press, these contradictory actions have been ordered by the Massachusetts Federation of Churches and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, on the dry side, and by the Liberal Civic league on the other.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Ten years of national prohibition have flashed across the horizon and left Uncle Sam scratching his head to find a remedy for the conditions left in the wake of the constitutional amendment and the Volstead act put in force a decade ago tomorrow.

Stock taking on the anniversary of this period, which President Hoover has termed a "noble experiment," finds the following statistics:

Prohibition has cost the federal government more than $400,000,000.

It has resulted in an estimated loss of revenue of $3,000,000,000.

It has caused the killing of some 200 persons in law enforcement efforts aside from the added hundreds killed in gang wars and from causes attributable to illicit liquor.

It has seen Uncle Sam arrest more than 550,000 persons for violating the dry law.

It has resulted in the doors of the federal prisons being opened to 230,000 citizens for an enforced stay aggregating more than 33,000 years.

States in Same Boat.

This is the federal angle of the problem. Other millions have been expanded by states in trying to lend cooperation to Uncle Sam and to handle the local situation. Other untold numbers have been killed and wounded in the process.

International complication are not to be overlooked. Conference after conference has been held with Canadian authorities in an effort to stem the tide of rum flowing across the unguarded border between two nations—at least it was unguarded until prohibition made its advent.

The use of liquor by diplomatic representatives of foreign lands has also been a problem, and the state department has been exceedingly careful, with the aid of the treasury, to see that their supply of liquor comes in unhampered. Marines have been used to guard it against hi-jackers and to prevent injury to some person with a diplomatic status which might cause an explosion in the world of diplomacy.

Politicians Perturbed.

As for internal affairs, the decade of aridness has largely changed the face of party lines. President Hoover, believing prohibition does not belong in politics, was forced to accept it as a major issue. It had dogged his steps since he entered the White House and brought from him more statements than possibly any other subject.

The drys, on this tenth birthday, point to the rapid strides of the nation in industry, in commerce, in science and education, as the fruits of prohibition.

The wets, equally as emphatic, point to smuggling, gang wars, hypocrisy in politics, bootleg rings, increased use

SEEK TWO GIRLS CHARGED WITH RUNNING RUM

Strafford, Pa., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Police tonight announced they were searching for two young daughters of a well to do Lancaster county farmer on charges of rum running.

They were said to be Marie Duttner, 19, and her sister, Violet, 17. Police were reported to be guarding their home in Schoeneck, and the authorities of Philadelphia, Norristown, and Harrisburg have been asked to aid in the search.

Chief of Police Nugent of Strafford said he was certain of the identification and that warrants had been sworn out for the arrest of the girls. He asserted the girls were employed by a bootleg ring operating between Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

Mercy Hospital Patients Aroused by Fire Alarm

Patients in Mercy hospital were aroused from their beds in alarm early this morning by the clanging of fire apparatus called to extinguish a small fire on the basement floor. Nurses quieted the patients and none left their rooms. The flames were extinguished with little damage.

Thirty colored families were driven from their apartments by fire in the four story building at 417-23 Bowen avenue early this morning. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

Two Severe Quakes Scare Californians

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Two severe earthquake shocks added to southern California's weather woes today. The first tremor, an exceptionally heavy one, came at 4:25 p. m. and lasted 15 seconds. It was followed by a lighter shock at 4:35.

The disturbances were severe enough to set buildings swaying over an area of several hundred miles, from the Mojave desert to San Diego. Clocks stopped, phone service was halted, and business activities in a number of cities was interrupted.

Today's earthquakes climaxed a four day period of freezing temperatures, accompanied by pouring rain and snow, that has cost several lives in the Los Angeles area alone.

In Hollywood office buildings and stores disgorged frightened hundreds into the rain pelted streets. The twenty-four story city hall tower in downtown Los Angeles rocked and the quake stopped the clocks in the United States weather bureau observatory.

Quake Spends Force in Desert.

The shock ran in a northwest to southeast direction, dissipating its force in the desert region. Beaumont and Banning reported pictures and dishes shaken down. In Orange, Santa Ana, and Claremont walls moved, and in Redondo, Riverside, Glendale, and Pasadena mirrors and wall pictures shimmied.

Bowlders fell on to the streets of Whitley Heights in Hollywood.

The little town of Tustin, in the desert, was shaken so severely that mail dropped out of the boxes in the postoffice.

The seismic disturbance did not intercept the steady rains which have pelted southern California for four days. Ten blocks in Long Beach were flooded today. Residents had to be removed from homes in boats. At Santa Monica a bridge was so weakened that it had to be closed.

Four Die from Heater Gas.

The four deaths charged to the weather were those of persons overcome by carbon monoxide gas released from residence heaters. Four others were overcome, but will recover.

Victims of the unprecedented snowfall of last week began to appear for treatment in Los Angeles.

PRISON BETRAYER FACES NEW TERM; FEARS FOR LIFE

Seeing in his conviction and impending sentence to the penitentiary the equivalent of a death sentence, Arthur Reid, 43 years old, convicted burglar, collapsed yesterday in his cell in the Lake county jail at Waukegan. Reid fears, he said, that if he returns to the penitentiary at Joliet he will be slain by his fellow prisoners for revealing a plot to dynamite the prison two years ago, while he was an inmate there.

While he was serving a term for attempted murder Reid overheard the plot to escape by blowing up the prison and revealed the details to Elmer Green, then warden. As a result of his revelations the conspiracy was frustrated and Reid won a parole.

Several weeks ago he was arrested on a charge of robbing a freight car on the Soo Line in Lake county.

"It's a death sentence," he cried after the jury had returned its verdict. "They'll kill me sure if I go back there."

JERITZA SINGS ON DESPITE HER BROTHER'S DEATH

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Just before the overture to "Der Rosenkavalier" at the Metropolitan Opera house tonight Maria Jeritza, Viennese soprano, received a cablegram telling of the death of her favorite brother. The prima donna went on and sang and laughed through her röle in the Strauss light opera.

In her dressing room she wept as her maid changed her costume, while the music and laughter continued.

Forecasts Zero Tonight, Cold for Rest of Week

A tenacious cold wave that is expected to grip Chicago throughout the rest of the week, at least, moved into Chicago last night, sending the temperature downward with a minimum of zero in prospect for tonight. C. A. Donnel, United States weather forecaster, predicted the temperature would reach 5 above zero by this morning and that the extreme cold would continue tomorrow, with no return to mild temperature before the first of the week.

Graham Plane Found, but No Trace of Flyer

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—According to private telegrams received here, Dr. J. H. Hastings of Pioche, Nev., quotes an unnamed man as telling him he had found the missing monoplane of Mail Pilot Maury Graham, sixteen miles west of Bristol Mines today.

Graham's plane was said not to be badly cracked up. There was no trace of Graham, according to the report. Graham has been missing four days.

Blast Jars City Collector and Wife from Bed

Morris Eller, city collector and Thompson Republican boss of the "bloody 20th" ward, was again the target of bombers early this morning. Explosive touched off at the rear of his home on the first floor of a three story apartment building at 201 South Central avenue wrecked the porch, caused damage to the interior, and hurled the occupants of all three apartments from their beds.

According to the police, the Eller flat was occupied by Mr. Eller, his wife, Jennie, and a maid, Anna Semmen, when the explosion occurred shortly before 1 a. m. Eller denied this. He declared that only his wife and the maid were in the apartment. He said Mrs. Eller owned the bombed building. Mr. Eller insisted he was at his home at 1301 South Peoria street, which is also the home of his son, former Judge Emmanuel Eller.

Finds Eller on Scene.

Witnesses who arrived on the scene soon after the blast estimated the damage at $5,000. Eller said it was $800.

The first policeman to arrive was Patrolman Philip McCarthy of the Fillmore street station. McCarthy was at Lotus avenue and Madison street when he heard the bomb. He hastened to the scene and said he found Eller clad in sweater and trousers surveying the damage with his wife. Two of their sons, former Judge Emmanuel Eller and William Eller, arrived soon afterward. They were fully clothed.

Eller said he knew of no particular reason for the bombing. "If I had any idea that a bomb was likely to be thrown I would have asked for police protection," he said. "There could be a thousand reasons for it, but I don't know what particular reason caused it. Maybe State's Attorney Swanson will have an idea."

Rear Porch Torn Off.

The explosion tore the rear porch of the Eller home from its foundation and also damaged the porch of the second floor apartment, which is occupied by the family of Milton N. Sachs, owner of a women's wear store at 16 North Michigan avenue. Windows in the building in and in a garage at the rear and in dwellings within a radius of half a block were shattered.

The plaster in the Eller kitchen and in one of the bedrooms was stripped from the walls, and interior doors were partly blown from their hinges. The maid was buried under a shower of broken glass as she slept in a room opening on to the porch.

Second Bomb for Eller.

The bomb was the second of which Eller has been the target and the third directed at members of his family. On the morning of Sept. 3, 1926, Eller and his wife were thrown from their beds by explosives placed in the doorway of their home at 5552 West Congress street.

Last August the automobile accessories store of Israel Warshawsky, a son-in-law of Morris Eller, at 1915 South State street, was bombed. The damage was estimated at $5,000. That explosion also remained a mystery.

In Politics Since 1896.

Eller has been engaged in politics in Cook county since 1896. He was formerly city sealer and a trustee of the sanitary district. Following the primary of April 10, 1928, in which Octavius Granady was slain, Eller and his son, Emmanuel, were named in the investigation of charges that shootings, slugings, and other terrorist tactics had been practiced in the 20th ward. Granady was Eller's opponent for ward committeeman.

Several henchmen of the Ellers were tried on the terrorist conspiracy charges after they had been indicted by special grand juries under the guidance of Frank J. Loesch, special prosecutor appointed to fight the alliance of crime and politics.

BROTHER TRIES TO SAVE DORR; 'SAW SHOOTING'

Then Sat Down to Eat, He Says.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Henry Dorr late yesterday took the witness stand to defend his brother, Howard Dorr, who is on trial for murder, and, by the demand of the state, in peril of the electric chair. The brother's testimony was planned as a dramatic stroke of the defense—the production of a surprise witness who says he saw the fatal shooting of William J. O'Brien on Nov. 20.

Triumphantly Arthur Carlsten, who with Barratt O'Hara is conducting Dorr's defense in his trial for the murder of O'Brien, called Henry Dorr to the stand. The courtroom of Judge Harry B. Miller was packed, rows of extra chairs having been provided for the spectators.

Henry Dorr Takes the Stand.

Henry Dorr, a pale and listless man, short of stature and, unlike his brother, unprepossessing in manner, took the stand. In a monotone he told his story—a story intended to support Howard Dorr's testimony that he had seized a pistol from O'Brien in an effort to protect O'Brien's wife, Genevieve, and that O'Brien had been accidentally shot in a scuffle over the gun.

While in his flat next door to the O'Brien flat on that morning of Nov. 20, said Henry Dorr, he had heard a shot. Running to the window, he looked out and saw O'Brien and his brother grappling in the O'Brien flat at 7328 South Maplewood avenue. Dorr ran out of Henry's range of vision, O'Brien following, and then another shot was fired.

"Then what did you do?" Attorney Carlsten asked.

Defendant's Wife May Testify.

Attorney O'Hara had announced earlier in the day that he might call as a witness Mrs. Rose Dorr, the wife of the defendant, who has been faithful despite the state's allegations that the murder grew out of a love affair between Dorr and Mrs. O'Brien. Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler signified they would not object to Mrs. Dorr's testifying in behalf of her husband.

Mr. O'Hara then said he would determine today whether he would call Mrs. Dorr. She has pleaded to be allowed to testify.

The defense will rest when court opens if Mrs. Dorr does not take the stand, it is expected. In that event closing arguments would begin this afternoon. Attorneys have asked for fourteen hours for these arguments.

Brother's Story of Shooting.

When Henry Door took the stand he testified he was an electrical engineer for the Chicago Surface Lines, by which he has been employed for the last 17 years. He moved into a twin apartment house at 7324 South Maplewood avenue at the time the Howard Dorrs moved into theirs, he said. The Henry Dorrs had the second floor flat in their building and the O'Briens lived over the Howard Dorrs on the second floor of the building to the south.

Arriving home after his usual night's work at 7:30 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 20 he was in the bathroom between 7:30 and 7:45 o'clock when he heard a shot and screams, Door testified. He then went into the front bedroom of his flat and looked out the southwest window and through a dining room window in the O'Brien flat, he said.

Tells What He Saw.

Q.—Whom did you first see? A.—Mr. O'Brien and his wife.

Q.—Any one else? A.—Not at that time.

Q.—Tell the jury just what happened. A.—Well, I saw Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien between the hallway and kitchen doors in the dining room.

Q.—What was he doing? A.—He had his back to me and was facing his wife and I couldn't see what he was doing.

Q.—What else? A.—I was just ready to walk away, when I saw the defendant, Mr. Dorr——

Q.—Your brother? A.—Yes—when I saw him and his wife. It seemed like he hesitated, then started grappling with Mr. O'Brien. Then it

Q.—Who else was there? A.—Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Dorr.

Q.—What else did you see? A.—Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Dorr were out of my sight.

Q.—Did you hear anything? A.—I heard another shot.

Q.—Then where did you go? A.—I went and looked out the front window.

Q.—What did you do next? A.—I went back to the kitchen and had my breakfast.

Throughout his testimony he alluded to Howard Dorr as "the defendant, Mr. Dorr." While at breakfast, he said, his 7 year old son called to him from the front room, and he went to look out the window. He saw "the defendant" and Genevieve O'Brien being led out by policemen. A group of squad cars waited. They drove away and Dorr went back to his breakfast, he said.

Henry Dorr Cross-Examined.

Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne then began cross-examination. Asked if there were not lace curtains in the O'Brien dining room windows, Dorr said there were, and that they were "hanging straight down."

Q.—And how was Howard dressed? A.—He had his pajamas on, I think.

Q.—You knew he didn't live there [in the O'Brien flat], didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Weren't you somewhat surprised to see your brother dressed in pajamas in that apartment? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You recognized him immediately? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—So you went right back and ate breakfast after you saw all this and heard the shots? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How long afterwards was it when you sat down to breakfast? A.—About five minutes.

Sees Police "and Beats It."

Dorr then testified he had gone to Howard Dorr's apartment to ask Rose Dorr where Howard was taken. He saw policemen in her apartment "and beat it." He said he didn't know whether she was entertaining police or the police were entertaining her, but she looked busy."

He did not communicate with his brother or with the police, he said.

Q.—When was it that you first found Howard was booked and charged with murder? A.—When I saw it in the papers.

Q.—Did you follow the story in the papers? A.—[Laconically]—O, off and on.

He testified in answer to a question by Mr. Ditchburne that he knew where the inquest was to be held—In the Kenney undertaking establishment.

Q.—Have you ever seen that place? A.—I was there.

Q.—O, you were there, were you? A.—I was.

Q.—And did you see your brother there? A.—Yes.

Doesn't Remember Testimony.

Q.—Did you see him with his hand up, being sworn? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you hear him testify? A.—I didn't hear anything I remember now.

Howard Dorr under cross-examination had said that he did not take the oath at the inquest and that he had not made the statements attributed to him in the stenographic report which Prosecutor Ditchburne read.

Q. (To Henry Dorr)—Did you testify at the inquest? A.—No, I didn't.

Q.—As a matter of fact, you didn't speak to a soul there, did you?—A.—No.

Q.—Up to that time you had not told any one what you saw through the window? A.—No, sir.

Q.—And this is the first time you have told the story you just related? A.—In any detail.

His Wife Silent, Too.

Henry Dorr was followed on the stand by his wife, Anna. She was in the kitchen cooking their breakfast when she thought she heard a shot, she testified. She ate breakfast with her husband, however, without mentioning the shot, she said under cross-examination.

Previous to the testimony of Henry Dorr and his wife Harper Moulton of Glen Ellyn, an official of the Continental Insurance company, testified that Howard Dorr was in debt to that company "to a small amount, something like $2,000." He said it was not an unusual indebtedness on the part of an agent and that in February, 1929, Dorr had been in debt to the company to the extent of approximately $5,000.

Defendant Is Questioned.

Throughout the morning and part of the afternoon session Howard Dorr, the defendant, was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne. Dorr remained impervious to the prosecutor's demands that he say whether he had been asked certain questions and given certain answers when he was in the Chicago Lawn station after the shooting, again at the detective bureau, and again at the inquest. Mr. Ditchburne read from alleged statements by Dorr.

"I don't recall," Dorr answered ingratiatingly, or, with a tolerant smile, would explain that he had been in no condition to know what was asked him.

At one point Attorney O'Hara jumped up and shouted, "I object to the state's bullying this witness, your honor!"

"Thank you," remarked Prosecutor Ditchburne, "that's impossible."

During the nine hours that Dorr was on the stand Tuesday and yesterday he maintained a calm air of superiority and when, at the end of the cross-examination, Mr. Ditchburne wiped the perspiration from his face Dorr looked as fresh as ever.

WAR MEMORIAL DESIGNS EXPRESS THE MODERN AGE

Plans for Lake Monument on Exhibit Now.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

"Not in years," said Earl H. Reed Jr., technical adviser to the war memorial committee, "has an architectural competition brought out so much notable and noble effort! These designs show a heartening tendency to express today rather than antiquity. This is a decided change since the last great wave of architectural expression in Chicago—the wave which rose with and followed the Columbian exposition and which for many a year submerged a fine, indigenous movement that had begun to express itself in the late eighties. The white and classic glory of the exposition long retarded that movement.

"Now native feeling is again boldly asserting itself, and it is their emphasis of that assertion that makes many of these memorial designs important heralds of the new day in American architecture. They show that architecture is beginning to rise to its responsibility for expressing today."

Cost Set at Millions.

Estimates of the cost of putting into granite and marble the prize winning design of the firm of Gugler & Bailey of New York City range from two million to five million dollars. For several weeks to come both members of the firm will be working in Chicago on the preparation of the exact estimate. When it is ready, the raising of funds by veterans of the world war and by the community as a whole will begin.

The most notable designs of the competition have been on view in the east gallery on the second floor of the institute for 28 days and they will remain there until Sunday night. Then they will be taken on tour, for art galleries and architectural leagues in New York, Indianapolis, St. Louis and other cities have asked permission to exhibit them.

Ultimately they will be issued in book form "because," as the eminent architect John Mead Howells puts it, "they are a vital contribution to American architecture."

Why are they vital?

Architects who have given them close study agree that their momentous quality is simplicity and they thankfully contrast them with overloaded symbolism and the harrowing sentimentality of most civil war memorials.

Simplicity Is Keynote.

Simplicity, in fact won the $20,000 prize for Messrs. Gugler and Bailey. By its avoidance of routine symbolism their design does not rouse the ire of either pacifists or militarists. That comment has been frequently made during the current display. It is neither an arraignment nor an exaltation of war. It is a solemn tribute to the dead. Nor does it suggest the idea of the unknown soldier—an idea which, in the opinion of many visitors to the exhibition, has become a routine cult and which lacks the spaciousness that should distinguish a memorial to those who fell in war.

Mr. Reed points with special enthusiasm to the skill with which the winning designers "have tied their island temple to Grant park by means of causeways which may for convenience be described as extensions of Van Buren and Harrison streets."

Causeways Lead to Memorial.

These causeways lead not to the side of the memorial which will face the city but to the side looking to the east. Thus the pilgrim entering the shrine will enter it at a point undisturbed by the sights and sounds of the city.

To aid the layman in making comparisons with the dimensions of the world's architectural masterpiece, the Parthenon, Mr. Reed suggests that it be remembered that the columns of the Parthenon are 35 feet high while the columns, or piers, of the Chicago memorial will be 96 feet high. The total height of the structure from the water level will, he adds, be the equivalent of an eighteen story office building.

The piers will be surrounded by two rows of trees. In order that this adornment may be renewed as often as the mischief caused by wind pressure and smoke demands, a "sacred grove," as the projectors have named it, will be planted in or near to the forest preserve where trees will be nurtured especially for the memorial.

Island Opposite Fountain.

The island on which the memorial will be erected will lie four hundred feet from the shore line of Grant Park and directly opposite the Buckingham fountain.

After studying the 114 designs for two days the judges of award spent three hours in renewed contemplation of four possible winners. They were, in addition to the work finally accepted, the designs by Benjamin H. Marshall, Chicago, shown on the east wall of the gallery; by Nimmons, Carr & Wright, Chicago, shown on the south wall, and by Vorhees, Gmelin & Walker, New York City, shown on the north wall. The colossal size of Mr. Marshall's conception was one decisive factor against it, as the cost of executing it would have been hardly less than $12,000,000. It was greatly admired by the judges and its map in mosaic rewards careful examination.

Mr. Reed describes the Nimmons, Carr & Wright design as "the finest obelisk solution submitted," and he urges it upon the attention of both architects and laymen. "Technically," he added, "it is a marvelous study."

He also finds enormous power in the Vorhees, Gmelin & Walker design, with its heroic figure 90 feet high flanked by pylons which rise to a height of three hundred and fifty feet. "A tour de force!" exclaimed the architect, "and absolutely original."

Mary Pickford Wins State Refund; Appeals to U. S.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The State of California, having as a result yesterday of Probate Judge Harry Hollzer's ruling, sliced $38,000 off the inheritance tax which Mary Pickford pays on her $1,100,000 inheritance from her mother's estate, Miss Pickford today went into consultation with the federal commissioner in an effort to reduce the amount due on her federal inheritance tax on the same ground.

LICENSE OFFICIALS IGNORE SUBPOENAS IN PAY ROLL INQUIRY

Officials of the city license bureau failed to respond to subpoenas issued yesterday by the state's attorney's office calling for their presence at the office of Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge for interrogation regarding the work done by pay rollers in this department. If they do not voluntarily appear this morning with the pay roll records legal grand jury subpoenas will be issued and then if they are not obeyed contempt proceedings could be instituted.

The subpoenas disregarded yesterday are not considered in law as legal subpoenas.

Bernard Roman, superintendent of the bureau, was served both with a duces tecum subpoena calling for his records as well as one calling for his personal appearance. George Hahn, an employé; Victor Cerny, chief license clerk, and Fred Fishman, assistant superintendent of the department, as well as Michael Carozzo, president of the Street Sweepers' union and a union of license employés, completed the list of those summoned.

First Assistant Corporation Counsel James Breen telephoned to the prosecutor's office to say that he had instructed Roman not to obey the duces tecum subpoena because it was not properly issued by a court. To do so, Attorney Breen pointed out, would leave the city with no redress if the records were lost.

The purpose of the newly launched city hall inquiry by the prosecutor's office is to determine the truth of charges made that many of the employés are just on the pay roll without doing any real work in return. Carozzo is the man who formed the union, it is said.

OBERTA'S IN NO HURRY TO DEFEND HIS GOOD NAME

Asks Slander Suit Delay; Judge Refuses.

John [Dingbat] Oberta, formerly known as a pal and lieutenant of Joe Saltis, south side beer baron, yesterday failed to appear in Superior Judge David's courtroom to defend his reputation against the alleged slanders of Hugh Norris, his unsuccessful opponent for the post of Republican committeeman of the 13th ward at the primary of April, 1928. In August, 1928, Oberta filed a $25,000 damage suit against Norris after brooding over statements reported to have been made by his rival.

Norris, former city oil inspector, appeared with his attorneys, Cochrane and George, and announced that he was ready for trial. Attorney Louis Greenberg, representing Oberta, then informed the court that his client wished a delay of a month or even several months.

"What's that?" Judge David shouted. "Courts are being criticized for not sitting throughout the day. This case is over a year old. What is there to it? Read the bill."

Reads Oberta's Plaint.

"The defendant, John Oberta, is a person of good name, credit, and reputation and deservedly enjoyed the esteem and good opinion of his neighbors and other worthy citizens," began Bailiff David Eichner with a smile.

"Yet the plaintiff, Hugh Norris, well knowing this, contriving maliciously to bring him into public scandal and disgrace, circulated the statement on April 7, 1928, that John Oberta, accompanied by one Joe Saltis and gangs of armed men in his employ, circulated through the ward intimidating judges, clerks, voters, poll watchers and challengers for the purpose of securing his election as committeeman of the 13th ward."

Sets Case for Monday.

"That's enough," said Judge David with a laugh. "I see nothing in that but a discussion of politics. Certainly such things as political discussions are not to be the subject of court action. The bill does not allege that there was an election. I will not continue the case. Put it on the head of Monday's call. Gentlemen, be prepared to continue the discussion before me Monday."

Attorneys for Norris declared that they were ready to prove the truth of the statements said to have been made by their client. They promised a review of witnesses of terrorism tactics at the April primary in Oberta's ward.

Bandits Get $1,974 from Office of Fish Company

Three bandits, armed with a sawed off shotgun and revolvers, last night escaped with $1,974 in cash and $1,185 in checks after threatening an official and three employés of Robbins, Inc., wholesale fish dealers, in the company's office at Kinzie and Kingsbury streets. The robbers entered the office on the second floor of the building while William Holmes, 3404 North Springfield avenue, the secretary and treasurer, and three employés were closing up the day's business.

ACTRESS' CHILD WINS $10,000 FOR MOTHER'S DEATH

Suit Is Based on Auto Accident.

Seven year old Jeanne Claire yesterday was awarded $10,000 damages for the death of her mother, Rosalie Claire, actress, who was killed in an automobile accident on June 17, 1928.

A jury in Superior Judge David's court returned a sealed verdict against Julian Black, colored, owner of the Apex night club. Miss Claire was fatally injured when she was riding in a car, driven by Black, after a party at the night club. The car crashed into an electric light pole in Grant park. The daughter is the child of her first husband, John Weiner, a New York manufacturer. He was divorced by Miss Claire. The child was brought from New York by her attorneys, Murphy O'Tate and George N. Welch.

Woman Critically Injured.

A woman identified as Mrs. Lydia Schamplin, 70 years old, 6914 Wentworth avenue, was injured probably fatally last night when she was struck by an automobile driven by Timothy Burke, 1122 South Mansfield avenue, at Adams and Laflin streets. She was taken to the county hospital, suffering from a skull fracture. Witnesses said she walked into the side of Burk's car, but he was held at the Des Plaines street police station.

With no deaths reported yesterday, the 1930 Cook county motor toll remained at 27.

Charge Fireman with Manslaughter.

Francis Felker, 9004 South Throop street, a city fireman, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Peter Kunz, 45 years old, 5004 Justine street. Kunz was fatally injured by Felker's car on Jan. 4.

Peter Perolat, 4408 Bernard avenue, and Joseph Knight, 2842 South Dearborn street, were sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and fined $100 and costs on charges of driving while intoxicated by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli. The two swelled the judge's total of jail sentences for this offense to 15 in his two weeks in the Speeders' court.

Colonel Grubbs Injured When Engine Hits His Car

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Col. D. C. T. Grubbs, U. S. A., second in command of the Seventh corps area, was seriously injured here late today when the car he was driving was struck by a freight locomotive.

1929 BIRTH RATE SHOWS DECLINE OF 1.6 PER CENT

Ratio Continues Drop of Recent Years.

A decline in the birth rate during 1929 of 1.6 per cent under that of 1928 was indicated yesterday by figures prepared by officials of the health department on the stork's activities in Chicago. The birth rate per 1,000 population was 18.7 in 1928, while the nearly complete figures show that it will be 18.4 for last year.

The decrease in the number of babies in proportion to the population is in accord with the records for the first thirty years of the 20th century. In 1899 there were 27 babies born for each 1,000 population and the rate had dropped to 22.4 by the end of 1916.

Many reasons are advanced to account for the declining birth rate. Restricted immigration, spread of birth control information, increase in living standards, and the tendency of young married persons to live in the suburbs are a few.

The city's birth rate per 1,000 of population and the number of births for each year since 1921 is shown as follows:

Year.	Rate.	Births.
1923	19.4	55,935
1924	20.0	58,900
1925	19.9	59,639
1926	19.7	60,200
1927	19.6	60,888
1928	18.7	59,016
*1929	18.4	59,000

*The books of the health department are being kept open to record delayed reports of 1929 births. It is predicted by the health department that the final total will be 59,000.

National figures show that the decline is not peculiar to Chicago. In the United States registration area for births the rate was 25.1 in 1915 and only 20.6 in 1927.

VETERAN SLAIN BY MASKED MEN IN OWN KITCHEN

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Answering a knock at his kitchen door, Charles Getchell, 48, was confronted by two men, one masked, who shot him before his wife's eyes and left him dying in his home here tonight. He was dead a few minutes later, a bullet through his chest.

Getchell, world war veteran, who had been receiving treatments at the U. S. Veterans hospital at Fort Snelling, was sitting in his home when the knock at the door was heard. Getchell went to the door.

Bearing revolvers, the two slayers walked in.

"Are you Charles Getchell," one of the men is said to have inquired. The veteran said he was.

Getchell, unable to work, had been selling liquor in his home, police were told, and was believed to have incurred the enmity of other bootleggers.

The widow said her husband had quarreled with two men at the house Tuesday night.

Hamilton Club Members Give Party for Governor

Five hundred members of the Hamilton club last night gave a dinner and dance in compliment to Gov. Emmerson. The governor was given two tables, one a replica of a table used by George Washington in his home at Mount Vernon. The second gift was a round, mahogany tilting table, the original of which formerly was the property of Franklin Buchanan, admiral of the confederate navy.

ALDERMEN VOICE DOUBT ON SCHOOL BUDGET LEGALITY

Wary About Approving $101,786,408 Request.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, asserted yesterday that he desired to be shown that the $101,786,408 school board budget is legal before he supports it.

"I've been told it is mandatory upon the city council to pass the school board levy when the board requests it," said Clark, "but I cannot believe that the council is required to approve an illegal act. Perhaps the school budget is legal, but a question has been raised regarding its validity, and the council should know whether that is well founded before its approves."

"It is the duty of the board to show that budget is legal," added Ald. Maypole (28th).

Bowler Backs Clark.

"I will accept Ald. Clark's judgment," commented Ald. J. B. Bowler (35th). "A doubtful tax levy would curtail or prevent the sale of tax anticipation warrants. If that should happen the schools would be without money."

"I have several thousand school children in my ward," said Ald. Rowan (19th), "and I stand for a valid tax levy."

"In the six schools in my ward are 1,400 children," asserted Ald. Seif (36th), "and I want them fully protected."

"I will certainly serve the interests of the more than 6,000 school children in my ward," said Ald. D. A. Horan (31st). Others made like comments.

When the school budget was passed early yesterday morning one of the school trustees asked Frank Righeimer, an attorney for the board, whether the budget was legal.

"It is legal so far as I know," answered Righeimer. Another trustee protested that the board should be given more complete assurance, and then Attorney Righeimer said: "It's legal."

Income Is Questioned.

The main feature of the budget questioned is the board's estimate of its income this year from taxes for its educational fund. The board's budget places the amount at $46,901,555. The board says that the "estimated resources include the full amount of the 1930 tax levy." The $46,901,555 is that full tax levy minus 10 per cent loss and cost of collection. The 1930 taxes cannot be collected until next year and the board consequently cannot get that $46,901,555. It has the right, however, to issue tax anticipation warrants against 75 per cent of the tax levy, which percentage, the board's own expert accountants have said, amounts to $39,100,000. It follows that in this one item the board has inflated its revenues $7,800,000.

The trouble arises from the fact that the last legislature placed sundry requirements and restrictions upon the school board in the making of a budget. It prohibits the board from estimating revenue which is not "available" and "applicable." It is contended that receipts from a tax loan which the law prohibits the board from making cannot be classed as "available" revenue.

Points Out Requirements.

So seriously did Attorney Righeimer consider this new law that he sent a letter, dated Aug. 14 last, to President Caldwell of the board of education, directing his attention to "salient requirements" of it. The first of these named is: "The budget must present a complete financial plan for the current fiscal year."

It is contended that a "complete financial plan" would disclose how the board proposes to get the extra $7,800,000, which the law says it cannot legally borrow.

Another "salient requirement" pointed out by Mr. Righeimer says that "such estimates [of revenue] shall not exceed the amounts which shall be produced or derived from levies lawfully made for such current year pursuant to provisions of section 189."

$10,000 Penalty Cited.

Near the close of his letter, Mr. Righeimer called attention to the statute which provides a penalty of $10,000 and possible removal from office of any person holding any office—whether state, county or municipal—who shall be found guilty of any palpable omission of duty, willful or corrupt oppression, malfeasance or partiality, and a number of other offenses. He also points out the financial liability of officers who appropriate funds illegally.

The city council intends to complete its corporate budget making next Saturday. It is not expected that the mayor will veto much of the amended budget. If, however, he does disapprove a large portion, the council will amend that portion and readopt it. Then it will adjourn. The best indication that the mayor does not intend anything drastic was the ticker announcement to the police last night that they would be paid next on Feb. 5.

May Get Tax Loans.

If the corporate budget is disposed of, as well as the school board budget, the council may then pass its tax levies. They must be published for ten days, which would make them effective Jan. 31. Then tax anticipation warrants may be issued. The controller would then have five days in which to sell them, get the money in the bank and issue the pay checks. However, he must sell more than $11,000,000 worth of the warrants because that amount will be needed to repay the trust and other funds from which money was borrowed last year.

Children to Travel to Berlin Alone

DELAY OPENING OF 3 POLICE RADIO STATIONS TO APRIL

The proposed police radio system of three low wave broadcast stations, in communication with 100 police cars equipped with receivers, will not be in operation until April 1, according to Lieut. Kenneth Cox of Detroit, who was loaned to the Chicago force to supervise the new crime prevention weapon.

The original plan called for the assembly of one of the station by police mechanics and operation of it while the other two were being installed. The plan, however, was abandoned after the police department officials had been notified that they would be infringing patent rights. By April 1 the three stations, which will broadcast to police cars in the three geographical divisions of the city, will be in working order, and crime flashes will be sent over them instead of over the teletype machine.

Aged Six and Four

Two little sisters, carrying their dolls, started out all alone yesterday to visit their grandparents in Berlin, Germany. They were Gerda, 6 years old, and Elizabeth, 4 years old, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Klautsch, 611 Dole avenue. The Travelers' Aid put them aboard train at the Union station. The New York Travelers' Aid will meet them today and see that they are safely started on their ocean trip on the steamship Muenchen.

FACE PAY ROLL SHORTAGE

The several thousand civil service employes of the board of education probably will not receive their pay checks, due tomorrow, it was indicated yesterday. According to figures of the board's auditor, the pay roll will total approximately $400,000 as compared with about $300,000 now in the school treasury. It was also said the total cash on hand is $15,000 short of the amount needed to meet unpaid bills caried over from last month.

President Caldwell has said the board will be unable to meet any more pay rolls until the 1930 tax anticipation warrants can be issued, which will not be before Jan. 31.

5 DIE IN GERMAN RIOTS IN MEMORY OF RED MARTYRS

Liebknecht Anniversary Causes Outbursts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The tenth anniversary of the death of Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht, the communist leaders who were killed in the German revolution of 1919, was turned into a day of monster Red demonstrations. Four were killed at Hartmannsdorf, near Chemnitz, and one in Worms when the communists tried to storm the police headquarters according to the orders of their Red leaders.

In Berlin 14,000 policemen were patrolling the streets tonight to keep an eye on the communists after the chief of police's ban on their public demonstrations.

Thousands Stone Police.

At Hartmannsdorf thousands of communists tried to overwhelm 30 policemen after bombarding them with stones. The police fired on the mob and as a result four of the communists are dead and 20 dangerously wounded. Half a dozen police officers were injured during the battle.

At Worms, nestling around the famous old cathedral, one of the gems of architecture of the middle ages, the communists organized a similar battle in which one man was killed.

Berlin at 10 o'clock tonight reported minor clashes in all parts of the town. In three cases the police were compelled to fire volleys to scare the mob. Among the scores who were arrested are two communist members of the Reichstag who were seized by the police as they tried to browbeat some workers to join in the open air demonstration which had been forbidden by the chief of police.

Fascists Incite Reds to Trouble.

The National Socialists, Hitlerites and Fascisti are trying to foment a regular battle with the communists since one of their Fascist brethren, Horst Wessel, was shot in his room and nearly killed by three communists last night. The police spread the report that Wessel was wounded in the course of a quarrel with the gypsy lover of his landlady. They spread this story in order to keep the Fascists from taking the trail to get blood for blood.

The general atmosphere of dissatisfaction continues to become a shade stronger each day since the number of unemployed continues to increase. On Jan. 8 more than 1,920,000 men and women figured in the official list of those receiving doles from the government and from unemployment insurance companies.

MINE SEARCHERS FIND BODIES OF 2 TRAPPED BY FIRE

Dixon, Ky., Jan. 15.—(AP)—After desperate digging and a search following the reopening of the Carl Melton coal mine, sealed following a fire Saturday, the bodies of two entombed men were recovered tonight.

Rescue workers had hoped the men might be found alive, though air had been cut off from the shaft nearly four days.

A party of five men, led by A. D. Sisk, head of a mine rescue crew from Madisonville, found the bodies of the two workers—Aaron Bridewell, 31, and Dorris Woods, 40. They were in a rear gallery of the small mine, which is in the side of a hill several miles from here.

REFUSE INDIVIDUAL HEARINGS IN LOOP REASSESSMENT FIGHT

Chairman William H. Weber of the board of review yesterday declared that the reviewers will not delay the reassessment six months by giving an individual hearing to each of the 1,700 complaints filed against the reassessment valuations of loop property in behalf of the school board by Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan. All of the complaints, which cover every parcel of property in the loop, will be heard at one hearing Monday.

"The board cannot take the time or the expense for holding a hearing on each complaint," Chairman Weber said. "To delay this reassessment by six months, which time would be needed, would work havoc with the financial condition of city and state governments. We would be attacked on all sides."

Notice was served on the property owners to be present. The board probably will take the complaints under advisement. Attorney Sullivan asks that loop valuations be increased by $300,000,000.

WOMAN TAKEN WITH TWO MEN SHOT IN NECK

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Sullen and defiant, two men and a woman captured by a posse after an exciting chase through mountainous Arizona country, were interrogated in jail here today in connection with the slaying of a Pennsylvania policeman, a Texas bank holdup and a series of robberies in Pennsylvania and Arizona.

The woman, who said last night she was Irene Schroeder, blonde "trigger woman" of Benwood, W. Va., alternately admitted and denied her identity today. Examination revealed a flesh wound in the neck, caused by a rifle bullet when she and her companions attempted to fight it out with the posse.

The two men are M. Glen Dague, alias Albert Winthrop, and Joe E. Wells. The latter has a bullet wound in his right leg, and officers pointed out that one of the robbers who held up a Coleman, Tex., bank recently had been shot. Dague and the woman are suspected of slaying Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania highway police, last Dec. 27.

SEEK $100,000 OF FIRE VICTIM IN BANK VAULT

The safety deposit box in the West Side Trust and Savings bank used by Andrew Klor, 67 years old, who was found burned to death yesterday in his room at 1252 South Sangamon street, will be opened by the public administrator's office today to discover $100,000 in real estate bonds and mortgages believed to have been owned by him. Receipts for the property were found when the office took over his effects.

Klor was a bachelor without living relatives. Prior to his death he had said that he had willed his property to friends. A search will also be made for his will.

Police found a revolver, from which two shots had been fired, beside his partially charred body. A post-mortem examination revealed no bullet wounds. It is believed that Klor set fire to his bedclothes with suicidal intent. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of burned to death by a fire of unknown origin.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Miss Harriet Schwartz, 60 years old, was found dead in bed yesterday in her room at 6032 Langley avenue, where she was employed as a maid.

SIFT DEATH OF RICH DIVORCEE IN MAN'S FLAT

Her Pearls Knotted About Her Throat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harriet M. Adler, 37, estranged wife of a wealthy broker, was found dead today in the penthouse apartment of Dudley Murphy, motion picture director, in East 41st street. Her neck was marked by the imprint of a heavy string of pearls, but the police recorded the case as "not suspicious" and attributed her death to heart disease rather than strangulation.

Maid Finds Body.

Murphy's Negro maid found Mrs. Adler lying fully clothed on a couch in the living room. The dead woman's head was hanging over the edge of the couch and the back of her neck was deeply marked by the imprint of her necklace. She wore three large diamond rings, a diamond wrist watch and other expensive jewelry.

The maid waited an hour before she called Murphy and his friend, John Barbour, who were asleep in the bedroom. This was at 9:30 a. m. The police were not notified until noon.

In the meantime Dr. A. Greenblatt was called. He pronounced the woman dead, probably from heart disease, and notified Dr. Henry Weinberg of the medical examiner's office. Dr. Weinberg expressed the opinion that the marks on Mrs. Adler's neck might have been made by her weight resting on the pearls. He ordered an autopsy to be performed tomorrow.

Murphy Not Detained.

Murphy was questioned by detectives, but was not detained. He told them Mrs. Adler was a "cocktail party acquaintance" who had called at his apartment about 1:30 a. m. while he was away. His friend Barbour, who was waiting for him, admitted her. Murphy said Mrs. Adler was intoxicated. When he arrived at his apartment Murphy saw Mrs. Adler was in no condition to go home, so he and Barbour retired, leaving her on the couch.

John Barbour, who was described as "an advertising man," told police Mrs. Adler had telephoned twice during the evening before calling.

Find Kisses Carry Plague, Fatal to 7 in South Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Jan. 15.—The South African department of health today blamed kissing of sick persons as the cause of the spread of a strange plague in the Barkly West district of Cape colony. Seven Europeans have already died of it. The first case was found to have been contracted from a dead hare. The department warned against touching hares or rats on the veld as their fur was full of plague carrying fleas.

A. J. Berens Sues Another Brokerage; Asks $100,000

Andrew J. Berens, president of A. J. Berens Co., brokers at 105 West Adams street, yesterday filed the praecipe of a $100,000 damage suit in the superior court against the brokerage firm of Craig & Nelson, 120 South La Salle street. Attorney D. F. Bustin, representing Berens, said Craig & Nelson attached Berens' bank account and memberships on the Chicago stock exchange and board of trade to collect an alleged commission of $3,500.

WABASH FLOODS NORTH PART OF VINCENNES, IND.

500 Persons Homeless as Levee Fails.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Five hundred persons were homeless here tonight as the swollen Wabash river continued its rampage and swept over a levee in the northern part of the city, flooding a score of city blocks. Firemen, policemen and the American Legion were aiding the flood victims to remove their belongings from their flooded homes and finding shelter for the homeless.

Extremely cold weather added to the discomfort and suffering.

At Decker, ten miles south of here, the river broke through the levee and flooded 5,000 acres of valuable farm land. U. S. Highway No. 41, from Chicago to Atlanta, was closed by the break in the levee, the water inundating a long stretch of the road.

Crest Expected Friday.

With the havoc caused by the flood steadily growing, the river continued to rise and tonight had reached a stage of 24.8 feet at Vincennes, 6.8 feet above flood stage. The crest is not expected before Friday.

At Hazleton laborers were working desperately in an effort to save the bridge over the White river, which was being threatened as the water began eating out a fill at the approach.

Troops Guard Bridge.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Indiana national guardsmen tonight were patroling the approaches to the Hazleton bridge across White river, as the result of reported threats to dynamite the grade near the bridge because it is sending water from the flooded Wabash back against the dam at Brevoorts which protects thousands of acres of farm land.

Residents in the vicinity of the dam, about 5 miles upstream, fear that water will be backed up to such an extent that thousands of additional acres of land will be inundated.

Flood conditions already are the worst in the history of the lower Wabash. Colder weather lessened precipitation, but both Wabash and White rivers still are being fed by flood waters and are expected to rise still further.

A detachment of two officers and twenty-five men of battery D, 139th field artillery, at Princeton was sent to the Hazleton bridge despite the protests of Mayor J. W. Kemmell of Vincennes and Sheriff A. J. Kruse of Knox county to Gov. Harry G. Leslie.

John J. Brown, director of the state highway commission, asked for troops after what he said were reliable reports that Hazleton citizens were threatening to dynamite the bridge. Citizens are reported to have clashed with state highway crews strengthening the Hazleton fill.

Large Areas Flooded.

Many thousands of acres of land in Indiana have been flooded. Hundreds of families have been forced to flee their homes. Boats have been used to rescue many marooned persons and to remove stock to higher ground. Heavy damage has been done to crops, roads, and buildings.

Flood conditions on the Wabash at Peru and Logansport are menacing. Conditions there indicate that the crest at Terre Haute and Vincennes will not be reached for several days. Bluffton, near the source of the Wabash, however, reported the water receding.

Many homes in Peru were surrounded by water and boats were used by the townspeople.

Two towns in Posey county have been hard hit by the high water. Crawleyville has been deserted by its inhabitants. Griffin, recently visited by a tornado, is isolated.

Both forks of White river in the vicinity of Washington are rising steadily. The east fork was within a few feet of the bridge at Rogers.

Many families along the river near Clinton have been forced from their homes. The town was cut off from Terre Haute when highway 63 was closed by state officials. High water has forced the Clinton coal mines to cease operations.

Lower Floors Flooded.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 15.—(AP)—More than 200 resident of Ottawa, O., were forced to the second floors of their homes today as the flood waters from the Blanchard river and Tawa creek continued to rise rapidly.

Suffering from lack of heat and nearing the end of their food supplies, the residents were appealing for aid and plans were being laid to either remove those marooned by boats or else take food to them.

Boats were used at Napoleon, O., to rescue fifteen families when the flood waters surrounded their homes.

Missouri Roads Flooded.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Highway traffic in southeast Missouri was partly paralyzed today by the worst flood in the Black and St. Francis rivers within a year.

Highway No. 60 at Fisk was 36 inches under water, while highway No. 67 north of here was covered at three places, halting all traffic.

Minnesota Schools Closed.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Drifted roads, closed grade schools and disrupted bus traffic were the aftermaths today of the severest storm of the winter which spread snow over Minnesota from a depth of a few inches to more than a foot.

The princess joined other nurses assigned to the operating room and worked satisfactorily.

BLAINE ARGUES WITH SMOOT OVER "SORDID" SUGAR

Pictures "Warped Little Hands" in Beet Fields.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Labor conditions in western sugar beet fields figured today in the debate in the senate on the tariff on sugar. Senator Blaine [Rep., Wis.], who opposed an increase in duty, charged that Mexican and other foreign women and children were required to work under unsatisfactory conditions. His charges were denied by Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], advocate of higher duties, who also took occasion to explain his own interest in the sugar industry.

"So far as my financial interest in the sugar business is concerned I have 440 shares," said Senator Smoot. "Two hundred and ninety of those shares came from my father's estate and the rest I bought and paid $1,500 for. They are shares in a plant that went to Idaho and failed. If the senator wants to know what stock is worth today, if he will look at a paper he will see that it is offered for 90 cents a share. That is all the financial interest I have."

Debate "Sordid" Views.

Senator Blaine said he was "not interested in the sordid view of this matter taken by the senator from Utah."

"But the senator made the charge that I was financially interested," replied Senator Smoot.

"I made the charge and I repeat it," continued Senator Blaine, "that women, Mexican women, Polish women, Russian women, are employed in the beet fields. Wherever those nationalities exist, whether in our own section of the country, in Colorado, or in Utah, I make the charge—and I know the senator cannot dispute it—that little children are employed in those beet fields wherever they exist. I make the charge, and the senator knows it is true, that those little children must crawl on their hands and knees literally miles upon miles in the damp and soggy soil of the beet fields. I know, and the senator knows, that the fingers and hands of those little children are warped because of their labor in the beet fields under those conditions."

"Not a Fact," Smoot Says.

Senator Smoot interrupted to assert that "the senator from Utah does not know any such thing and the senator from Wisconsin does not know it, because it is not the fact."

"I know," added Senator Smoot, "that the senator cannot find a single, solitary child with warped fingers because of picking one little, thin beet sprout."

Others who took part in the debate included Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.], who opposed any increase in duty, and Senator Fess [Rep., O.], who favored the finance committee amendment increasing the duty.

The sugar controversy will come to a head tomorrow. It is expected that the Harrison amendment for the retention of present duties will be rejected by a narrow vote and that the committee amendment will be agreed to. A bounty proposal may come to a vote, but is certain to be rejected.

ISLANDERS, CUT OFF BY GALE FOR FIVE WEEKS, GET MEAT, TOBACCO

PULLHELI, Carnarvonshire, Wales, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The entire population of 43 Bardsey island rushed to the water's edge today to greet a lifeboat bringing stocks of tobacco and meat, from which they had been cut off for five weeks by successive gales and storms.

Several previous attempts to send over supplies from this port had failed. Today a lifeboat was again loaded with foodstuffs and Christmas parcels and, to the accompaniment of the cheers of the townspeople, put out across the dangerous strait for the island. This town then waited in anxiety until sighting of the returning boat told that its mission had been successful. The islanders, however, had been in no danger of starvation, for they had their own farm produce and dried fish caught before the storms began.

Bardsey island is one of the least known parts of the British isles. It preserves ancient customs and is more or less patriarchally ruled by a "king" whom it elects. Its area of 444 acres once supported a much larger population but in recent years the number of residents has been steadily declining.

LOBBYIST DISILLUSIONED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Peter C. Fletcher of New York, president of the Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., is one disillusioned lobbyist. He admitted to the senate's lobby investigating committee, today, that most of the $37,000 spent by his organization and the so-called silk defense committee, to warn congress and the public of the "iniquities" of the pending tariff bill, was money wasted.

"Have you ever consulted a star gazer or an astrologer?" asked Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], after Fletcher had recounted the importers' attempts, through a high pressure publicity bureau, to mold public opinion against increased duties or the substitution of the so-called United States valuation system for the prevailing foreign valuation basis.

"I shall do so next time," asserted Fletcher, who added that, in his opinion, the whole campaign had been "pretty much of a washout."

Beyond their general assertion that the money was used, in addition to the publicity bureau fees, to defray the printing of briefs, traveling expenses, and office expenses in New York and Washington, Fletcher, Samuel J. Kridel, chairman of the silk defense committee, and A. C. Stapfer, tariff expert for the latter group, could recall nothing more than the vaguest details of the expenditures. The council and the silk defense committee each spent approximately $18,500, according to the witnesses.

Fletcher, who indignantly had denied seeking to "influence legislation," admitted dispatching a telegram to all council members, urging them to send telegrams couched "in strongest possible terms" to congressmen and senators protesting against the "radical and revolutionary" proposal to assess customs duties on the United States value of the imports.

"Then," said Senator Robinson, "your campaign was a campaign to influence legislation, wasn't it?"

"I should say it was," answered Fletcher, reluctantly.

$12,500 Contract Revealed.

Kridel, who declared he was drafted as chairman of the Silk Defense committee largely because of the successful battle he waged for the industry in the 1922 tariff fight, told of a contract with Stapfer under which the latter was guaranteed $12,500 and an unlimited expense account to manage the defense committee's campaign.

Stapfer, who is president and general manager of a Rhode Island silk factory, has drawn, according to his own testimony, $4,000 salary and approximately $4,000 in expenses, but, he added, he "never" bothered to keep a record of the expenditures."

Dr. E. P. Pickrell, representative of German dye interests, alleged to have used the office of Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] as his own, angrily denied, when questioned by Senator Robinson that he had "culled" his correspondence before turning the files over to the senate investigating committee. Pickrell was ordered to reappear before the committee next Wednesday, when Senator King's former secretary, Samuel Russell of Salt Lake City, Utah, is to be examined.

BURNS FATAL TO AGED WOMAN.

Mrs. Emma Fuchs, 70 years old, 1905 South Loomis street, died yesterday in the county hospital of burns received on last Thursday when a sleeve of her dress was ignited while she was lighting a fire with a candle.

WOMAN ADMITS BANK ROBBERY; IS SENTENCED

Adrian, Mich., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Thelma Sutton Woodard changed her plea from not guilty to guilty here today in connection with the robbery of the Exchange Bank of Clayton and was sentenced by Judge G. Arthur Rathbun to serve from 5 to 10 years in the Detroit House of Correction.

Mrs. Woodard, then Thelma Sutton, was alleged by the state to have driven the car in which James H. Straley and Rollo Haroff escaped after holding up the Clayton bank and taking about $1,300. The men were sentenced after pleas of guilty last month to from 20 to 40 years in state prison.

The woman was married last Thanksgiving day, only two days before her arrest for the robbery.

Henrici's after the opera

¶ For reasons of satisfaction in food, service and environment, patrons of the theater in all its varied forms have long favored Henrici's as the gathering place for the wind-up of the evening's entertainment.

☆ ☆ ☆

¶ No other establishment of the kind in all Chicago is so largely patronized by those who support theatrical and operatic performances.

☆ ☆ ☆

¶ Especially since the opening of the new home of opera, only a few blocks away, opera patrons have found it very convenient to stop at Henrici's for a delicious little repast on their way home. The absence of "orchestral din" is no doubt an additional reason for patronage by those coming from a glorious evening of song.

☆ ☆ ☆

¶ Distinctively, Henrici's is a place to which people come for good food well served in a pleasing environment, at prices not excessive.

☆ ☆ ☆

Co. Chairman Shunned by Barrett, Brundage.

BY PARKE BROWN.

On the face of the returns Chairman Snow of the Republican county central committee beat his recent allies, Charles V. Barrett and Edward J. Brundage, to a standstill at the organization caucus he held yesterday. But consequent statements from the supposedly vanquished indicated that the victory may not have been so complete as it appeared.

At the meeting in the Hotel La Salle, Snow's program went through smoothly. The Brundage committeemen were absent, but all the Barrett ward leaders except Barrett himself and one other were present. One of them made the motion for the creation of a slate making committee and it was adopted without dissent.

But as soon as he heard that he had been named as one of the candidate pickers Barrett told newspaper men that he would not act on the committee. And Brundage publicly affirmed his previous private statements that he had washed his hands of the Snow organization.

Brundage Keeps Out.

"When I recently entered into an understanding with Snow," said the former attorney general, "it was with a distinct agreement that a committee of outstanding citizens would be authorized to name a high class ticket and that the whole effort would be for the regeneration of the party in Cook county.

"Now that I have been convinced that the real purpose is to perpetuate the old management of the committee I have washed my hands of the whole affair. Our organization will place candidates in the field for the places to which we think the north side is entitled."

Barrett said he had not been consulted about being placed on the slate committee.

"I have just heard of it," he said after the meeting, "and I can say now that I shall not serve on it."

See Barrett Overridden.

These developments were taken to show that in a conference Tuesday night of west side committeemen believed to be loyal to Barrett as a leader his wishes concerning complete divorce from anything smacking of an effort to aid in a continuation of the Thompson city hall machine had been overridden by a majority of those present. At least it was reported that the committeemen's decision was not to remain away from the meeting.

But that something more than this occurred was believed obvious when, after an opening statement by Chairman Snow, the motion for the appointment of the slate committee came from Eden T. Brekke of the 37th ward, recently appointed by Gov. Emmerson on the west park board, supposedly somewhat through the influence of Barrett.

A theory openly voiced later was that Brekke and representatives of some of the wards in his neighborhood had been won over by Snow by a promise to give the northwest side the same representation on the committee as the north, south, and west sides.

Snow's appointees for that section were Brekke and Le Roy Millner, a member of the city zoning board of appeals. The north side representatives were Ald. W. H. Feigenbutz, a Thompson supporter in the council, and Charles E. Peace of the Pike organization in the 42d ward. The south siders named were Gotthard H. Dahlberg, attorney for municipal board of local improvements, and W. J. Balmer, city commissioner of public service. The west siders were Barrett and Edward F. Moore, deputy commissioner of public works. With the exception of Barrett and Brekke, therefore, it was considered a city hall committee.

Unveil Ward Memorial Tablet

Gave $8,000,000

From the point of view of Mrs. A. Montgomery Ward, who made gifts totaling $8,000,000 to Northwestern university, she gave nothing to the institution, President Walter Dill Scott declared yesterday in dedicating the bas-relief of Mr. and Mrs. Ward in the foyer of the Montgomery Ward Memorial building on McKinlock campus. The tablet was unveiled by Miss Marjorie Montgomery Ward, only daughter of the donor.

"Mrs. Ward desired," President Scott said, "to purchase a memorial for her husband, and aid for her fellow man. She felt that in Northwestern she obtained the services of an efficient board of trustees, the services of an excellent medical and dental faculty, and the prestige of the good name of a great university in carrying out the purpose which was hers. She felt that she received greater returns per dollar in this investment than in any she ever made.

"The memorial building typifies the accomplishments of the life of Montgomery Ward, and fittingly identifies him with the city in whose beauty and well being she took such pride."

BRIDGE OPENINGS IN 1929 CLIMB TO NEW RECORD

Up 122,772 Times; Cost Set at $860,500.

Chicago bridge openings in 1929 reached a new total far in excess of those recorded in any of the preceding four years. The fifty bridges were swung 122,772 times in 1929, at an approximate cost of $860,000, according to the report of Harbor Master Charles J. Agnew, completed yesterday.

To the taxpayer-pedestrian who has waited at the bridge barriers the report also shows a devastating amount of wasted time. The 122,772 openings consumed 434,453 minutes, or 7,240 hours, or 301 2-3 days, or 82.4 per cent of a year. Thus, during more than four-fifths of 1929 one bridge or another was open, holding up traffic until the tug, motor launch, or sand scow passed under.

Year.	Openings.	Cost.
1925	94,685	$701,731
1926	94,433	704,810
1927	94,968	784,219
1928	105,000	837,432
1929	122,772	860,500

City officials attribute the enormous increase in openings during the last year to two causes: high waters and the use of tugs in the river which are too high to pass under the bridges, when without a tow. Three tugs, the James R. Sinclair, Waukegan and New Jersey, all owned by an absentee owner company—the Great Lakes Towing company of Cleveland—have been pointed out as the worst offenders in this respect. Backing that opinion are the semi-monthly reports of bridge tenders which give the name of each boat causing an opening. The three towboats are named in column after column.

Three Other Offenders.

But almost matching them in the recurrence of names are the dredges Sandmaster [famed for its bridge banging proclivities], the American and the Gilbert. The entire six have steamed in and out of the river numberless times while the spans shot upward all along the stretch, and passenger and vehicular travel has been at a standstill.

River traffic is almost at a standstill, but the point now worrying officials is what to expect when shipping starts in the spring and the tall tugs are brought back into service. The Great Lakes Towing company has refused to consider replacing the boats, which are from one to one and one-half feet higher than the average Chicago owned tug, with increases being noted in both cost and time lost each year, the problem threatens to become more tangled during the approaching season.

NEWSPAPER OFFICIALS ATTEND BANQUET OF CARRIERS' ASSOCIATION

Executive officials of Chicago newspapers were guests last night at the 16th annual banquet given by the Chicago Newspaper Carriers' association in the red room of the Congress hotel. Joseph Epstein, president of the organization, presided.

Approximately 640 newspaper carriers, members of their families and friends attended the celebration. An extensive program of vaudeville was a feature. The entertainment was composed of singing, dancing, and musical acts. After the vaudeville performance the carriers and their friends danced to the music of Lou Diamond's orchestra.

The carriers' association was organized in 1900 and today is classed as one of the foremost of its kind in the country.

$2,235 Gems Stolen from Doctor's Home in Evanston

The theft of jewelry valued at $2,235 from his home at 1134 Hinman avenue, Evanston, was reported to the Evanston police yesterday by Dr. Frank C. Dakin. Dr. Dakin said the theft occurred between Nov. 26, when his wife, Mrs. Belle Dakin, placed the jewelry in a dresser drawer, and Dec. 23, when she discovered its loss. No report was made, he said, because Mrs. Dakin thought at first that she had mislaid it.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

U. S. INFERIORITY 100,000 TONS IN NAVIES' RIVALRY

Comparison Shows Other Powers' Advantage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Comparative figures, prepared for the American delegation to the five power naval reduction conference by the navy department, disclose that the United States will enter the London parley more than 100,000 tons inferior to Great Britain in effective fighting ships, built, building, and authorized.

Counting effective American war ships under the age limit, and not marked for disposal as worthless for fighting purposes, the United States, on Jan. 1, 1930, had a total tonnage of 1,210,207 in the five main categories of battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, and submarines. This total was just 184,454 tons less than the combined British war ship tonnage which amounted to 1,394,661 tons for all classes of ships.

The American figures do not include 85,749 tons of submarines and destroyers that have been marked for disposal or stricken from the naval list within the last few weeks because of their worthlessness for use in modern warfare. Addition of these ships to the American total would bring British numerical supremacy in tonnages of all classes down to 100,000 tons.

Use Standard System.

By the use of the standard displacement system of measurement, American naval tonnages are cut down to some extent while British tonnages are increased. This system was adopted as standard in the Washington naval treaty in 1922 and it is planned to extend it to the new naval treaty if one is arrived at in London.

Comparison of the new naval statistices with those published by the navy a year ago, reveals the striking fact that a total of 224,357 tons of obsolete American naval craft have been ordered disposed of, or stricken entirely from the navy list since Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams took the oath of office last March. This total includes 138,608 tons of old cruisers, which for some years have not been counted in as a part of American effective cruiser strength.

Show Strides of Other Navies.

A consolidated summary of effective fighting vessels computed by the Navy league on the basis of figures furnished by the navy department, gives the United States 1,210,207 tons, the British Empire 1,394,681; Japan, 775,957; France, 579,847, and Italy, 344,976. These totals do not include ships on disposal lists.

The 1930 figures show a big disparity in American and British battleship tonnages and emphasize the great strides taken in submarine, cruiser, and destroyer construction by Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy since the 1922 conference limiting battleship tonnage. Both Japan and France have larger submarine tonnages of effective ships than has the United States. All the other powers have more new cruisers, submarines and destroyers than the United States.

New Comparison Shows U. S. Loss in Battleships

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The following table gives the tonnages of British and American battleships in standard displacement for the first time. The standard displacement of a ship is the displacement of the ship complete, fully manned, engined, and equipped, ready for sea, including all armament and ammunition, equipment, outfit, provisions, and fresh water for crew, miscellaneous stores and implements of every description that are to be carried in war, but with fuel and feed water excluded. Previous tables based on national systems of measurement, and excluding changes effected during battleship modernization, gave the American tonnage as 525,850 and the British as 556,350.

SEES U. S. READY TO HAND BRITAIN NEW NAVAL EDGE

Stands Behind London on Capital Ship Cut.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON [By radio], Jan. 15.—The American delegation, it was learned today, is going to the London naval conference committed in advance to the major propositions of the British naval limitations policies. America has made far reaching concessions to the British, while the British have made virtually none to the United States.

The British view on the navy reductions problem is now reflected to a significant extent in the attitude of the American delegation. The British, who can get along with fewer and smaller battleships because of the possession of 27 outlying naval bases, and who can ill afford to build capital ships, are making for reduction in the number and size of these vessels and the postponement of the replacement of existing units under the terms of the Washington treaty.

U. S. Concedes to British.

The American delegation has conceded its readiness to join the British in the curtailment of capital ships, despite the fact that without outlying naval bases, America must rely on he battleship fleet as a movable naval base.

The British are opposed to the reduction in size of the existing British cruiser fleet, and, moreover, propose to expand it from 320,000 tons to 339,000 tons. The American delegation now entertains no expectation in the reduction of cruisers. America, furthermore, has acquiesced in the British demand that the number of 10,000 ton cruisers be limited, and that no eight inch guns be allowed on cruisers under 10,000 tons.

At the Geneva conference in 1927, Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, one of the American delegates, stood like a stone wall against the British demand that United States forego the right to put its cruiser tonnage allotment into big cruisers, if Uncle Sam elected to, and against the limitation of the use of eight inch guns on 8,400 ton cruisers.

Britain's Big Merchant Fleet.

Such a limitation, he held, would insure superiority to Great Britain with her numerous bases and her numerous small cruisers mounting six inch guns, with her 237 fast merchant ships capable of conversion into six inch gun cruisers. The United States has only 70 such merchant vessels.

The only concession Great Britain has made is that the United States shall be permitted to have a preponderance of three 8 inch gun cruisers, but the joker in this connection is that these three are offset by the British possession of four 7½ inch gun cruisers.

The 8 inch gun limitation, as conceded by the Hoover administration, relegates the American navy to that inferiority against which Rear Admiral Jones warned at Geneva.

Mr. Stimson and his delegation will not reach London until Friday afternoon. Plans to get the liner to Plymouth at midnight tomorrow have been dropped. A head wind has slowed the ship's speed and Mr. Stimson has accepted Plymouth's invitation for a civic reception at 8 o'clock Friday morning. The ship is expected to reach Plymouth at 3 a. m. Friday.

Mrs. Mary Schoop, 2153 Warren avenue, yesterday filed a suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court against her husband, Joseph Schoop, a city fireman. The Schoops were married on Dec. 30, 1924, when she was but 14 years old. Their romance had begun in McKinley High school. Mrs. Schoop's bill, drawn by Attorney Harry X. Cole, charges the husband with kidnaping their 3 year old son, Joseph Jr., and locking her out of their home last December.

BRITISH TO ASK WORLD TO SCRAP BIG WARSHIPS

MacDonald Bares Policy for Naval Parley.

world question, according to the British thesis. What is desired is proportionate reductions of fleets and their distribution, so that in every nation and every part of the world there will be a force strong enough for defense, but not strong enough to attack a neighbor.

The Ideal Plan.

The ideal plan, then, Britain figures, is the diffusion of power to all, sufficient to protect food supplies and the trade routes necessary to national prosperity through the exports needed for the prosperity of industry, and so on. All must be balanced—none sacrificed, the nation contends.

After a few years of such a rationing of forces, the British government believes, public opinion will be tranquilized, and the effect of political agreements will be strengthened. When that time comes, Mr. MacDonald is confident, the world will be on the high road to complete disarmament.

In discussing method of disarmament, Mr. MacDonald favors reduction by categories rather than by global tonnage. It is not so much what the total tonnage is, as the use to which each ton is employed, is what matters, he argues.

The British government quite frankly believes that the time has come to abolish the battleship, both because of its cost—modern battleships cost Great Britain $34,000,000 each to build—but also because new conditions render it an ineffective weapon owing to the development of the air and submarine attack.

In the case of cruisers the conference will have to determine their numbers, sizes, and rations to nations, either in global tonnage or in classes of cruisers, while in the case of destroyers the dominating factor is their number, with size and effectiveness the factor in submarines. A strong drive will be made for the complete abolition of submarines, but failing in that the British government will propose a reduction to a minimum to an effective defensive scale.

Mr. MacDonald made clear that he did not favor the French plan of referring the decisions of the conference at London to the league of nations before putting them into effect.

Declaring that the "sacrifices are all on our side," Viscount Bridgeman, who was first lord of the admiralty in the late Conservative government, warned his successor, A. V. Alexander, of the peril to Great Britain's security by the proposed naval cuts, at a meeting of the London Naval league this afternoon.

"Mr. Alexander is hiding behind the admiralty," Vice Admiral E. A. Taylor charged at another naval gathering. "He said that the admiralty had agreed to 50 cruisers. I don't believe it!

"Admirals are constantly being told that war between Great Britain and America is impossible, and that Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover have said so. But they are merely pawns to be swept off the board when the time comes.

"If a war between Great Britain and America is impossible, why all of this anxiety that America achieve equality with the British empire? There is something more in this than America's pride and jealousy of this country. It is America's firm inention in the event of a future war to trade as she pleases. She can only do that with a sufficient naval force. All this talk about equality, with America as a basis, is wrong. It may be a factor in bringing the conference to naught."

France, Italy Still at Odds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 15.—The drastic differences in opinion between France and Italy on the question of naval parity remain undiminished tonight after a lengthy backstage conversation between Aristide Briand and Dino Grandi, the foreign ministers of these two countries, according to reliable information.

Japan Is Pessimistic.

TOKIO, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Although officials are reticent in expressing opinions there seems little doubt that they are disappointed in the results thus far of the Anglo-American-Japanese conversations prior to convening of the London naval conference.

From the wording of the British invitation to the conference, the Japanese appear to have received the impression that the preliminary conversations were intended to enable the participants to reach early tentative agreements. The disappointment that is now felt is to some extent that the conversations brought few results.

WEST SIDE BANK CLOSED; ARREST NEARBY BLAMED

Commotion Starts a Run, Auditor's Office Told.

The Independence State bank, 3159 Roosevelt road, was closed yesterday for an examination of its assets by State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

Louis Bomash, the president, and the other officials of the bank told state examiners that an incident on the sidewalk in front of the institution eight days ago attracted an excited crowd and although the incident had no connection with the bank, rumors arose which caused heavy withdrawals of deposits. These withdrawals became so large that it became necessary to shut the bank for an examination. The bank is not a member of the clearing house association, but it is a federal reserve depository.

$1,600,000 Deposits Paid.

According to a preliminary inquiry by Auditor Nelson's office, the deposits of the bank in eight days dropped from $5,600,000 to $4,000,000. A steady stream of small depositors, Mr. Bomash declared, has entered the bank daily, withdrawing their money until the institution had paid out a total of $1,600,000 in cash before calling in the auditor.

According to Auditor Nelson's official statement, "a depleted cash reserve" brought about the bank's difficulties.

"From conditions, as shown by the last examination, it would appear that there will be no loss to depositors, and it is hopeful that a reorganization can be effected," said Mr. Nelson's statement.

Finds No Irregularity.

William A. Heath, chairman of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, said there were no indications of irregularities in the bank's accounts, and "there is no reason to fear that the depositors will lose their money."

The capital of the bank is $400,000, and its surplus $125,000. Julian Bomash is vice president and William Dahl is cashier.

The sight of Charles [Chick] Hadesman, 3151 Roosevelt road, being placed in a police patrol drew the curious crowd about the bank that led to the run, it was learned.

Some depositors, seeing the crowd and mistaking the object of its interest, jumped to the conclusion that something was wrong in the bank and spread an alarm, the auditor's office was informed. Quickly the bank was filled with depositors demanding their money. Hadesman had been arrested by the Marquette police on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had nothing to do with the bank.

PROFESSOR HELD AS BANK ROBBER RECALLS HOPES

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—While the body of R. R. David lies unclaimed in a morgue at Rogersville, Mo., Leroy Burdick, David's companion in the Rogersville bank raid last Monday, is in the Webster county jail at Marshfield awaiting trial on Monday. Prosecutor Ed W. Mills is expected to ask the death penalty, but if Burdick pleads guilty he may get off with a life sentence.

Burdick, 45 years old, said he is a graduate of Bowdoin college and former professor English at Gettysburg (Pa.) college. He was caught within an hour after the bank holdup, and his companion was slain.

The bandits met in Louisville, Ky., where David was "broke", and desperate, and whence Burdick had planned to return east in hopes of finding a teaching job. David had a car and they were driving to Springfield when David decided upon the robbery, Burdick declared, and forced him to assist.

"Life has been too much for me," Burdick said. "When I was graduated from Bowdoin I had high hopes of some day enjoying the prestige of a chair of languages in one of the old eastern schools.

"I attended Normal school at Edinboro, Pa., for four years. When I went to Bowdoin, Dr. S. C. Strayer was my greatest friend there. I worked my way through school in his home and studied in his library.

"I taught at Gettysburg college but my doctor told me I must find other work. I was searching for it when I met David and came into my troubles."

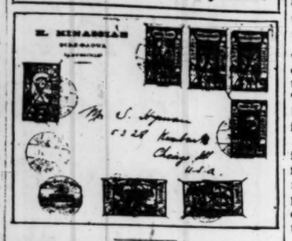
From Dire-Daoua, Abyssinia.



Abyssinia, officially Ethiopia, is an inland country in northeastern Africa. Dire-Daoua—or Dire Dawa—is an important railway terminal just north of the Harrar hills, 150 miles from the coast of the Gulf of Aden.

For many years Great Britain, Italy and France have been interested in Abyssinia, their conflicting interests finally resulting in a convention to preserve the integrity of the country, and keep a sharp eye on each other when it comes to concessions and the building of railways.

King Menelik II. ruled the country during the greater part of this tempestuous period from 1889 to 1913 when he died. His daughter, Zauditu, is now on the throne as empress with Taffari Makonnen, born in 1891, as king [Negus] regent and heir to the throne. The form of government is essentially of a feudal character. In area Abyssinia comprises 350,000 square miles and its chief industries are pastoral and agricultural. Its population is estimated at 10,000,000.

SALE OF DRUGGAN BREWERY PUT OFF FOR FOURTH TIME

Sale of the Standard brewery, the Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake beer plant at Campbell avenue and Roosevelt road, was delayed for the fourth time yesterday when internal revenue officials at Washington failed to send word to Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue, on the disposal of the property.

The brewery was originally scheduled for auction last Nov. 29 to settle part of a $517,842 income tax delinquency charged by the government. The sale was postponed to Dec. 12 and again to Dec. 27. On the latter date orders came from Washington to hold up the auction until further notice, with Jan. 15 mentioned as the date on which this notice probably would be received.

WHELAN'S BIG FORTUNE GONE, ATTORNEY SAYS

Reveals Cigar Magnate's Huge Losses.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—With George J. Whelan gravely ill in a sanitarium for the last two months, the bulk of the private fortunes of the Whelans of the United Cigar Stores company has almost vanished in the collapse in values of the securities of the companies which they now hold. This was revealed tonight by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Whelan interests.

Mr. Untermyer's announcement was issued in reply to the report on finances of United Cigar made by the new management and published reports concerning rumored examination of the company's accounts by the attorney general's department.

Purchase Own Stocks.

Asking for fair treatment for his clients, Mr. Untermyer declared, "There is nothing to conceal" in the affairs of the United Cigar Stores company, adding that the good faith of his clients had been proven by their policy of buying increased amounts of United Cigar Stores stocks during their régime.

In his statement Mr. Untermyer said:

"The situation is one that is common to almost every great corporation whose business and assets have been adversely affected by the crash in market values and the deflation in business through which the country is now passing. Added to these unfavorable factors is the effect of the cigaret price war that is injuriously affecting this line of business.

Sharp Decline in Value.

"The bulk of the large private fortunes of the Whelans and their families has at least temporarily been almost wiped out by the collapse in values of the securities of the companies which they now hold, and the good faith of the previous management in putting out the original report of earnings for the year 1928 is best evidenced by the fact that the Whelans actually increased their holdings in the company after the report was issued."

TO MAKE RULING IN S. M'CORMICK CASE TOMORROW

Santa Barbara, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Superior Judge William Dehy said today that he would hand down his decision at 1 p. m. Friday in the disputed guardianship over the person and fortune of the 54 year old multimillionaire incompetent, Stanley R. McCormick. His decision will climax a two year court fight of Mrs. Stanley McCormick to displace her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Harold McCormick and Mrs. Emmons Blaine of Chicago, from co-guardianship with her.

TRY TO TRACE YALE MURDER BULLETS TO FRED BURKE'S GUNS

Bullets taken from the body of Frank Yale [Uale], Sicilian boss of Brooklyn who was killed last summer, were brought to Chicago yesterday by Detectives Harry Butts and Stanley F. Gorman of the New York police force. Coroner Bundesen and Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert, who will have charge of the scientific crime detection laboratory at Northwestern university, are to make tests to determine whether the bullets were fired from machine guns seized in the home of Fred Burke after he killed a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman.

Burke's machine guns were used in the Chicago massacre of last Valentine's day, according to proof obtained by Bundesen and Goddard. After the massacre, when Burke's pictures were identified by witnesses, Chief of Detectives Stege said he had information that Burke was one of the murderers of Yale.

For years Chicago and New York gangsters have been exchanging help in killing their enemies, Stege said, and when Yale sent gunmen here to kill Tony Lombardo Chicagoans decreed Yale's death.

POLICE PRAISED FOR KILLING OF TWO BANDITS

"Justifiable homicide," said a coroner's jury yesterday of the killing of two burglars, Al Holstman of Hoopestown, Ill., and Sam Wolf. Due credit was given the policemen who killed them.

"Murder," said the same jury regarding the death of Policeman Jerry Murphy who fell in the battle early Tuesday morning at 4049 West Jackson boulevard, and Samuel Wasserman, alias Waterman, an ex-convict, was held to the grand jury charged with having killed Murphy.

The story of the twenty minute battle between the three bandits and police was told by Harry Sucherman, wholesale meat dealer, whose home was being raided by the outlaws when the police arrived.

Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz presented enough evidence so the coroner's jury might return a verdict; the rest he was saving for the trial in which the state will try to send Wasserman to the chair.

WAY IS CLEARED FOR U. S. AID ON ILL. WATERWAY

Legal Snags Removed at Conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Concerted action by different interested groups toward insuring completion of the Illinois state waterway by the federal government was made certain in important conferences today.

Legal questions were disposed of to a sufficient extent to clear the decks for consideration of legislation in congress.

Participating in the conference were representatives of the federal government, the state of Illinois, the Chicago sanitary district, members of the Illinois congressional delegation, and officers of the Mississippi Valley association.

State Well Represented.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom represented the state of Illinois, while Walter E. Beebe was on hand as counsel for the Chicago sanitary district. Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn and Representatives E. E. Denison, W. E. Hull, and Henry T. Rainey represented the Illinois congressional delegation. William R. Dawes of Chicago, president, and Cleveland Newton, general counsel, represented the Mississippi Valley association.

After a general conference at which the whole situation affecting the Illinois waterway project was discussed, the delegation went to the department of justice, where legal questions were gone over with Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson. Mr. Dawes and Mr. Newton conferred with Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and there also were conferences with army engineers.

While some of the legal questions will continue to bob up, it was the opinion of participants in the conference that a basis of understanding had been reached which would obviate any serious difficulties. The legal questions do not affect the actual legislation which is proposed, but relate primarily to the administration of the law after it is passed.

Title May Be Transferred.

Among these questions is whether federal money can be used toward the completion of the Illinois state waterway project unless title to the property involved is transferred by the state to the federal government. Such a transfer has been thought to be necessary under rulings by the controller general and under the Illinois state constitution, but the transfer of title would require action by the Illinois state legislature and approval by the voters in a referendum.

Assurances were given by the war department officials that the engineers' report on the Illinois state waterway project would be sent to congress within the next two weeks. The report, which is known to be favorable to the proposal for completion by the federal government, will be submitted by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown.

Diversion Case Covered.

The program for legislation, as concurred in by those taking part in today's conferences, contemplates inclusion in the rivers and harbors bill now under consideration by the house rivers and harbors committee of a brief paragraph approving as a federal project the project as set forth in the forthcoming engineers' report. It was the unanimous opinion of those in the conferences that there will be no need of including any authorization for diversion of water at Chicago.

R. I. RANDOLPH NEW SPOKESMAN OF CITY'S TRADE

Hundreds of the city's commercial and professional leaders yesterday visited the headquarters of the Chicago Association of Commerce at 10 South La Salle street to cast their ballots in the annual election for Col. Robert Isham Randolph, who was chosen president.

Col. Randolph, who succeeds Charles Ward Seabury as leader of the association, will be officially installed in office next Wednesday.

The new trade executive is an alumnus of Cornell university. He has won wide renown as an advocate of the inland waterways, and as a soldier. He commanded the 535th engineers in France.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT ARRIVES AT ASHEVILLE

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, arrived here today for a month's rest and motored along scenic highways for more than an hour this afternoon.

The ex-President seemed not at all tired from his overnight journey from Washington. Mrs. Taft and a nurse accompanied him.

City officials welcomed the chief justice this morning and escorted him to the Grove Park inn, where reservations had been made for him.

Dr. P. R. Terry and Dr. Paul Ringer, Asheville physicians, conferred with Dr. Thomas Clayton of Washington, the chief justice's physician, after which the latter returned to Washington.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"
—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

WETS ATTACK JURY PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A charge by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] that the 18th amendment is legally inoperative and that all the laws enacted under it are null and void injected a fresh sensation today into the prohibition controversy.

La Guardia set forth the proposition that only ten of the state legislatures ratified the 18th amendment within seven years, as required by its third section. The others, he said, ratified merely the joint resolution, which later became the constitutional article. Hence, he argued, the amendment and its enforcement legislation automatically died three years ago.

By the drys and many wets, La Guardia's manifesto was looked upon as a joke. He announced, however, that tomorrow he will bring it up in the house as a point of order on the prohibition provisions of the pending treasury department appropriation bill and will offer a resolution to declare "the said 18th amendment inoperative."

Black Attacks "No Jury Plan."

Meanwhile two house committees took preliminary steps toward action on the recommendations of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and debate started on the treasury bill, with a sharp attack by Representative Loring M. Black [Dem., N. Y.] upon what he termed the commission's plan to abolish jury trials in petty prohibition cases.

Chairman Wickersham of the commission issued a statement declaring that a "misapprehension" existed regarding the proposal that United States commissioners try dry law misdemeanors. This phase of the report, he said, did not affect the constitutional right of a trial by jury.

Still another development was the unanimous selection of Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.] by a nominating committee of the so-called "house wet bloc" to continue as leader of the group in its fight against dry legislation.

Beck Refuses Task.

Previously Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] had withdrawn his candidacy for the post, explaining that he opposed the prohibition law, but believed it to be "the manifest duty of the administration to enforce it."

Representative La Guardia had intended to break into the house proceedings with his attack on the legality of the 18th amendment today, he said, but was unable to secure the floor.

Thereupon he retired to his office, invited in a score of reporters, and explained it to them. He said he has been working with several prominent lawyers on the matter and had convinced himself of the soundness of his contention that the amendment now is only "a scrap of paper."

Wickersham Answers Critics.

Mr. Wickersham, in his statement regarding jury trials, brought forward the first reply the law enforcement commission has made to criticism of its plan to clear congestion in the federal courts by authorizing United States commissioners to try the smaller liquor cases. This proposal has been a target for attack from the moment the Hoover program was laid before congress on Monday.

Such a procedure, Representative Black declared, is a direct attempt to "do away with a fundamental right—the trial by jury." The drys, he charged, "are perfectly willing to junk the rest of the constitution to put over the 18th amendment."

Mr. Wickersham, asserting that the plan in no wise affected a constitutional right, pointed out that it merely assures a defendant a "speedy trial." He added:

"If a defendant in a misdemeanor prosecution desires to plead guilty, it is to his advantage to make the plea speedily before a United States commissioner in the District court, to be immediately transmitted to the judge for action by him.

Follows State Procedure.

"The provision recommended with respect to pleas of not guilty—that there be a hearing before a United States commissioner, who shall transmit the testimony and his findings to the judge for action by him—is similar to almost universal state practices before magistrates, except that in the state proceedings there may be a conviction by the magistrate, with the right in the defendant then to appeal and have a jury trial in another court, whereas the commission's proposal is to adapt this state practice to the federal courts by securing a jury trial when demanded in the same court as that in which the hearing has been had before the commissioner.

Plan Faces Stiff Opposition.

Despite Mr. Wickersham's explanation, however, it is certain that the court procedure bill, which is one of a half dozen recommended by the commission, will have hard sledding before, if ever, it becomes a law.

It is generally agreed that the commission's program will fare better in the house, where it is starting, than in the senate. This was indicated when two house committees, judiciary and immigration, discussed their procedure on parts of the program assigned to them. The judiciary committee sent to a subcommittee two bills involving centralization of prohibition enforcement in the department of justice, while the immigration group decided to begin active work on the border patrol unification subject immediately.

Meanwhile, the house "wet bloc" rushed its organization procedure in order to be ready to cope with the commission bills when they reach the floor.

Beck States Viewpoint.

In declining to accept the position of wet leader, Representative Beck took the position, which, it is believed, only wet administration followers may take, that he cannot fight the President's program, although opposed to prohibition in general.

"In my opinion, prohibition is a cancer that is slowly eating out the moral fiber of the American people," Beck said. "As the problem will never be finally solved until the people by a preponderating majority have concluded that the experiment is both futile and unwise, and as the drys are not likely to reach that conclusion until every feasible method has been tried to enforce the law, it seems to me that, as it is the manifest duty of the administration to enforce the policy of prohibition, its proposals should be supported, unless they clearly conflict with the fundamental law.

Sure Plans Will Prove Futile.

"I share the conviction of many thinking men, that no legislative expedient will ever result in the enforcement of a law which so manifestly conflicts with human nature, and that the expedients now proposed and any that can be proposed will be as ineffective as for a surgeon to apply a mustard plaster to a malignant cancer.

"With these views I shall be glad to serve in the ranks of the anti-prohibition group, even though I am disinclined, for many reasons, to assume the leadership."

GERMANY PUTS NEW RAPID FIRING CRUISER INTO SERVICE AT FETE

WILHELMSHAFEN, Germany, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The new German cruiser Koeln, 6,000 tons, was ceremoniously commissioned today replacing the old cruiser Amsone, withdrawn from service.

Commander von Schroeder in a speech recalled that the first Koeln was sunk in battle in the North sea Aug. 28, 1914, and that only one man was saved after clinging three days to a piece of wreckage. The second Koeln was sunk at Scapa flow.

[The Koeln is of the Koenigsberg class and was laid down May 20, 1928. She has a complement of 516 and carries nine 6 inch guns, four 3.4 inch guns and twelve torpedo tubes. Every possible expedient for saving weight was employed in ships of this class. A very high grade of steel was selected and electric welding took the place of riveting. Her 6 inch guns can fire in groups of three simultaneously at a rate of six to eight salvos a minute and range up to 20,000 yards].

DOWNEY SLAYING BY COAST GUARDS UP TO GRAND JURY

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The case of the three coast guardsmen who on Christmas night shot and fatally wounded Eugene F. Downey, supposed rum runner, will be presented to the grand jury sometime this week, District Attorney Guy B. Moore announced today.

The prosecutor indicated that he would seek indictments charging manslaughter, first degree. The three guardsmen—Orville Dagrant, Randolph Thompson, and Asa Ennis—were held for the grand jury when they were arraigned in city court following the shooting on a charge of manslaughter, second degree, and are now at liberty on bail of $10,000 each.

Mr. Moore since the first of the year has been occupied with the trial of a gang accused of a $272,000 society jewel holdup here, and has not had much time recently to give his attention to the coast guards shooting.

DRY RAIDS FILL JAILS, BUT LITTLE LIQUOR IS FOUND

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 15.—(AP)—City and county jails were taxed to capacity here tonight with 71 persons taken in a series of prohibition raids conducted by federal, county and city officers last night and today.

The raids, begun last night, were carried out under the direction of Fred Dismuke of Macon, district prohibition administrator, and continued until past noon today.

Dismuke and six federal agents arrived here yesterday and with the aid of six city detectives and five county patrolmen mapped out the drive. The warrants were issued on evidence furnished by undercover men who had been at work here for several days.

Only small quantities of liquor were found, agents reporting a quart being the largest amount taken. Four automobiles were confiscated.

Throughout the day W. E. Martin, United States commissioner, held hearings for those arrested in the roundup, binding all over to the grand jury and fixing bonds at from $1,000 to $2,000.

Swamp Posse Fails to Find Slayer of Dry Law Raider

Newbern, N. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The slayer of Louis M. Davies, federal dry agent, was still at large today after an all night search by a posse in the swamps of Pamlico county. Davies was killed by an unidentified Negro during a raid on a still.

$50,000,000 WAR CHEST PLANNED BY DRY LEAGUE

Predict Bone Dry U. S. Under Hoover Rule.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Plans for raising a $50,000,000 "war chest" for use in the next ten years were announced today by Anti-Saloon league leaders at the opening of the league's twenty-fourth annual convention here today—today, incidentally, being the eve of the tenth anniversary of the advent of national prohibition.

The $50,000,000 fund is counted on to provide the financial backing for the most far reaching "smash" against the wet elements that the league has yet undertaken, and officials today could see nothing but a complete dry victory and utter disruption of the organized forces which have been seeking repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

The convention formally opened this evening at the Hotel Statler. Speakers were Dr. H. C. Gleiss, former president of the Detroit Federation of Churches; R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league; General Superintendent F. Scott McBride, and the Rev. A. J. Barton of Atlanta, chairman of the executive committee.

Predict Complete Victory.

Dr. Barton in his address said:

"The Anti-Saloon league is the most hated and feared organization in America. The wets are more and more amazed at the strength of our organization. In a pitying and patronizing way they announce that we are dead or at least moribund. The wish is father to the thought; they know that we are very much alive."

Urging the strengthening of the state organizations, Dr. Barton pleaded that prohibition be kept "above party politics and partisan contention. Three years more—shall I say seven years more?—of the present order of things at the White House and the whole country will be dry, both in law and in fact.

"The enemy has been driven from every field of open combat and only the sharpshooters and bushwhackers remain to carry on their dastardly attacks upon humanity and upon orderly government and constituted authority."

Divinely Led, Says McBride.

Supt. McBride also envisioned the day when complete victory shall perch upon the banners of the prohibition forces.

"The league was born of God," he declared. "It has been led by him and will fight on while he leads. And the one thing that stands forth in this progressive age is that those things that are in the way of the progress of the kingdom of God must get out of the way."

The Anti-Saloon league came into being, Dr. McBride said, because the people galled under the heavy yoke of the liquor traffic "and were moaning and groaning and crying out for help."

Although liquor still holds some ground in the big cities, he said, prohibition is proving itself even there. He said Chicago had 7,152 saloons and 12,000 speakeasies during the days before Volstead, but that "while prohibition has not corrected all the evils of liquor, it is now a new city."

"The city must be taken if the victory is to be complete," he added. "The injunction that comes to us is, 'Go up to Nineveh!'"

$1,500,000 Spent in Two Years.

Dr. McBride announced at the opening session that $1,500,000 was spent by the league and its forty state branches during the last two years. This is exclusive of an additional $100,000 expended in behalf of the Hoover campaign. Itemized reports of the league's expenditures never have been given out and it is doubtful if such a report will be made public during the present convention.

The annual budget of the national organization, according to H. B. Sowers of Westerville, O., treasurer, is $275,000, but state organizations have their own organizations and raise and spend funds not included in this amount.

Ernest H. Cherrington, educational director of the league, reported 400 colleges and university libraries provided during 1929, through cooperation of the anti-saloon league and the World League Against Alcoholism, with books of reference, pamphlets, and other literature dealing with the prohibition question. He said 754 leading colleges and universities in 36 states had been visited by league speakers and workers.

WESTERN AVENUE OPENED UNDER 75TH ST. VIADUCT

Western avenue was opened yesterday under the new viaduct of the Chicago and Western Indiana and Wabash railway tracks at 75th street. The structure eliminates one of the worst rail and highway grade crossings in the metropolitan area.

The viaduct carries nine tracks, over which from 175 to 200 trains pass daily, according to C. B. Culp, engineer in charge of construction. Western avenue is used by as many as 40,000 automobiles a day on weekends and holidays during the touring season. The cost of the improvement, shared by the railroads, was approximately $1,000,000.

Another viaduct on Western avenue, half a mile farther south and carrying the Baltimore and Ohio and the Panhandle tracks, was opened last month. The completion of the two grade separations eliminates the automobile detours on Oakley avenue, which has been used since last July, when the construction was started.

PAROLED CONVICT JOBLESS; ASKS TO RETURN TO CELL

Ray Andmours, 33 years old, of Crown Point, appealed to Sheriff Jacob Campbell at Marion, Ind., yesterday to lock him up and send him back to the Indiana state prison to complete a 14 year sentence. Andmours was released on parole six months ago after serving four years of a sentence for receiving stolen property. "I am broke, out of work and hungry and can't find a job," Andmours told Sheriff Campbell, who notified parole authorities of the request.

JURY WILL GET EAST CHICAGO RUM CASE TODAY

Defense Witnesses Prove Boomerang to Mayor.

Defense witnesses in the liquor trial involving the mayor, chief of police, and eighteen other East Chicagoans being heard by Federal Judge Slick and a jury at Hammond gave testimony yesterday which was intended to help the principal defendants. But their evidence was regarded by the government as a boomerang against the defendants. The case will be given to a jury late this afternoon after seven hours of closing arguments.

Mayor Raleigh P. Hale was the defendant most affected by yesterday's testimony. Tuesday he took the stand in his own defense and denied accepting bribes or participating in the profits of a booze syndicate which, according to the government, almost submerged East Chicago's officialdom in a sea of graft.

Admits Holding Conference.

The mayor admitted on cross-examination, however, that he once held a conference with three Negro bootleggers, Grice Chandler, Sanford Overall, and Eldridge White, on his political campaign, but denied that he had then apportioned them sections of the town in which they might operate their saloons and houses of prostitution without being molested.

But his denial was given the lie yesterday afternoon when both White and Overall were called in their own behalf. For on cross-examination United States Attorney Oliver Loomis drew from them the admission that Hale had given them sections in which to run their establishments.

Both Negroes said they had been given the district allotments, but insisted it was only with the right to run gambling and prostitution houses—not liquor places. The indictment against Hale charges a conspiracy to violate the dry law. White admitted, however, that he had handled liquor for several weeks, paying $200 to Chandler for protection, but that that constant expenditure was wearing to his purse so he stopped.

U. S. Agent Is Witness.

Lawyers representing Sergt. Walter Conroy of the police department called Department of Justice Agent Leon Tourrou to the stand as their witness to prove that Conroy gave the government every aid when started its investigation last year. Questioned as to the nature of the help given him, Tourrou said Conroy had taken him into many saloons and vice dens, which, apparently, were known to him.

Prohibition Agent Gus Simons testified that only in 1921-'22 had the dry forces been able to stop the flow of the East Chicago liquor. But this, he insisted, was accomplished by only six agents. Both Mayor Hale and Chief James Regan said on the stand that the force of sixty-four was too small to enforce the prohibition law.

Pleads for Son's Freedom.

At the conclusion of testimony, Attorney Abe Ottenheimer, former city attorney for East Chicago, made a dramatic appeal for the release of his son, Lester, one of the alleged conspirators, on the grounds that the government had failed to make a case against him. Judge Slick took the matter under advisement until this morning.

The defense was alloted four hours today for closing arguments and the government three. The court's instructions will probably be given late this afternoon.

ROBS WOMAN IN RESTAURANT.

The New Royal restaurant at 5083 Broadway was robbed of $45 early yesterday by an armed robber who held up the proprietor, Mrs. Laura Alexander, who was alone in the place at the time.

BLACKSTHREATEN STRIKE FOR MORE PAY IN SO. AFRICA

Unrest of the Natives Alarms Whites.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Unrest among natives is causing considerable uneasiness among the entire white population of South Africa. Trouble has spread from Carnarvon, Cape colony, where the mayor and other Europeans were injured last Monday, to East London, also in Cape colony.

At East London native railway workers threaten to strike unless their wages are increased or a commission is appointed to inquire into their demands. The requests were put forward through the native workers' organization, the Commercial and Industrial union.

Mail Train Derailed.

Another disquieting factor, which may not, however, be connected with the natives, is a series of recent attempts at sabotage on the railways. The engine of the Durban-Johannesburg mail train was derailed last night between Drummon and Ichanga. Investigation showed that a number of fish plates had been inserted between the check rail and the actual track rail.

Fortunately there are no signs as yet that the unrest is actually spreading into the native territories.

Police Charge Striking Miners.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Several miners were injured today when police charged with their batons at a strike meeting at Abermain colliery, Kearsley. The clash followed a march of 2,000 striking miners accompanied by their women folk.

The miners were dispersed in disorder, but they commandeered motor lorries and raced to Kurri, where 3,000 other miners were drilling in the streets. The police finally persuaded the miners to disperse and the situation became quiet.

Miners Drill for Fight.

The government of New South Wales intimated today that an appeal might soon be made to the community for support in breaking up the drilling and other allegedly military activities among striking miners. Another disturbance occurred in the northern coal fields today and the police had difficulty in dispersing mobs of 5,000 miners.

The miners are gathered in thousands, bitterly antagonistic to operation of the mines by the government, which is employing volunteer miners at wages below the rates paid the union men before the strike. Ex-soldiers are said to be drilling large bodies of unemployed.

Watchmen and maintenance men have been withdrawn by the unions from some of the mines that are still unoccupied and it is possible that some mines will be permanently ruined.

Rush Indian Independence Move.

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Pandit Motilal Nehru, prominett Nationalist and leader of the Congress party in the central legislative assembly, today issued a call to Indian Nationalists to "trust in your general, Mahatma Gandhi, and wait for the word of command."

"Take it from me, you won't have long to wait," he added. He said that steps would be taken for the celebration of independence day on Jan. 26 which would test how far the country was prepared to take stronger steps which must follow.

Committee Plans to Care for Traffic of 1933 Fair

Solutions of the traffic problems of the 1933 Century of Progress exposition were discussed yesterday at the first meeting of the exposition's transportation committee. Sidney S. Gorham, chairman, told the committee that, in addition to working out a plan to avoid congestion in the downtown district, it also must provide convenient transportation facilities to the out of town visitors. Mr. Gorham said these problems would be worked out by subcommittees which would be appointed.

TARDY JUSTICE AIDS MICHIGAN'S 5 LIQUOR LIFERS

Governor Commutes Their Sentences; 1 a Suicide.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The state of Michigan today made belated amends for its notorious "life for a pint" law, under whose provisions six persons were sentenced to life imprisonment for violation of the state prohibition act.

Gov. Fred W. Green, acting on the recommendation of Arthur D. Wood, commissioner of pardons and paroles, commuted the sentences of the five victims of the law still behind the bars. His action reduces their sentences from life imprisonment to a term of 7½ to 15 years.

The five prisoners are Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, Fred Palm, Alonzo Noyes, Frank Baker, and Tony Popish.

The habitual criminal section of the criminal code, as amended by the 1929 legislature, provides a seven and one-half to fifteen year term for all four time felons whose final offense carries an original maximum penalty of less than five years' imprisonment. The governor's action thus brings the sentences of the five former "liquor lifers" into line with the present statute.

Gained National Attention.

Mrs. Miller and Fred Palm, both of Lansing, won world-wide notoriety because of the publicity given their cases, and public sentiment was aroused to such a pitch throughout Michigan that the 1929 legislature was virtually forced to modify the law which permitted the same sentence for a fourth offense against the dry law as for murder.

Mrs. Miller, who was sentenced Dec. 31, 1928, to serve a life term in the Detroit House of Correction, was the first woman victim of the law, while Palm, who has been in Jackson prison since Sept. 29, 1927, was the original "pint of gin lifer." All of Mrs. Miller's four convictions were for liquor violations, but Palm had been previously convicted of other crimes. Palm's appeal to the Supreme court failed and a plea for executive clemency was filed in his behalf. With "good time" he will be eligible for parole under his commuted sentence in less than four years.

Mrs. Miller's case has been appealed and will be argued before Supreme court Thursday. Her counsel is State Senator Seymour Person of Lansing, who fought the criminal code's excessive provisions in the 1927 legislature. The appeal in the Miller case is based purely upon claims of error during the two Circuit court trials when the mother of ten children was convicted of a fourth prohibition offense.

Tony Popish was given the life term exclusively for dry law violations. Channie Trip, of Flint, who was the first to be given life for prohibition offenses only, has been released under bond pending a new trial ordered by the Supreme court.

Gov. Green's commutation order, however merciful, cannot affect the case of Alex Zack, of Muskegon, who hanged himself in his cell when a life sentence confronted him for an infraction of the liquor law. Zack, father of eight children, was the basis for a hot controversy in Muskegon county when the prosecutor, nearing the end of his term, refused to apply the habitual criminal act in his case. Wilber Brucker, attorney general, threatened to discipline the prosecutor, but without effect. The new county attorney, however, was pressing the case when Zack took his own life.

Gov. Green's Statement.

Gov. Green, in his official statement in connection with his commutation action, says:

"It was not the intention of the commission that drew the criminal code, nor was it the intention of the legislature, that passed the criminal code, that offenders whose fourth offense consisted of violations of the liquor law should be sent to prison for life.

"Therefore I am changing the sentences of Etta Mae Miller, Fred Palm, Alonzo Noyes, Frank Baker, and Tony Popish, to the terms of the present criminal code, which I believe carries out not only the present law but the intention of the framers of the old law. This will make their sentences read seven and one-half to fifteen years."

MACHINE GUNS, TEAR BOMBS FOR RUM FROM DETROIT TO CHICAGO

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Machine guns and tear bombs will be used by the state police in a desperate offensive to stop rum running between Detroit and Chicago, according to plans announced today by Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety.

It will be the first time state troopers have been sent to the southern part of the state with the command to "stop the rum runner at any cost."

Olander today outlines his campaign in a letter to Gov. Fred W. Green. Although the chief executive would not commit himself on the proposed warfare, he agreed to place the matter in the hands of his administrative board next Monday.

The initial step, as outlined by the commissioner, will be the purchase of three high powered automobiles, six machine guns, and a dozen bullet proof vests, as well as tear bombs and flares. Organization of this special crew will cost $17,450, Olander estimated.

Each car will be equipped with two automatic guns so arranged that they can sweep the highway in any direction. There will be four men to a car, each with bullet proof armor.

BOYCE ESTATE TO PAY STATE TAX OF $31,028

The estate of the late William D. Boyce, publisher, big game hunter and picturesque figure in Chicago life for many years, will pay a state inheritance tax of $31,028. This was determined yesterday in the La Salle County court at Ottawa when the estate was finally appraised at $1,063,176. Mr. Boyce died on June 12 in his bungalow atop the twelve story Boyce building at 500 North Dearborn street. He was 69 years old.

How long will this energy last under the strain of a COUGH?

No Strain—Mental or Physical—Exhausts You More Quickly Than a Cough

REMEMBER: Take a spoonful of Pertussin the moment you feel a tickling in your throat. Keep a bottle of Pertussin always handy. Doctors have prescribed Pertussin more often than any other advertised cough remedy for safe relief.

HIGH up in the air! Nerves keyed to a high pitch—eyes and ears strained to the utmost—It takes an iron constitution to brave the merciless elements.

Yet, even such a constitution breaks down quickly under the strain of violent or spasmodic coughing.

Coughing wastes more energy than almost any other bodily exertion. It racks the entire system.

That's why it is so important not only to stop a cough temporarily but to get rid of it before it becomes serious. Don't let it get a grip on you!

Pertussin brings quick results by a safe method. It relieves the cough by getting at the immediate cause. It helps to loosen the phlegm, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough.

Unlike many other cough remedies, Pertussin is entirely free from harmful drugs. It is pleasant to take and will not upset your stomach. Sold at all drug stores.

"DON'T COUGH YOUR ENERGY AWAY"

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folk call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

NATURAL 100% BRAN IS BEST, SAY DOCTORS

Over 90% of Physicians' Group Favor This Bran for Constipation

Not long ago the following question was asked of ten thousand doctors:

"Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes."

Nothing could be more valuable than such advice as this to those who are constantly troubled by atonic constipation, a wide-spread disease—bowel irregularity resulting from intestinal sluggishness. These doctors say "natural 100% bran." Your grocer has it—Pillsbury's Bran, natural 100% bran, nothing added, nothing taken away. Pillsbury's Bran is roughage in a most valuable form—it goes to the root of the trouble, and relieves it naturally.

Modern soft diet causes irregular bowel movements—or movements that are regular, but not complete. Decayed material remains in the system—causing headaches, lassitude, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, lowered vitality, and increased susceptibility to more serious disease.

Eat Pillsbury's Bran in some way every day. You can use it to prepare many delicious foods—muffins, teacakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—the recipes are on the Pillsbury package. You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you eat Pillsbury's Bran, you may be sure you're getting the right kind—natural 100% bran, overwhelmingly preferred by doctors. Your grocer has it—start tomorrow.

CHINA IS UP IN AIR AS PEACE PARLEY IN MOSCOW NEARS

Finds Russian Jokers in First Agreement.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15.—The Chinese Nationalist government is in a serious predicament as to what it shall do about the final Russo-Chinese peace conference, scheduled to be held in Moscow Jan. 25. A report received here from Nanking said that the central political committee, presided over by President Chiang Kai-shek, had referred the matter to the committee on foreign affairs in order that the proposal might be studied further.

The Nanking government's predicament is due to certain definite knowledge now available through perusal of the full minutes of the preliminary Russo-Chinese conference at Habarovsk recently. These show that the Manchurian delegates were bound by the soviet government on a number of important matters which had nothing to do with the reestablishment of normal relations between the two countries over the Chinese Eastern railroad. These relations must supposedly be settled in Moscow at a formal conference.

Study Earlier Agreement.

Among the matters up for negotiation are a new commercial treaty between the two nations, the revival of mutual embassies, the right of residence, the demarcation of boundaries, the indemnity for losses in outer Mongolia, questions pertaining to the Chinese Eastern railroad, and the soviet right to navigate the Sungari river and the inland waterways of China.

Nanking, therefore, does not know whether to ratify or reject the preliminary agreement signed by the Chinese delegates at Habarovsk. In the meantime the Nanking government has wired the Chinese president of the Chinese Eastern railway, Mo Tehui, to come to the capital immediately for a conference. At the same time a telegram was sent to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang at Mukden asking him for further information on the soviet situation there.

A CHICAGO TRIBUNE dispatch from Harbin today said that a serious situation has developed there, as a result of a strike of all the Chinese employés on the Chinese Eastern railroad, as a protest against the action of the new soviet manager, Rudy, who had discharged more than 300 Chinese, recently given jobs.

Secret Clause Revealed.

It has also just been disclosed that the Habarovsk agreement contained a secret clause binding the Chinese to deport from Manchuria eight prominent White Russian exiles, including Gen. Saharoff and Gen. Makarenko, former czarist officers, who have resided in Manchuria for the last decade since the Russian revolution.

U. S. SHIP RUSHES TO PROTECT 15 PERILED YANKS IN CHINA CITY

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15. — (AP) — The United States destroyer MacLeish was heading for Hoihow port, city of Hainan island, today to protect fifteen Americans who reported that communists had launched a campaign of slaying and looting there.

The American destroyer was dispatched from Swatow upon orders from Rear Admiral Charles McVay, commander of United States naval forces in Chinese waters, and is expected at Hoihow tonight. Canton authorities also sent five gunboats in an effort to regain control of the city.

The Americans wirelessed that the communists, who for years have been using Hainan island as a stronghold, had seized the city and that there was much disorder, although the foreigners had not been harmed.

MURDER VERDICT IS RETURNED.

A verdict of murder was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Fred Leon Roe, 52 years old, 2637 North Troy street, who was found shot in front of 2324 North Kedzie avenue on New Year's eve.

DEPUTY IS SHOT AFTER QUARREL OVER NOISY FLAT

Arthur Durhan, 1012 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, was being held by the Oak Park police yesterday on a charge of assault after Deputy Sheriff James Howe had been shot in the left leg in a row in Durhan's apartment which followed a party in the flat below. Howe's wound was not serious.

According to the Oak Park police Durhan telephoned that he was unable to sleep because of noise in the apartment of A. C. Fessenden, a landscape gardener, who lives below him. The police visited the apartment and found Fessenden, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thiel, 704 South Keeler avenue, there. They promised to shut off the radio and the police left.

About 3 a. m. a second call from a tenant sent the police to the scene again and they found Howe in Durhan's apartment shot in the leg and Durhan holding a revolver. Durhan claimed that Howe attacked him with his fists and that Fessenden had struck him with a vase. Howe, however, claimed that he had been visiting there only a few minutes and followed Fessenden upstairs as a peacemaker when his host became angry at Durhan for calling the police.

DON'T FIGHT BEFORE CHILD, JUDGE TELLS ACTRESS AND MATE

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Janet Beecher, the actress, and her husband, Dr. Richard H. Hoffman, were rebuked sharply in Supreme court today for quarreling in front of their eight year old son, Richard. In fact, they were told from the bench that their "emotional scenes" were responsible for the little boy's illness.

"Fight like tinkers if you want to, but leave the child out of it," Justice Thomas H. Churchill admonished them.

Miss Beecher and Dr. Hoffman were separated in 1927 and the custody of the child was given to the mother from June to September during each year and to the physician for the rest of the year. Dr. Hoffman informed the court today that Miss Beecher had refused to return the child to him after the Christmas holidays this year. After listening to argument, the justice ordered Richard returned to the Hoffman home.

SEIZED HERE AS KANSAS CITY THIEF.

Ralph Snyder, 30 years old, 5540 Hyde Park boulevard, was held last night for the Kansas City police on a charge of stealing $5,000 worth of jewelry owned by the J. H. Mace company, Kansas City watchmakers.

COPS OF IRELAND WAGE 'HOPELESS' WAR ON POTEEN

Despite Law and Clergy Stills Go Full Blast.

BY ROBERT SAYERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Ireland, Jan. 15.—The term "bootlegging" may not be current in the every day speech of Ireland, but large sections of its populace are by no means strangers to its practice. This is because of the prevalence of poteen manufacture and the secret distribution of this illicit spirit, a trade which persists notwithstanding the denunciations of the clergy and the vigilance of the police.

The famous border between Ulster and the Free State marks no dividing line in the area of operations of the clandestine industry. Despite the Free State guards and the Ulster constabulary combining to suppress the business, under the cloak of ingenious camouflages it succeeds in flourishing. Stills of all sizes are now going full blast in many places.

Traffic Dodges Police.

The notion that it is only in west and southern Ireland and the mountains of Donegal where "poteen"—whisky "with a kick in it" is turned out is contradicted regularly by facts. An officer of the Ulster police, who is responsible for a wide area, told the licensing court at Portadown that poteen is being made everywhere and that it is almost impossible to catch those engaged in the traffic.

Gasoline tins come in handy for making stills, and have the additional merit of being cheap. When the police make a catch, the standing of the culprit in society often gives quite a shock to some quarters. Men apparently of good character—churchgoers—are being sent to prison for this offense. In one case, a still was unearthed beneath the floor of a gospel hall, and the man who worked it was one of the preachers who has been most eloquent in the denunciation of intoxicating liquors.

In the hilly districts, the poteen maker distills his mountain dew in comparative safety, his real difficulty only commencing when he tries to dispose of it. The guile used in the distribution of this product is amazing. Many ingenious schemes have been thought out, and it is a notorious fact that this "fire water" finds its way to ready customers, although now and again offenders are caught and punished by the courts of law.

Women Hide Spirit in Clothes.

Between Donegal and Londonderry, a new plan of operations has been introduced, and the women folks of the poteen brigade carry the stuff across the border in specially constructed pockets hidden in their clothing.

Northern police have now become fashion experts and survey the women who arrive from the other side of the border with a critical eye. A couple of detectives became suspicious of the bulky appearance of a woman who came off the Carndonagh train at Lough Swilly railway terminal recently, and it was found that she had a half gallon of poteen concealed about her dress.

Tempting offers from America have been put up to some of the expert poteen manufacturers, but the majority of them prefer to "stick by the stuff" in the old country.

7 COAL BARGES SINK IN CRASH WITH FREIGHTER

New York, Jan. 15.— (AP) —Seven Pennsylvania railroad coal barges sank tonight after a collision in the East river with the freighter Exbrooke of the American Export line.

Two men who were hurled into the river by the force of the collision were rescued by the crews of the tugs John S. Olsen and Revere which were towing the freighter down the river.

The accident occurred between Williamsburg bridge and the navy yard. The freighter sent a message saying she would anchor off Staten island.

Advertising Man Found Dead; Razor Beside Body

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The body of Frank D. Austin, 36, president of the Laporte & Austin Advertising agency, was found in a room in the Hotel New Yorker tonight. His throat was slashed and beside the body lay a razor. Police expressed the belief Austin had killed himself.

GERMANS ACCEPT WORLD COURT AS WAR DEBT BOSS

Berlin Agrees to French Sanctions Plan.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Jan. 15.—Germany agreed today to let France come and get it, or at least come and try to get it, in case she defaults in the provisions of the Young plan, and so tonight the second Hague conference for reparations settlements actually seemed at the point of winding up the interminable business of liquidating the war.

A final agreement was reached between the British, French, Belgian, Italian and Japanese delegations and Germany on the questions of sanctions, the chief threat to the conference's success. They got together on the wording of two declarations, one by the creditor powers and the other by Germany. These will form a part of the final Young plan protocol, which is expected to be signed on Saturday.

These two declarations are worded with almost painful delicacy, but out of them arises the spectre of possible armed intervention. Germany agreed that, in the event the court of international justice found her guilty of willful default of the Young plan provisions, the creditor powers would regain liberty of action.

Creditors Apply Hypothesis.

The Germans deplored the fact that sanctions and the hypothesis of willful default had been raised, but they signed. The British chancellor of the exchequer, Philip Snowden, also deplored it for its effect on supporters of the Labor government, who could be counted on to rise at the spectacle of the socialist ministry conniving with France to put the screws on Germany, but he signed, too.

The creditors in their declaration state that a mere difference in opinion after the execution of the Young plan can be taken care of by machinery provided for in the plan itself.

The hypothesis is that some future government of Germany might violate its pledges and try to destroy the Young plan.

In such a case any creditor power or powers can appeal to The Hague and "Germany should forthwith declare that, in the event of an affirmative decision by the court, she acknowledges it is legitimate and that in order to assure the fulfillment of her obligation to the debtor powers resulting from the new plan the creditor power or powers should resume full liberty of action."

MILWAUKEE AIDS CHICAGO IN 1930 AIR RACE PLAN

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Milwaukee will join Chicago in staging the 1930 national air races here next fall. Announcement that a representative of the Wisconsin city has been added to the board of directors of the race corporation was made yesterday by Capt. Maxwell Corpening, secretary.

In connection with the announcement Capt. Corpening stated that eleven other cities in Chicagoland will be asked to appoint representatives on the board of directors of the corporation and to participate in the planning and staging of the annual air race classic.

Acceptance Is Received.

Milwaukee's acceptance of Chicago's invitation was received yesterday by the Chicago Air Race corporation, a nonprofit company, organized to underwrite the races. Col. Robert R. McCormick is chairman of the board of the corporation and Earle H. Reynolds is president.

Wisconsin contributors to the fund of $5,000, which gives Milwaukee representation in the corporation, are Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Carl Herzfeld, president Milwaukee Boston Store; S. B. Way, president Milwaukee Electric company; A. H. Vogel, vice president Vogel-Pfister Leather company; Rudolph Hokansen, president Wisconsin Nash Sales agency; Max E. Friedman, vice president Schuster Stores; L. R. Smith, president A. O. Smith corporation, and Col. Clarence Falk, president Falk Steel corporation.

Col. Falk Is Named.

This group elected Col. Falk, who has been prominent in many Milwaukee aviation ventures and other civic enterprises, to represent the city.

The race committee plans a day especially dedicated to the city of Milwaukee as a part of the eight day program. On that day a race from Chicago to Milwaukee and return and other events for the participation of Wisconsin planes and pilots, are tentatively planned.

Full coöperation of the Wisconsin chapter of the National Aeronautical association was pledged yesterday by its governor, Stuart F. Auer, president of Auer, Inc., of Milwaukee. Mr. Auer, a flyer of renown and a moving spirit in Milwaukee aviation, was influential in crystallizing Milwaukee interest in the 1930 races.

Other cities in Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois which will be asked to take active part in next year's air carnival are Rockford, Elgin, Aurora, Joliet, Gary, Michigan City, La Porte, South Bend, Racine, Kenosha and Danville.

A total of $165,000 has been subscribed by Chicago business and professional leaders.

"This is THE VERY PAINTING of your fear" [Shakespeare, 1564—1616]

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

You men who would keep trim and fit . . . you women who covet the tantalizing curves of the truly modern figure—when tempted to do yourself too well, light a Lucky instead. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco —The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

CONCENTRATE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE IN 1930

A YEAR OF HONOR FOR NEWSPAPERS

SHARP on the heels of the current recession has come renewed realization of the primary importance of the newspaper to the advertiser. Prospects of diminishing volume and of intensified competition for the business which may be out have sobered the roisterer of last year. The boon companions of prodigal days are too expensive now. Business will be in overalls in 1930.

This, then, will be a year of accounting—and of honor for the newspaper. Business again is checking returns and the newspaper will bear the brunt of selling.

THE past decade has created a Frankenstein of selling costs. In its drive for volume, business thought in terms of mass and not of units. From a profit standpoint many territories normally are barely worth cultivating. Increases in volume are secured in them at serious cost. Any slight reduction in sales makes them untenable. Good times have tolerated operations that 1930 must eliminate.

Business must concentrate advertising and selling in America's key markets which show adequate return in profit. Key markets must provide the volume surrendered in less profitable territories. Selective selling must replace the unmeasured and the indiscriminate.

1930 will demonstrate the special ability of the newspaper to deliver concentrated selling power and immediate response in profitable sales volume. And as never before, the Chicago Tribune equips the advertiser to fight successfully for business.

THE last decade has swung Tribune Town, the great market of Chicago and the Chicago territory, into a new era of progress. Market development has been prodigious. Spending power has been maintained at prosperous levels. A diversity of strong industries buttresses the consumer and wage earner against depression. When other markets lag, Tribune Town drives vigorously on in its expansion. In periods of general recession it rewards doubly extra cultivation.

Meshed with the rapid growth of this area, the Tribune moves on with giant strides. Through it runs the spirit and determination of this great market. It throbs with energy, with the vaulting ambition that has made advertising so profitable in the past and holds assurance of even greater returns today.

In the last ten years the circulation of the daily Tribune has doubled; in the same period the Sunday Tribune has gained 72%. Here is evidence of editorial appeal and reader interest. In this progress is written the vivid character of the Tribune and its direct personal contact with the market. Here is expressed its ability to interpret a people and to win devotion to its news columns.

YEAR after year the Chicago Tribune expands its influence, tightens its hold on readers and generates greater sales power. The Tribune has grown with its market. It seized its opportunities and broadened its services. Steadily editorial excellence has advanced. Persistently the Tribune has improved its ability to inform readers and to repay advertisers with profitable volume. Millions have been spent freely in the continuous extension of service to readers and advertisers. Today the Tribune is embarking on the most ambitious program in its history in its drive to make its columns more effective for advertisers in 1930.

Timberlands, paper mills, press equipment—these are fields in which the Tribune has again made capital investments running into the millions. These expenditures are being made to increase Tribune facilities for production and to make possible greater economies. The savings will go to produce a better newspaper. Expanding its resources and perfecting its operations, the Tribune faces the new year confident in its ability to build greater profits for advertisers.

NINETEEN-THIRTY conditions place a premium on selective selling. Business will look in its fight for profit to key markets and newspaper advertising. When every ounce of selling energy that can be bought in this rich area is needed, the Tribune drives home the advertiser's story with the tremendous impact of its 1,140,000 on Sundays and 800,000 on weekdays. MASSEY FREE TO GO HOME TO HIS DYING COUSIN

Manslaughter Charge Is Dropped in Court.

Harry Massey, El Paso, Ill., carpenter, who was arrested and thrown into jail on a manslaughter charge almost the minute he arrived in Chicago eleven days ago, was at last a free man yesterday and was at liberty to go back home to his dying cousin, George Hunt, El Paso High school athlete.

Massey's final exoneration was brought about through the efforts of Attorneys Harold Levy and Emmett Byrne, former "ace prosecutors," who volunteered to assist him out of his predicament, and Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast. Judge William Helander of the Felony court, who had set a $10,000 bond for Massey, which was promptly reduced to $1,000 Tuesday by Judge John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court when he was apprised of the situation, had an order of nolle prosse entered in his court by Prosecutor Mast.

Asked Ride on Truck.

Massey's "crime" was to be a passenger on an automobile truck coming to Chicago from Peoria. He had begged the ride in order to conserve his dwindling finances to cover the expenses of his cousin, who was brought to a Chicago hospital in a final effort to save his life.

William H. Vorbula, a supervisor for the street car company, jumped on the running board of the truck and ordered the driver from the tracks. The truck door was opened and Vorbula fell or was pushed off and killed. Massey, Fred Virgil and Fred Henderson, the two others on the truck, were arrested and held for manslaughter. The coroner's jury exonerated all three on Saturday, but they had to remain in jail because of the same case pending in Judge Helander's court, and their inability to make the $10,000 bond.

Blames Deputy Coroner.

Attorney Thomas Symmes, representing the street car company, was pushing the prosecution despite the exoneration by the coroner's jury. Judge Helander said both the car company and an American Legion post of which Vorbula was a member were interested in the prosecution.

Judge Helander opened his court yesterday by calling before him Deputy Coroner Jacob A. Schewel, who had conducted the inquest and who had heard all the testimony. Schewel was rebuked because he had said the $10,000 bond set by Judge Helander and reduced to $1,000 by Judge Sullivan was exorbitant. The judge tried to place the blame on the deputy coroner for the delay in the final disposition of the case.

The trial had to be delayed because Attorney Symmes did not reach court on time with his witnesses, despite the willingness of Prosecutor Mast to proceed. When it was finally called Attorneys Levy and Byrne asked for a dismissal, saying that even if all the evidence as stated by the street car company attorney was true, it did not make out a manslaughter case. Then again they cited the coroner's verdict.

"The state believes Massey a victim of unfortunate circumstances and will enter a nol pros," interposed Prosecutor Mast. He then dismissed the case as to the other two men also.

MASSACRE SUSPECT GLAD HE'S ARRESTED; FEARED GETTING 'RIDE'

Rocco Balcastro, gangster, who has been sought since last Feb. 14 for questioning about the St. Valentine's day massacre, was glad to see a policeman yesterday and submitted to arrest with a sigh of relief.

Earlier in the afternoon Balcastro walked into the restaurant of James Psihranis at 2407 Chicago avenue and took $25 from Psihranis at the point of a revolver. The restaurant owner sent a waiter to trail Balcastro, and when the waiter returned Psihranis called the police, sending Sergt. Edward Kennedy and Sergt. Frank Luczak to Balcastro's home, at 1634 Huron street.

Luczak forced his way into the house and found Balcastro hiding in an attic.

"You're not gonna take me for a ride," Balcastro cried, making a dash toward the door. Then he recognized Kennedy as a policeman and smiled happily. "I'm sure glad to see you," he told Kennedy. "I thought some guys were going to take me for a ride sure."

After Psihranis had signed a complaint charging Balcastro with robbery the gangster was turned over to Capt. John Ryan of the West North avenue station for questioning about the massacre.

TERRANOVA GETS SELF ARRESTED; NO CHARGE FILED

Vitale Stickup Suspect Chats with Whalen.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Ciro Terranova, the big artichoke and suspicion man of Harlem, finally got himself arrested today.

Accompanied by two detectives, he came to headquarters and held a "conference" with Police Commissioner Whalen and Deputy Chief Inspector Mulrooney.

It was Terranova, the police have charged, who staged the holdup at Magistrate Albert H. Vitale's dinner in the Bronx Dec. 8—a robbery that started an investigation of the magistrate's judicial conduct by the bar association. The official story is that Terranova had the stickup arranged to get back a contract he had signed calling for the murder of Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow, gangsters, which was in the possession of a Chicago gunman.

Arrested But No Charge Preferred.

After the conference Commissioner Whalen emerged from the office and announced that although Terranova is under arrest, no charges have as yet been preferred against him.

Terranova, the commissioner said, admitted that he knows Vitale "casually." He met the magistrate "accidentally" a year ago when both were on vacations at Hot Springs.

In addition, Terranova said that he made his money "in the stock market" and by getting advertising for newspapers, both Republican and Democratic. He did not mention artichokes. Police say he levies tribute on every artichoke and most other vegetables sold north of 125th street.

Details of Arrest Unknown.

"Somewhere on Center street" Terranova was arrested, but whether it was by previous arrangement with the detectives or by chance no one has said. The arrested man explained that he had been out of town and came back because he read in the newspapers that the police wanted him.

He will be fingerprinted and have his picture taken for the rogues' gallery, for despite his many arrests the police have neither his Bertillion measurements nor a conviction against him.

Also, he will be asked in detail about the Vitale dinner and the allegation that there were criminals among the guests. Police believe that Terranova stage managed the whole affair.

Airplane Drops Meals to Starving Illinois Birds

Rantoul, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—An airplane has been called to the aid of birds that find foraging slim on the snow and ice crusted earth. Sergt. Paul Jackson of Chanute field has begun distributing 200 bags of bird feed from his plane, flying slowly over hedge rows and along river bottoms near here. The Rantoul Izaak Walton league sponsored the plan.

MISTER...THESE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT WINTER OIL

Despite all the rosy claims and ballyhoo that have been printed about so-called winter oils, the two most vital facts have been consistently ignored.

These two facts are:

1. How low a temperature will the oil withstand without congealing—commonly known as Pour Point.
2. How high a temperature will it withstand without "burning up"—commonly known as Fire Point.

We prefer to rest our case upon these two facts—and leave the decision to you.

You will see from the specifications above that the New Waxfree Havoline No. 20 has a Pour Point of 5° below zero!

That means it flows to every bearing; permits your engine to turn over freely; assures easy starting—at sub-zero temperatures which congeal ordinary oils.

You will note that this grade of the New Waxfree Havoline's Fire Point is 500° F. That means it retains its pure oily body under the most blistering engine heat—often nearly 500° F. even in winter driving.

The New Waxfree Havoline is the only oil that gives you this double protection because it is the only pure unblended paraffin-base oil ever refined that is entirely free from wax!

Wax in oil congeals in cold weather, retards the circulation of the oil and makes starting difficult. Because it contains no wax, Waxfree Havoline cannot "freeze" even when the thermometer drops to 5° F. below zero—and this fine oil stands up under the highest heat of motor operation.

Be guided by the facts. If you want full protection for your motor plus the assurance that it will be always ready to "go" in the bitterest weather, have your crankcase filled with the New Waxfree Havoline today.

THE SCHOOL BUDGET.

The board of education has voted for a budget appropriating nearly $102,000,000. The educational fund is to have $53,000,000; the building fund is to have $33,000,000; more than $10,000,000 is appropriated to meet the deficit created in 1929, and more than $5,000,000 goes for pensions, free textbooks and playgrounds. Without the deficit, the appropriations for 1930 are still $5,000,000 higher than for 1929.

No responsible voice in Chicago, we believe, begrudges appropriations for the schools sufficient to maintain them at a high standard. At the same time there can be no justification for excessive expenditure on the schools, expenditure which yields nothing and less than nothing to the children and the community. The school board which came up to 1930 with a $10,000,000 deficit has blithely added $5,000,000 to its 1929 budget for expenses in 1930 with no slightest reason for believing that the money will be found and with no expectation on the part of the community that the piling of deficit upon deficit is of proportionate benefit to the school children.

The budget deliberations of the school board were shocking for their irresponsibility. The effort to hold expenses within revenue were never more than half hearted. There was complete disregard for the taxpayers and little attempt to study past expenditures in the light of results obtained with a view to reducing the less essential items in the budget. The procedure, in short, was exactly what might have been expected of a school board dominated as this one is, by the city hall gang. They gave little heed to the trenchant criticism of Prof. Henry of the University of Chicago, who pointed out that in one year, 1928, the expenses for school maintenance increased 41 per cent more rapidly than the purely educational expenditures, the expenditures from which the children may be expected to benefit.

The enormous increase in school costs of recent years is the more remarkable in view of the record of school enrollment. According to figures recently made public by Don C. Rogers, director of the bureau of building survey of the schools, there has been an average decline of 1,240 pupils a year for the last five years in the six primary grades. This decrease, resulting largely from a falling birth rate, contrasts with an increase of 8,200 children a year in the five year period before 1924. While of late years there has been a large increase in the attendance at the junior and senior high schools, whose operation is more costly than the operation of primary schools, it is more than doubtful if the net increase in attendance is sufficient to warrant the vast increase in school costs. Certainly Mr. Rogers' figures suggest that the appropriations from the building fund deserve particularly careful scrutiny.

FAMINE IN CHINA.

Grover Clark, until recently a newspaper editor in Peiping, has returned from a survey of one of the famine stricken regions of North China with an appalling picture of human misery. Mr. Clark's testimony verifies the conclusions of the recent delegation of the Red Cross. A disaster such as he describes is beyond the scope of any single relief agency. It is primarily a responsibility of the Chinese people and their leaders, arising and repeating itself at comparatively brief intervals because of conditions which only the Chinese themselves can correct, unless they are willing to accept foreign administration and control, which they are not.

The China famine relief commission estimates that the area of acute suffering involves a population of thirty millions in various stages of destitution down to the extremities of starvation. Mr. Clark reports upon the Wei river district that two million are doomed to die before spring and that two million have died in the last eight months. "I consulted the various local authorities," says Mr. Clark, "but no remedy was suggested because of transportation difficulties and dangers from bandits, the bandits being the stronger peasants who have taken to robbery for food." Mr. Powell cables the report of a missionary of cannibalism in Kansu.

A special combination of causes has produced this catastrophe, for which man and nature have collaborated—the latter contributing a protracted drought and this winter a cold wave in which the temperature reached 32 degrees below zero, while the population is accustomed to a normal minimum of 15 above. But transportation, which is essential to relief, has been demoralized by the civil war. This situation is worse than the last preceding famine, but that was only eight years ago. The problem is one which cannot be solved until China has fought out its factional feuds and established a fairly stable political structure, capable of maintaining internal peace and procuring means for the building of roads and railroads and otherwise developing the resources of the country.

The task is enormous and it seems to the onlooker that if the Chinese were sufficiently impressed with it the issues made against foreigners by their political leaders would seem less important. Doubtless there are injustices and unfair advantages involved in the foreign relations of China. Revision of treaties and the amendment of extraterritorial privileges are desirable, but the chief obstacle to obtaining them is the condition of internal chaos for which the Chinese are themselves responsible and which, if Chinese independence is to be maintained, the Chinese themselves must end. When in the past generation China was endangered by dismemberment by foreign powers the foreign peril was rightly in the forefront of China's policy, but that peril is over, or if it survives at all survives only through China's failure to establish internal peace and responsible government. To establish these overshadows every other consideration. If it is an almost overwhelming task it nevertheless must be accomplished, and if the way is hard and long all the more reason why Chinese patriotism and leadership should concentrate upon it.

WHEAT AND COFFEE.

Farmers of the central states, we are confident, have read with much satisfaction Mr. Legge's statement of the policy of the farm board with regard to crop limitation and crop loans. Mr. Legge offers no panacea for the ills of agriculture. He does not pretend that the farm relief act with its machinery of coöperatives and government credits will permit the farmers to sell crops, however large, at prevailing or higher prices. He faces the fact that prices must bear a relationship to supply and intimates that, if the farmers increase their acreage, government advances on crops must tend lower over a period of years.

No doubt among the 6,000,000 farmers of the United States there were some who regarded the mere enactment of the farm relief law as the forerunner of an agricultural millennium. We doubt if many of the misguided farmers were to be found in this region. The relatively high value of our farms, the large investment in farm buildings and machinery, discourage farm ownership and management by incompetents and attract men of intelligence. Years of education and experience have made the coöperative idea clear to farmers of the central states. Few of our farmers believe that coöperatives, with or without the help of government credits, can market excessive crops at a profit for the individual growers, and most of our farmers are alive to the fact that one of the most important functions of the coöperative is to keep production within bounds.

When Senator Brookhart encourages his constituents to disregard warnings against overproduction he is endangering the only plan of farm relief that this generation is likely to see. He is encouraging the farmers to think that when the advance of $500,000,000 from the federal treasury has been exhausted in supporting artificially an uneconomic price for farm products more money will be found for the same purpose. This hope is a vain one. The urban and industrial sections of the country, which contribute by far the greater part of the income of the federal treasury, consented to the enactment of the present farm law in the hope and belief that it would solve the farmers' difficulties. Without urban support the bill never could have been enacted. There is a limit, however, to the willingness of the income tax payers to subsidize agricultural prosperity, and unless we are greatly mistaken the limit has about been reached. If the farmers choose to follow the false leadership of a Brookhart and exhaust their appropriations without permanent gains they will have only themselves to blame for further refusal of the urban elements of the country to contribute toward the relief of agriculture.

We do not think that the farmers of this section require any demonstration of the folly of expecting the government to carry the burden of persistent agricultural overproduction, but if any demonstration were needed it is to be found currently in the grocery advertisements. Note the prices now being charged for coffee. The Brazilian government for a number of years has sought to do in the coffee market what Mr. Brookhart seems to think our government can do in the wheat market. The extent of the failure is colossal and the coffee growers of Brazil, it should be noted, are the principal sufferers.

Editorial of the Day

[Peoria, Ill., Transcript.]

The National College Athletic association, meeting in New York, has announced it will campaign throughout the year to clean up athletics in all institutions of higher learning. The report of the Carnegie Foundation, the cynicism of newspapers, and the charges of Big Ten schools against the University of Iowa were all considered in justification of the survey.

Delegates from 250 colleges and universities attended the meeting. It was decided that no program could be announced at this time, but President Charles W. Kennedy of Princeton university was instructed to appoint a committee to consider ways and means of improving conditions in many schools where athletes are subsidized and where the suspicion of professionalism exists.

The association also decided to approve the Carnegie report and suggested that college and university presidents start a "quiet, earnest effort" to clean up their own institutions.

Inasmuch as the National College Athletic association is the most important body which exercises any influence over intercollegiate athletics—it is the rule making body—this action by the delegates will be considered the most important contribution to the problem of subsidized athletics. To be sure, the association has no authority to discipline schools which willfully play professionals, but its attitude is a warning to colleges that their athletics—particularly football—had better be cleaned up or the rules of football will be so altered as to affect the eligibility of players.

The man of the world never has been particularly alarmed about professionalism in college sports. He cannot reconcile the building of million dollar stadia, the organized laudation of the "letter" man, and the vast business machinery behind football with a group of men in the early twenties who make this possible and do it for nothing but the "glory of alma mater." The cynicism in this viewpoint is justified by common experience. Manifestly, if a $20,000 gate depends upon the eligibility of one man on a football team, that man will play—scholastic standing, the source of his income, and motives of his conduct notwithstanding.

The problem involved in college athletics is not one of morals but of business. Whenever any human institution waxes so great that it overshadows the parent institution—as football has overshadowed education in the mind of the masses—it is impossible to assume that it will not be efficient at all costs. If one of these costs is a slight ethical laxity, that is not surprising.

The National College Athletic association has rendered an excellent service by approving the Carnegie report. But this approval does not mean that college football is to be cleaned up this year. It merely means only there will be less hypocrisy regarding the compensation and handling of athletes.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

TREATMENT OF PELLAGRA.

R. D. writes: Please write on pellagra. Is liver an essential in treating the disease and if so why? Are there any books on the subject which a layman can understand?

REPLY.

In those aspects of the pellagra question in which lay people are practically interested the public health people are in accord, though they do disagree about some other parts of the field. They are agreed that diet is most important in causing the disease and, likewise, in curing it. They are agreed that people who diet properly along certain lines do not develop pellagra. Those who fail to eat properly are liable to develop the disease.

A large proportion of those who develop pellagra can be cured, using the word in the ordinary sense, by diet. Not much else is needed for cure. The food which is of the greatest value in both prevention and cure is yeast. Yeast is now available in many forms. It can be had as dried yeast in sacks and, in fact, several health departments carry it that way. Or it can be had in packages. Both dried and liquid yeasts are of service. It can be made into soups and it can be eaten on sandwiches and as meat substitutes. There are many recipes for yeast dishes. It is available as a confection. Any housewife who knows how to grow yeast for bread making can grow yeast as a pellagra preventive or cure.

The scientists have shown us how to autolyse or dissolve. Next in rank comes good, lean meat. Not much of the anti-pellagra substance is contained in fats, neither the fats of meats, cream, butter, nor plants. Various vegetables supply a moderate amount of pellagra prevention substance.

The diets which are most productive of this disease are those which supply energy principally through the medium of sugars and especially of molasses and fats and particularly of fat meats. In so far as pellagrins are apt to be anemic, liver may have a place in its treatment, but it is one of secondary importance.

The several symptoms which characterize the disease or which complicate it may call for medicines, but, again, this is of secondary importance. The business of the doctor, in treating a case of pellagra, is that of a pilot keeping the ship in the channel rather than that of a machinist oiling machinery or a stoker feeding fires.

There are books and booklets on the subject. Some are diet books and contain recipes. The United States public health service has produced most of these. Health departments have some.

THE TWITCHING HOUR OF NIGHT.

G. W. D. writes:

1. What causes a man 45 years of age to jerk his hands and arms while in a sound sleep?
2. Do aluminum utensils cause cancer?

REPLY:

1. Nervousness, dreams, light sleeping, incomplete relaxation.
2. No.

"WEAK HEART" AND COFFEE.

C. R. writes: I have a weak heart and do not drink either tea or coffee. I drink hot water mornings and nights with my meals instead. Is this all right, or all wrong?

REPLY:

Warm water [not hot] is a wholesome beverage. In fact, some of the good effects ascribed to tea and coffee are due to warm water rather than to the drugs.

Since "weak heart" has no particular meaning I see no special reason for your practice.

EASY WITH THE HAIR DYE.

B. F. G. writes: Will you please write the truth about black hair dye? I used it for several years and lately had my face swell and become terribly inflamed, with itching and burning of the eyes. My friends said I was poisoned by lead in the hair dye. Is this true and can it do such harm?

REPLY:

Most hair dyes contain lead, silver, or some other poison. Many people use dyes carefully and no harm results. Others develop the trouble you ran into. It seems clear that you were poisoned by hair dye.

WHY OF BRAIN FEVER.

A. writes: Is brain fever hereditary? If not, what causes it?

REPLY:

It is not hereditary. It is due to a coccus. This coccus enters the body by way of the nose. It is acquired by contact, generally with a carrier.

STOP SIGN IN SPRING.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—For safety's sake, please have a stop sign put at the intersection of Elston and Kimball avenues. M. L. R.

COUSINSHIP OF BABIES.

Berwyn, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B are first cousins. A has a baby boy. B has a baby girl. Are the babies second cousins? E. W. M.

Some cases distinguish between the terms "second cousin" and "first cousin once removed," holding that the former applies to persons having a common great-grandparent and that the latter applies to the children of one's first cousin.

Thus, if A and B are ordinary first cousins [having a common grandparent], then A's children are second cousins of B's children, but they are first cousins once removed of B. Other cases recognise that the expressions are so loosely used that "second cousin" must often be interpreted as covering both types of relationship. The terms do not appear in the Illinois statute and have ordinarily no legal importance.

GETTING UP TIME STORIES FOR THE GROWNUPS.

Yes, now we'll give you a getting up talk. There's been too much stress on bed time stories, which means going to bed time stories. And no attention whatever has been paid to getting up time stories. But we need the getting up time stories more than we do the going to bed stories. Going to bed is a cinch. Everybody's tired; mother and the girls are just in from the night club and father's been down at the office getting out the pay roll—he says—and all anybody wants to do is to hit the hay and no back talk from any one. Now, isn't that a heck of a time for a story?

Bed time story! All anybody wants to hear at bed time is silence, and darned little of that. But getting up time is different. If somebody could only say a few words at getting up time that would make the agony of crawling out into the cold and shutting the window—oh, we Americans just must have our fresh air—then three rousing cheers for the getting up time story.

If somebody could assure us while we lay in bed, hoping against hope that we weren't awake, that the shower bath is really not as bad as we think when we first get our eyes open, and that lots of people take a shower bath without dropping dead or being marked for life, it would help amazingly. And a story that had in it something about soft boiled eggs and waffles and maple sirup and hot coffee all waiting in the dining room—then we might come to believe that we could live until breakfast anyhow.

Yes, we need good getting up time stories instead of go to sleep stories. Anybody can go to sleep, but nobody wants to get up. Well, that's where we started and there's where we'll quit.

SONG.

I.

Scarlet and sweet is the night,
Purple and black are the trees,
Small stars are distant and white,
Gentle and dark are the seas,
Golden the moon's mellow light,
Scarlet and sweet is the night.

Jungles are darkened and still,
Small trails are black in the night,
Lonely I tread them; until
Moon-children dance down them, white,
Music comes down from the hill,
Jungles are darkened and still.

Scarlet and sweet is the night,
Great winds are sleeping and still,
Silver and cold is the light
Of stars that creep over the hill,
Stars that are distant and white,

THE WESTERNER.

A MR. RYAN cheers us with the information that he is bringing "Das Rheingold" und "Siegfried" und andere Deutsche opera to das Auditorium very soon. We say Hoch for German opera und Hoch for das Auditorium mit boxes on der side as an opera house should haben. Hoch, hoch, hoch! But ach du lieber Augustine. Vy ist it Herr Ryan? Herr Ryan to bring us Deutsche opera! Ryan! Ach! Götterdämmerung!!!

THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI, SUH, WAS NAMED AFTAH SOMETHING WET.

R. H. L.: Puhhaps, suh, if you cudgel yo memory a bit you can recall the trade names "Pickle and Hand" and "N. O. Bruner." Well, anyway, they were famous likkah distributahs in New Orleans befo prohibition.

Mississippi, as you know, had been dry fo well nigh three genahrations, but its laws puhmitted each adult to ordah a quaht of likkah from a wet state every fifteen days. I believe you will undahstand then, suh, how these two names came to be bettah known to us in Southahn Mississippi than those of our Senatah Pat Harrison, or our Govahnah Theo. Bilbo. At least the two windjammahs just mentioned have nevah, to my knowledge, had any songs sung about them, but even our school children knew the words and music to a song that went this way:

Oh! I wrote a lettah
To Pickle and Hand;
Said send me a bottle
As fast as you can;
If not, I will write
To N. O. Brunah,
For there's a chap that
Will send it soonah.

Thus Mississippi was dependent upon Louisiana for her likkah. Things moved smoothly until national prohibition became law. We drank diluted Jamaica ginnah fo a while, but that was too hot to last in a wahm climate. Also the youngah set—including the girls—and even the women folk developed a thirst for alcoholic beverages, because as descendants of Adam they were heir to his desire to taste forbidden fruit. Something had to be done. No one of us knew how to make whisky. Some of us finally sent a committee to get the recipe from Messrs. Bruner, Pickle, or Hand, but to no avail. The committee repohted that Mr. Bruner had died of a broken haht; that Mr. Pickle was in Europe; that Mr. Hand was too busy in his new toy balloon factahry to receive them; but that the majahity of the committeemen believed that vanilla extract was one of the ingredients used.

Such was the handicap prohibition left with Mississippi. But if you are evah down this way, suh, you simply must see how much we have learned in so shawt a time. HOMER BREWER.

TO HAVE NO FEARS.

The lamp you gave me and the books we read
Are hard to look on, knowing you are dead.
And harder still it is to have no fears
(Now they are all fulfilled), and to know tears
As futile as the locking of a door
Beyond which there is only a bare floor. . . .

"WHAT THE WELL DRESSED MAN Will Wear" was the name of an engrossing article we read in a magazine yesterday. While we shrink from giving any one the idea that we pose as an authority on what the well dressed man will wear, we would say roughly that as long as this icy wave lasts the well dressed man is a big stiff if he doesn't wear two suits of flannel undies, two pairs of woolen socks, a pair of moccasins, woodchopper shoes, galoshes, heavy wool suit, one or possibly two flannel shirts, two overcoats, a woolen muffler, earmuffs, fur cap, fur mittens, and snowshoes. And a necktie. And even when he gets 'em all on he'll not be any two well dressed for this weather.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 16, 1865.

NEW YORK.—George Seward, secretary and general superintendent of the Atlantic Telegraph company, has written to Cyrus W. Field stating that the amount of the Atlantic cable completed on Dec. 30 was 750 miles. The cable is being made at the rate of 80 miles a week and will be completed the first week in June. It will then be stowed on the steamer Great Eastern and the laying is expected to be done in June.

BOSTON.—Edward Everett died of apoplexy at the age of 70, following a cold he contracted a week ago. The death was announced in nearly all churches at the commencement of Sunday services today and created a feeling of profound sadness. Shortly after noon the church bells of the city and suburbs were tolled. It is presumed that the state and city authorities will take part in the obsequies of this great and good man set for Jan. 19.

CAIRO, — Maj. Gen. Schofield and members of his staff, all from Gen. Thomas' army in Tennessee, arrived here. We learn that Gen. Thomas plans no active military movements for several days yet. It is believed that Gen. Hood and his shattered rebel forces are still fleeing southward.

WASHINGTON. — The Richmond Enquirer has this message from Mobile: "The Yankees, about 4,000 strong, are at Franklin Mills, on Dog river, without transportation. Their position is unassailable. Our forces are in position to thwart any move they may make. In a skirmish the other day two or three Yankees were killed and five captured."

CHICAGO.—Miss Emma L. Eldon of Chicago, formerly of Virginia, and Col. C. Lorraner of Alabama and of the regular service of the U. S. A. were married on Jan. 11 by the Rev. Dr. T. Colver.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 16, 1900.

HONOLULU.—The bubonic plague still holds its grip on Honolulu and the city is fighting it with fire.

CHICAGO.—Striking piano makers resorted to violence and led, so some of their victims declare, by Charles Dold, surrounded the factory of the George P. Bent Piano company, 245 Washington boulevard, and assaulted all men who attempted to enter the building. Five men were seriously injured.

LONDON.—Rumors of battles, victories, defeats, retreats and captures in the Ladysmith neighborhood continue as thick as grasshoppers in Kansas. However, there is good reason to believe that Sir Charles Warren, with 11,000 men, has gone toward Weenan and we may expect good news shortly.

CHICAGO.—Northwestern university fraternities were told by President Rogers that they must reform. He had summoned representatives of all fraternities to meet him and, while he made no individual accusations, he made sweeping charges against the societies, touching on life in the various houses, the manner of giving parties, methods of initiation, habits of pledging academy men, boisterousness on Sundays and smoking on the streets.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 16, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Reginald De Koven, internationally famous as one of the greatest of American composers, died suddenly this morning at the home of Mrs. Joseph Fish, 5490 South Shore avenue, where he was a member of an after-the-theater party. Apoplexy was the cause. The body was taken to the home of Robert G. McGann, 120 East Pearson street. Mrs. McGann and Mrs. De Koven are sisters.

CHICAGO.—Federal prohibition arrives tonight. Liquor, which had much of its robustness knocked out of it on the first of last July by wartime prohibition, takes official leave of life in the U. S. A. at midnight, except in the sanctuary of the home.

PARIS.—The supreme council has drafted a note to the Dutch government asking for the extradition of the former German kaiser.

PROPER FEEDING OF PARROTS.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 12.—In regard to the so-called parrot disease we have been reading about recently, I can't help feeling sorry for "poor Poll."

Very few people seem to know that a parrot is a meat eating bird. The shape of their beaks is indicative of that. In fact, their bills are similar to those of the owl, a distinctly meat eating bird.

We have had a parrot for nineteen years. When we bought him we were given a leaflet on the care of a parrot in which the purchaser was warned not to feed salty food nor sugar to a parrot because such food spoils the beauty of their plumage. It further mentioned that parrots are seed eating birds and that their food should consist of sunflower seeds and cereals.

Very soon after we got him we discovered that he enjoyed picking a chicken bone. Since then we have been feeding him practically everything served at meal time and if we fail to include a portion of all that is being served he insists upon getting it by asking, "What's the matter?"

If the wholesale dealers who handraise parrots from their nests would feed them something more than just seeds and rice the birds would be better fitted to resist disease when it attacks them.

A parrot is susceptible to pneumonia and lives only a few hours if attacked by it. Our bird has lived in Manitoba, where at times the thermometer has registered 25 and 30 below zero, when it was difficult to keep stove fires at their peak during the nights. At such times it was not uncommon to discover a thin coat of ice on the water in his drinking cup by morning. We attribute the fact that we still possess him at the age of twenty years to our having provided a warm cover for his cage every night, never leaving him in a draft and never allowing him to be teased.

They further marvel at his wonderful plumage and excellent condition in general, knowing that, contrary to all advice of bird dealers, we feed him practically everything that we eat.

A BIRD LOVER.

DEMANDS AN ACCOUNTING.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—If the government contributes $350,000 or thereabouts for the upkeep of the R. O. T. C. and uniforms for boys, why are these boys charged $1 each for upkeep of uniforms? What becomes of the $5,000 thus paid by the boys? My boy wears a uniform and has been charged $1 for two years. MRS. MAE PILOT.

THE WATER PROBLEM.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—After we have taken our World's Fair guests about to see those glorious permanent exhibits which Mr. McCutcheon pictures, where can we find a nice, clean, cool drink of water, instead of a dose of chlorinated mud? MRS. F. E. B.

THE TRACTION FUND.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Is the reason for the stalling on the subway because the traction fund, if dragged out into the light, would show, instead of real coin, I. O. U.'s?

LILLIAN PLUMMER WASHBURN.

DICTATORSHIP OF THE PARENT.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—As a public school teacher I also went to say "amen" to Mr. John Galland's article, "Freedom in the School Room." He said only half of it when he said the children do not learn anything. They are actually prohibited from doing so by the power that be in the schools. Freedom there is, to be sure, but it is all on the part of the children—not the teacher. If parents realize what wretched work is done in the schools, because frequently only the best work reaches the home, and the only work that parents or even principals or supervisors see is "show work." Nor do the latter often ask about the slow pupil; they look only for method of teaching, motivation, etc.

Why is this poor work so prevalent? It is considered a pedagogical sin to tell of the weakness on the part of the teacher to fail any but the smallest percentage of the class. However, in schools where exceptionally bright and near subnormal pupils are in the same room, there are often many more that should be weeded out for the general benefit of all concerned.

Since the advent of the P. T. A. with its dictatorship a loud and indignant howl is immediately set up if Johnny or Mary ranks anything even suggesting poor work. Parents carefully evade an investigation of Johnny's poor work for fear they might learn the truth. As principal and superintendent alike stand back of the parent, not the teacher. Therefore it is by far the easiest and safest [if one needs their job, at least] to give high grades for poor work. It is continually done, and until the method "Teach the child, not please the parent" is actually followed, instead of being merely chanted, children will learn less and not more as the future advances.

I have taught for twelve years in various grades in schools and find conditions the same wherever the school systems pride themselves on being modern and advanced. In smaller towns, where less bunk and more attention paid to the fundamentals, more learning is grasped, but unfortunately these schools are often overcrowded. No conscientious teacher can do justice to more than thirty or thirty-five pupils, when the correction of papers is taken into consideration. If teaching could be put more upon a business basis instead of wearing a halo and teachers were allowed freedom of expression [after all the credentials and education required] some startling and enlightening exposures might be made.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER.

THE ITALIAN WEDDING.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Again yesterday, as the day before and several days previous, I saw spread all over the front and back pages of THE TRIBUNE glowing and highly detailed accounts of a royal wedding taking place in Europe, a thing which can have no particular or vital interest to the American public. For the last week vivid descriptions of the elaborate preparations for this event have occupied a place on the front page, to the exclusion of other and more vital news.

Why this prominence constantly given to the monkeyshines of foreign royalists? F. W. GATES.

CUSTOM BUILT

By SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Alma, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin and with John Andrew at the wheel have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,980. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an invention without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated Studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract. He decides to sell the Mercury, and offers it for two thousand at an automobile agency. The agency makes an investigation and John Andrew finds himself under arrest.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

JOHN ANDREW IS BAFFLED.

Kellogg grew grim. "I'm not getting mean, but I'm going to find out why you're after me." Through his head flashed the only [to him] possible explanation: the old inventor, Blake, and his unscrupulous attorneys in San Francisco had trumped up some idiotic charge which might prevent Kellogg from wiring the $500 covering the soundless camera agreement. "Where was the warrant telegraphed from?" he demanded. "San Francisco?"

"Give 'em time," said Blue Serge, "and they convict theirselves every chance they get. Innocent, he was, but he knows where th' warrant comes from. Yes, big boy, you're a good guesser."

"What am I supposed to have done?"

"Give us time, feller. If I tell you, will you come along polite, or do we play 'tag, you're it' all over the hotel before th' party's over?"

"If there is no disturbance," the manager stated, "the hotel will prefer no charges for the unpaid bill——"

"You can have his clothes, the D. A.'s office says, after expenses are covered, if there's anything left . . . here, mister [to John Andrew], I guess you got education enough to read this . . . you're what the newspaper boys call a silk stocking crook . . ."

The words danced up and down like miniature skeletons strung on ghostly scaffolds before Kellogg's eyes: ". . . a felony, to wit: Making, passing, or publishing a fictitious check . . . Mercury Motors company . . . city of San Francisco, county of San Francisco . . . intent to defraud . . . purported to be a check in payment of money without any funds being in said bank . . . located in the city of New York, state of New York . . ."

"But I only bought the car a few days ago," Kellogg said sharply. "How could the Mercury company find out if the check was good or not in so little time?"

"We got all sort of modern improvements out here," the deputy grinned. "We even got telegraph companies."

"If the Mercury people had wired New York they'd have discovered that the check was perfectly good——"

"Sure . . . sure. We know. That's what they all say. Just think, though, mister; maybe you sort of forgot to make a deposit you intended makin'."

John Andrew said nothing; his head was beginning to whirl. He himself had given Craig's check for $5,000 to the New York bank; the entry was in his bank book. Could Craig have checked the money out? Impossible. The thing to do right now was to find out what the trouble was.

"May I wire my New York attorney?"

"After you talk to the D. A.'s office, maybe, but our orders is to bring you down, an' that's all we can do."

Dizzily, Kellogg believed that he could trace the course of this miserable new obstacle. The Bradstreet office had gotten in touch with Mercury in San Francisco, to ascertain if it were safe to purchase the custom built roadster; the Mercury company, alarmed, had wired New York to see if the check was good, and . . .

The check wasn't good.

"You're pretty snappy out here," said John Andrew, forehead wrinkled. "It's less than an hour—or no more than an hour—since I started this ball rolling by selling the car——"

"Tryin' t' sell it."

"Trying to sell the car, if that makes you any happier; it's only noon now, and I don't see how it was all done so rapidly; telegraphing San Francisco, their wiring New York, getting this warrant to you here——"

"We work fast," said Blue Serge's mate. "We'll have you on your way to San Quentin b'fore you know it."

"Cheerful soul, aren't you?" said John Andrew.

It was fast action. An hour ago he was ready to assume an arm chair on the top of the world, and now prison was staring him out of countenance. He didn't understand it . . . but what good did that do? The only thing possible was to go with the deputies, which he must will-nilly, and, when he was permitted, wire Craig for information. Suppose [to add to his distress] they didn't let him wire until tomorrow, Saturday, when it would be too late to get the money to satisfy his agreement with Blake, after the Bradstreet people were convinced it was legal to buy the car? What then? John Andrew knew too well. Chaos.

And so he tried once more: "Why not let me wire east, and clear the matter up before it goes too far?" he pleaded.

"Mister, we got our orders; we ain't paid t' think. It ain't our fault; all we got to do is to take you along, and all you got to do is t' come quiet, and not make any rumpus——"

The telephone rang.

The two deputies glanced at the instrument, and then at each other. "He may've had help on this job," said Blue Serge. "You go answer th' phone, Jim, an' maybe you c'n find out who it is, and where——"

Jim went between the twin beds: "Hello," he said, "you want t' talk with Mr. Kellogg, lady? Well . . ."

John Andrew strode toward the instrument, but felt something hard, round, and hollow in the center press against his side. He stopped stockstill.

"You were expectin' him, lady? Well, now, that's too bad. Wait just a minute, an' I'll see when he'll be in f'r you." He covered the transmitter with a big hand and turned to Blue Serge. "It's a dame," he said unnecessarily. "She wants t' talk with this guy . . . what'll I tell her?"

"Find out who she is——"

"The lady had nothing to do with it," Kellogg said wearily. "She doesn't know if the car's new or if I've had it a year. She's just some one I know here," John Andrew ended lamely.

"I'll have him call you just as soon as he comes in, lady. What did you say your name was? . . . Me? . . . I'm just a . . . a . . ." he turned to Blue Serge; "who 'in hell am I?" he whispered, and, before the other deputy could figure out, hearing what he did, he said loudly into the instrument, "O, you think I'm just kiddin' you, an' you got th' wrong number, huh? Well, lady, if you want t' see your boy friend, you can——"

"You just come along down t' th' county jail, lady, an' you and big boy c'n talk it all over comfortable. You . . ."

"Say," he said angrily, "she hung up right in my snoot. She's wiser than we thought."

"Fortunately," said John Andrew.

"Feller," said Blue Serge, slipping his revolver back into its holster, "you talk too much. From now on, shut up."

The lobby of the Poinsettia, like the flower from which the hotel is named, is scarlet and gold; as the noon hour lunchers saunter about, or, awaiting friends, loll in the red cushioned chairs and davenports; guests enter laughingly, or chat a moment with fellow travelers from Indiana, or Iowa, or Illinois; movie people, temporarily disengaged and waiting for new parts, give the other guests something to discuss, and to tell about when they are back in Fort Wayne, or Vandermarck, or Chicago. . . .

Out of the elevator and into the throng of Poinsettia guests there came one who baffled even the readers of the motion picture magazines. He was [all could see] interestingly gaunt and exceedingly well dressed; his face was not the sort of lines you imagined an actor's face assumed; he wasn't Barrymore, but he was . . . O, so sort of pale and unhappy . . .

World Debacle Near, Is View of Christabel

Miss Pankhurst Predicts God's Intervention.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

No longer a suffragette—but still militant. That was Christabel Pankhurst of London at the Englewood Presbyterian church last night. Still preaching, not as of old against the British government for failure to enfranchise women, but against all the world for its failure to anticipate the second coming of the Messiah, which she asserts is close at hand.

Long ago this daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, England's most famous and energetic worker for votes for women, turned from politics to prophecy. Her battles with London bobbies, her eighteen imprisonments for inciting disorder and her hunger strikes came to an end just as the world war was starting and the vote victory was in sight. She plunged into war work and kept at that until the armistice was signed. From that she turned almost at once to evangelism.

Miss Pankhurst last night employed her musical voice, her dramatic gestures in her argument that this is the most hopeless era in history, "the darkest hour which comes before the dawn."

"Isn't it about time," questioned the voice whose tone was not loud but whose timbre carried it to the farthest corner of the church, "that we brought the word, 'Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand' to a country where this generation is imbued with what Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick has called the philosophy of 'futilism'? I think it is only in the furnace of affliction that God can find his lost sheep.

"The world needs divine intervention. There is today no false optimism—people everywhere realize that nothing short of divine intervention will do. So far this twentieth century has brought only the breakdown of social codes and moral bulwarks. I don't think the twentieth century has much to boast of as yet.

"You know I yearn over this poor old world. I can't help feeling sorry for it. If it were not that I believe the Messiah is coming soon to make things right, I would be a pessimist. But I do believe. I believe the signs of the prophecies are being fulfilled.

"What of the fact that the Jews have gone back to Jerusalem, as was foretold centuries ago by the prophets? What of the horrible famine and pestilence in China? What of the terrific storms that have swept the coast of my own dear country so recently? What of the outbreak of nature right down in this vicinity—the overflowing of the Wabash river? Are we to believe all these things have no meaning? They are portentous—the signs are being fulfilled."

Editor of Presbyterian Resigns at Board Request

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Presbyterian, the weekly journal published by the Presbyterian Publishing company of Philadelphia, in its issue dated Jan. 16 contains an editorial announcement signed by Samuel G. Craig, editor, announcing his resignation. The announcement states the resignation was called for by directors of the publishing company because he was unwilling to alter his editorial policy, "especially with reference to Princeton and Westminster seminaries."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A report of a fire in the Southland garage at 7438 Exchange avenue stated the flames which caused a $25,000 damage started from a cigaret stub tossed on the washroom floor. Owners of the garage say the fire was caused by crossed wires.

Stanley Lichtenstein Gives Kimball Hall Song Recital

Of Stanley Lichtenstein, tenor, who made his first Chicago appearance in a song recital at Kimball hall last night, it is learned that he is a native of San Francisco and has been a pupil of Arthur Hubbard of Boston, and later of Arthur Hackett of New York, himself a Hubbard pupil. Then, reversing the order of his studies, he has been concertizing rather extensively in the west and working toward the east.

His program followed the normal group of ancient Italian and French followed by other groups of lieder, more modern French, and English, in these he displayed a light, flexible voice of pleasant quality, hampered to some extent from its full effectiveness by tightness above, and better fitted to be an interpreting medium of Schubert and Brahms than of Salvator Rosa and Scarlatti. There were expert accompaniments by Gordon Campbell. E. M.

Walter G. Preston Jr. of Omaha yesterday took up his duties as assistant to President Robert Maynard Hutchins at the University of Chicago. Mr. Preston, who has been assistant treasurer of the Bankers Reserve Life company of Omaha, was appointed Monday to that position. His duties will consist largely of relieving President Hutchins and Vice President Frederic C. Woodward of some of their administrative work. Mr. Preston is only 25 years old and is a personal friend of President Hutchins, having been a student at Yale and editor of the Yale Daily News while President Hutchins was secretary of Yale university.

High Schools' Orators in Hamilton Contest Friday

Twenty-two representatives of Chicago and suburban high schools will compete tomorrow night in the second annual Alexander Hamilton oratorical contest and dinner to be held under the auspices of the Hamilton club.

Contestants were chosen last week by elimination contests in their respective schools.

Judges of the contest will be the Rev. Frederic Siedenburg of Loyola university, Dean R. E. Heilman of the school of commerce of Northwestern university, and Prof. Bertram G. Nelson of the University of Chicago. Gold plaques engraved with the names of the winner and the school he represents will be presented.

Heads Historical Society.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. G. W. Scheef, 5742 North Artesian avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you ever wish you had acquired more education?

The Answers.

Percy Glanella, 905 Dakin street, secretary — Certainly, an education is something of which we cannot get too much. However, a specific training in some particular work is desirable as far as money making is concerned. There are two kinds of education, cultural and practical. Sometimes they go together, but not always.

Miss Linda Berg, 4239 Drexel boulevard, public school teacher—Yes, indeed. If I had the chance again I would spend many more years in school than I did. We are living in a day of specialization. We have to know one thing well to succeed.

Lloyd Foster, 15410 Broadway, commercial artist—Yes, particularly a more specialized education. The old saying "jack of all trades and master of none" is truer today than ever before. The problem would be easier to solve for the child if our public schools did some specializing in finding out what pursuit he should follow.

Miss Lillian White, Maryland hotel, home girl—I don't think we ever get enough education. I went nearly through high school, but circumstances forced me to stop and go to work. I wish I could have gone through a university. Whatever we learn in school comes in handy later.

Harden H. Fitts, 1116 South Michigan avenue, manager La Salle Extension university—The fact that I am in the educational business indicates my realization that none ever reaches the full measure of the education of which he could make use. Though in its infancy, adult education is opening the way to acquire that schooling of which many persons were deprived in their youth.

Insull Offers $25,000 to Aid Bishop's Chapel

Structure Would Honor C. P. Anderson.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Angus S. Hibbard announced yesterday the gift of $25,000 by Samuel Insull toward a $100,000 fund for the Bishop Anderson Memorial chapel at Western Theological seminary, Evanston. Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fund committee, said the Insull gift is contingent upon the raising of the $75,000 balance.

Dean Frederick C. Grant, head of the Western seminary, states that the new chapel will be ready for dedication on Feb. 24, the 30th anniversary of Bishop Anderson's elevation to the episcopate. Already several substantial gifts have augmented the fund.

"The chapel will be a worthy and lasting monument in honor of Chicago's distinguished prelate and citizen," Mr. Hibbard said.

Bishop Anderson presided yesterday at the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the seminary. The membership of the board was increased from 17 to 25 representative churchmen.

Gifts of $30,000 from Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Sr. and of $10,000 from Kenneth M. Spence, a New York lawyer, have been made for the development of St. James' Episcopal cathedral. That was announced by the Very Rev. Duncan H. Browne, dean of St. James, at the annual parish meeting last week.

The Ryerson gift is for redecorating the nave of the cathedral, while the Spence gift will establish an endowment for the maintenance of the cathedral altar and sacristy. Dean Browne and Mr. Spence have been friends since their undergraduate days at Columbia university. A gift of $3,000 from Miss Annie T. Rogers for the endowment of a cathedral pew in memory of Mrs. Annie Penton Rogers and Susan Caroline Rogers also was announced by Dean Brown.

THEATER

HAVING in mind that neither Miss Grace George nor Miss Barrymore performed Sundays in their respective Chicago engagements, Miss Pauline Frederick says that she, too, has the feeling that she should drop Sunday from her schedule while here, in "The Queen Was in the Parlor."

Miss Constance Collier is bringing with her to Chicago Frank Vernon, one of the two most celebrated of London's stage-directors. He staged the London production of "The Matriarch" for Mrs. Patrick Campbell; and he is in direction of the play for Miss Collier, who will appear in it, starting next Monday night, for the Dramatic League of Chicago, in the Princess. . . . She arrived late yesterday in New-York on the Aquitania.

And, speaking of "The Matriarch," one of Miss Collier's actors therein is Hecketh Pearson, who may or may not be identified by readers of this column as the man who annoyed the British Government with his book called "The Whispering-Gallery." The book was first issued anonymously. Another book of his is "Men and Manners."

"Nina Rosa" has all the markings associated with a quick and definite catch-on in Chicago. Information from the management is that the Tuesday attendance was a high box-office "jump" from the first-night intake, and that yesterday's matinee was but few seats short of a sell-out.

Expectation is that "Street-Scene" will soon be put on in London.

Miss Menken, Mr. Banks, and their associates of "The Infinite Shoeblack" will take that unusual play to Philadelphia. It classifies as a success in Chicago, where its afternoon "draw" has been even stronger than was that of "The First Mrs. Fraser."

Mr. Moore, who is Music for THE TRIBUNE, tells that Mr. Insull plans nine weeks of operetta in the Civic, and indicates that, as yet, the operettas have not been chosen. If the French works of the latter part of the Nineteenth Century be drawn upon in making up the list, I suggest for consideration two pieces known hardly at all in this country. One is by André Messager: it is called "Le Basoche"—a title which means nothing at all until you learn the plot. The other is by the great Lecocq—a piece once done in this country as "The Queen's Mate," but known in France as (I think) "The Princess of the Canaries." . . . Messager is known in Chicago as conductor of the orchestra from the Paris Conservatory which played twice one Sunday late in 1918 in the Auditorium, and as the composer of "Madame Chrysanthème," sung by the Chicago Opera early in 1919, and "Beaucaire." Lecocq is, of course, known for many light, gay masterpieces of operetta and opera-bouffe, including "Girofle-Girofla" and "La Fille du Madame Angot."

Seeking Aid Here for New College for Women

Dr. Robert D. Leigh, president of Bennington college, Bennington, Vt., will address 300 members of the conference of club presidents this morning at the Art institute in the interests of the college, which is the newest of the country's institutions for higher education for women. In the afternoon he will speak at the Chicago Latin School for Girls, 59 Scott street. Tomorrow night he will talk at Faulkner school, 4746 Dorchester avenue, and will be given a reception following. Construction on Bennington college is to start this year, according to the plans, which call for a $2,500,000 fund.

U. of C. Official to Retire After 37 Years at School

Walter A. Payne, recorder and examiner of the University of Chicago, will retire at the end of the academic year next June after 37 years' connection with the university as a student and an administrative officer. He will be succeeded by Roy White Bixler, now assisant examiner. Upon his retirement, Mr. Payne, accompanied by Mrs. Payne, will go aboard for an extended trip, his first absence from the university for more than a few months since he entered as an undergraduate in 1893.

Royal Newlyweds Appear at Cavalry Tournament

ROME, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The prince and princess of Piedmont this afternoon arrived from their castle to preside at an international military steeplechase at the celebrated cavalry school of Tor di Quinto. The princess had offered a cup and her husband, the crown prince, gave 50,000 lira for prizes.

Lieut. Valenzani received the cup from the hand of the princess.

Scout Training Urged to Make Youths Manly

Dr. Allan Hoban Calls Schools Feminized.

Boy scouting was described last night as a "compensation for our feminized school system and the lock step of public education." Dr. Allan Hoban, president of Kalamazoo college, gave it that meaning. He was the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Boy Scout council of Chicago at the Hotel Sherman.

"When men were away at war women trouped into the public school room. They did the job so well that the country is now being educated through the years that scouting covers almost entirely by women," Dr. Hoban said. "But boys of that age need more rugged training by men. I am glad that scouting is able to supplement the feminized condition of our schools. For after all education is not in books alone, but in actual contact with nature, being in the open, knowing the charm of fire, water, and fishing, which is to my mind the legitimate form of gambling."

Dr. Hoban who fifteen years ago was active in boy welfare work here, declared that scouting in Chicago at the present time is not optional, but imperative. He said that unless the moral responsibilites as named in the scout oath are followed by the city's boyhood, there is only calamity ahead for the future of this city.

"If we want vigorous and reliable citizens who will retain the human qualities under stress of modern life we must invest liberally and personally our time, thought, and means in scouting," Dr. Hoban concluded. "A purely mechanistic treatment of boy life is bound to produce robots or criminals."

Not only the growth from 600 Boy Scouts twenty years ago to the present 16,000 but a four year expansion plan which will give Chicago 30,000 scouts in 1933 was explained by E. Urner Goodman, scout executive, in his annual report. The expansion will involve a budget of $1,250,000 to increase work in all phases of scouting to include at least one in six boys of scouting age in the city.

"One of the outstanding accomplishments of the year," Mr. Goodman announced, "was the understanding reached with a committee representing the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago which has resulted in the adoption of the Boy Scout program as its official program of boys' work.

"A formal agreement also was reached with the Salvation Army this year which led to the granting of a special charter to the army making available the Boy Scout program for the Life Saving Scouts established by it almost coincident with the Boy Scouts."

Three Catholic priests were presented with badges of deputy scout commissioners by R. Douglas Stuart, president of the Chicago council, who presided. Two members of the Salvation Army were given like badges.

Another advance of 1929, Mr. Goodman pointed out, was the start of the younger boy, or "cubs'" program, for the first time, in which twenty-six units, known as "packs," have been established experimentally with boys from 9 to 12 years.

All the officers were reflected, Mr. Stuart continuing as president, Laurence B. Robbins as chairman of the executive board, and Mr. Goodman as scout executive.

John Barrymore's New Steel Yacht Soon to Sail

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—John Barrymore's $500,000 steel yacht, christened Infanta, awaited launching ceremonies here today. The yacht was named by Mrs. Barrymore, who is Dolores Costello of the films.

Designed primarily for leisurely exploration of southern Pacific waters, Infanta will take its place as perhaps the most luxurious of all craft belonging to members of the motion picture colony.

Re-elect J. T. McCutcheon Zoological Society Chief

At a meeting of the Chicago Zoological society yesterday at the Palmer house, election of officers for the ensuing term was held. John T. McCutcheon, who was president, was reelected to that position, the entire list of officers being tendered the same compliment. Only routine business came before the meeting except for the election.

South Side Group Opens Art Show for Two Painters

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The South Side Art association, of which Mrs. Alice L. Bidwell is art chairman, opened yesterday in their attractive gallery in the Fine Arts building an exhibit which is particularly nice. There are flower paintings by Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard and small oils, dealing chiefly with Maine, by Paul Parker, a young and hitherto unexhibited painter.

The little paintings by Paul Parker startle one by their feeling and atmosphere, their innate craftsmanship and power. One feels the surging texture of the water lapping against the wood stilts on which the fishing shanties perch; one feels the wet air of a rainy day in the painting of the village, the houses picked out with color standing clear against the gray sky and looming in picturesque beauty out of the drizzle.

It is particularly in his painting of water that one feels the artist's power. The water is like ribbed silk, but of deep texture; one can plunge through the surface into layer upon layer of wetness, ripe with salt and quickened by wind and sun. Among the most effective of the pictures are "Reflections," "New England Afternoon," and "Rainy Day, Boothbay."

The flower paintings by Mrs. Leonard are in sharp contrast to Paul Parker's work. They are similar only in being fine. In Cloucester Mrs. Leonard has a garden to which she is devoted and she follows her flowers from seedling to blossom and picks great armfulls and carries them into her studio and paints them for the sheer love of them and of painting. She does not consider herself seriously in the light of a professional artist, but her paintings give her away.

If one saw only her "Petunias," a beautiful mass of blue and lavender and purple and pink flowers in relief upon a gray background, one would know her worth. Here is some one to be watched. She blends color and composition to perfection. One feels the dewy freshness of the petals. There is variety as well as good workmanship in her canvases. Two exquisite little arrangements in white jars would be fascinating in a boudoir. Others are for overmantel decorations and a third in which the flowers share in importance with the background, that gives us a painting of a painting, is an exhibition piece.

The exhibition will continue two weeks.

Skin As Velvety as Schoolgirl's

One woman who had long been annoyed by a bad complexion writes, "It was worse than usual and I began to use Resinol Soap and Ointment regularly. In a few days my skin was clear and as soft and velvety as a schoolgirl's." A complexion cleared of unsightly blemishes can usually be kept so by daily use of Resinol Soap with a touch of Resinol Ointment when needed for a temporary pimple or roughness.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a substitute for calomel, were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Yale Prexy Laments Use of College as Social Ladder

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—American youth, in the opinion of Dr. James Roland Angell, president of Yale university, goes to college to a large extent merely to gain social prestige. He addressed Colgate alumni today, saying:

"Colleges should honestly admit that they are obliged to reconceive their recruiting problem and begin to be responsible for their failures as well as their achievements. When we come together we should not only think of the men the university has turned out who have become successful, but also of those who have not met with success."

Named the Town.

When I came from Germany some years ago I had an embarrassing experience.

On the way from New York we stopped at many small stations where huge lunchroom signs were prominently displayed. The first time the train stopped some one asked the conductor what the name of the station was.

I, wanting to show how soon I had learned things, said, before he had a chance to answer:

"This is Lunchroom. Can't you see?"

Every one laughed out loud and I tried hard to keep from making that mistake again. O. R.

It would be nothing short of tragic if this school girl were to miss this party because she lacks the necessary party dress. I am sure there is one hanging in your closet which you don't intend to wear again and M. F. would be delighted to have it.

If You'd Buy Perfume Wisely Get a Little and Give It a Trial

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Wouldn't it be nice if we didn't have to talk about anything else but perfumes in a department of this kind? Such nice, sweet, girlish chatter it would be. All the little romances we could drag in, perfumes being so full of 'em! And the bottles we could talk about! Aren't they the bandits to meet on a penny-squeezing day, though? Hold you up and take all you have if you aren't of the stuff of which stout resistance is made. In return for which you get a whiff—but wotawhiff!

Jasmine—a word to dream on. They ought to name babies Jasmine. And tea-gowns! And those elegant French dolls that grace a boudoir setting! Yet I've been told jasmine has a terrible odor in its raw state. Maybe, they oughtn't to name anything after it. Certainly not babies with their exquisite sweetness—

Excuse me—but perfumes do make you maudlin, don't they? Yet them as makes and sells 'em, says you, ought to use your head, not your senses, when you go a-marketing at perfume counters.

They tell you that you can daub your hanky with a scent and the back of the hand with the same scent and after a brief period of time the odor seems different. Or if you daub it on your hanky and after your bath you rub some out of the same bottle on your chest, the heat of the body and the body's own particular chemical reaction will make an even greater difference in the differently applied scent.

They tell you, too, that when you go perfume shopping one scent at a time is sufficient to sample; that the olfactory nerves tire easily and that when smelling several perfumes in rapid succession sharp, clear judgment is difficult, if not impossible; that it is better to buy the smallest bottle of the new perfume you can get, and live with it awhile before deciding on a bigger money outlay.

You want to get it off home and alone with you—away from other scents completely. It's hard not to grow bewildered before a counter. Smelling the bottle or its stopper is not the way to judge. For a swift test, an expert spreads a little of the essence over the back of the hand and waits until the alcohol is evaporated before smelling the anointed place. A handkerchief is not the ideal testing surface; nor any silk, linen or cotton surface.

Janet B. Lord Is Engaged to Easterner

BY THALIA ——.

An announcement I am authorized to publish this morning, simultaneously with its appearance in New York City, is that being made by Mrs. Susan Rowe Lord of Chicago and Dorset, Vt., of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Janet Boughton Lord, to Nathaniel Tyler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Tyler of Short Hills, New Jersey.

The romance had its inception in the world of commerce. After her 3 years at Miss Walker's fashionable finishing school at Simsbury, Conn., Miss Lord entered a real estate office, and has since achieved quite signal success in her chosen field. Mr. Tyler attended Kent prep school and is a member of the same firm as his fiancée. Another interesting angle to the alliance is that he was a schoolmate of Miss Lord's brother-in-law, Russell Lee Post, who was married to Emily Lord last summer. The date for the wedding has not been set yet, but it probably will take place in the sylvan setting of Elmsleigh, at Dorset, as the previous wedding of the family did. Mrs. Lord and her daughter spend most of the year in Vermont, and occupy an apartment in New York City for part of the time.

Mr. Post is studying law at the University of Virginia, so he and his wife are living nearby. There her cousin, Miss Jane Rowe, daughter of the Edgar C. Rowes plans to visit them this spring.

The Arts club has cards out for one of its teas on Tuesday next. This one is to open three exhibitions, to include paintings by Raoul Dufy, water colors by Leon Carroll, and sculpture by José de Creeft.

The Chicago Smith College club annually gives a series of lectures, the proceeds of which are given to organizations selected by the board. This year's talks will be by Prof. Mary Ellen Chase, on Tuesday, Jan. 28, and Thursday, Jan. 30, at the Chicago College club at 11 a. m. "The Genius of Thomas Hardy," and "Old Literary Standards in a New Age," are the subjects.

The Junior League Arts and Interests committee is sponsoring a series of lectures to begin on Jan. 27. Henry P. Shaw is to speak on "The Fundamentals of Investment Banking" on that occasion, and later lectures include one by Ralph Erskine on "Designing Furniture for the Modern Home," on Feb. 10, one by Eleanor Cooke who will give a costume recital and folk songs on March 17.

The last one will be April 7 by Ellery Walter on "The World on One Leg." The first two programs will be for members of the league only at the Drake hotel, and the others will be open to the public at places not yet designated. Mrs. Wesley Dixon is chairman of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell of 1846 North State parkway are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Tuesday, at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Mitchell is the former Florence Folds Gregg, her marriage to Mr. Mitchell having taken place about a year and a half ago. The new baby is to be given the euphonious name of Lynn, after her grandmother, Mr. Mitchell's mother, who was Miss Lynn Lithgow of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Sturtevant of 1448 Lake Shore drive are going south next month for a winter holiday. Their plans are not yet settled, but they will probably go to the West Indies and later to Palm Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson of 1200 Lake Shore drive are expected to return tomorrow from a trip to New York City.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Boissevain (Ruth Dangler Davis) have been here from Colorado Springs and are now returned to the west.

The Evanston junior auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society is planning a theater benefit on Feb. 3 at the performance of "Let Us Be Gay," starring Francine Larrimore at the Studebaker theater.

The performance will be followed by a supper dance in the Balloon room of the Congress hotel. The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. William M. Parkes, and includes Mrs. Ray P. Hoover and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, vice chairmen; Mrs. Hugh McCulloch and Mrs. Robert See, invitation committee; Mrs. E. J. Winters and Mrs. Everett Cook, boxes; Mrs. Robert T. Sherman and Mrs. Donald W. Rogers, supper; Mrs. William J. Wardall and Mrs. Edwin E. Sheridan, publicity.

The marriage of Miss Alice Bremner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David F. Bremner of 1430 Lake Shore drive, to Lincoln O'Gara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Gara of 1350 State parkway, will be solemnized on Feb. 18 at noon at Holy Name cathedral. A reception at the Blackstone will follow the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crerar have rented the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley at 209 Lake Shore drive. The Hinckleys, with Mrs. Hinckley's children, will leave soon for Boston, where they have purchased the Henry Forbes Bigelow residence at 142 Chestnut street.

[Tolloff Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Wendelin P. Seng of Wilmette announce the engagement of their daughter, Winifred Rosamond, to Oscar Joseph Hollenbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollenbach of 5924 Sheridan road, Chicago. The wedding will take place in June.

Editor Sees New Trend Back to Yankee Home

The increase in home building and landscaping within the last few years is evidence that American people are getting "back to the hearth" and forsaking cafés and parties as a means of happiness. This was the view expressed yesterday by Alfred C. Hottes of Des Moines, associate editor of the Better Homes and Gardens magazine in an address at the joint meeting of the Illinois State Nurserymen's association, and the Western Association of Nurserymen at the Hotel Sherman.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—President Hoover gave a luncheon today at the White House for Gen. Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa, with whom he has a personal acquaintance, made in Paris, just following the great war.

Gen. Smuts, former premier of the Union of South Africa, is making a short visit in Washington. The President's other guests were Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, the secretary of commerce; Eric Louw, minister from South Africa; Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury; Charles P. Summerall, the chief of staff, U. S. army; Gen. Pershing, and others.

Mrs. Hoover attended the morning musical of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend today at the Mayflower, the fifth one in the series. She occupied the presidential box and had with her Miss Susan Dyer of New York, her house guest, and Miss Mary Randolph, her secretary.

Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, have as their guest the former's daughter, Mrs. George, wife of Maj. C. C. George of Fort Sill, Okla.

Dr. William Mather Lewis, formerly of Chicago, accompanied by Mrs. Lewis and their daughter, Miss Sally Lewis, are at the Mayflower for the remainder of this week.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, formerly of Chicago, gave a luncheon today following Mrs. Townsend's musical.

Salute of 19 Guns Greets Papal Envoy to Irish Free State

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 15.—Accompanied by mounted infantry Archbishop Pascal Robinson, papal nuncio, arrived at noon today at the vice regal lodge, then presented his credentials to Gov. Gen. James MacNeill, to a salute of 19 guns. The houses along the route to the lodge were gayly beflagged, crowds filled the streets.

President of the Council William T. Cosgrave and Minister of External Affairs McGilligan were present at the lodge. The nuncio and the governor-general exchanged greetings, the latter saying he hoped soon to go to Rome to present his homage personally.

At four this afternoon the nuncio drove to the government buildings and was there received by President Cosgrave and the members of his cabinet. Later the envoy was the guest of honor at a state banquet at the Shelbourne hotel.

"We are Irish in our love of our country and Roman in our religion," Mr. Cosgrave declared. "The destiny of the Irish people is linked with the Holy See."

Talkies Cut Dental Trade in Hollywood, Convention Here Told

The business of straightening teeth has declined in Hollywood since the advent of the talkies, according to Dr. Helen Stahle, who spoke yesterday before dentists in convention at the Stevens hotel.

"In the day of silence films beauty was the prime object," Dr. Stahle said. "But now the voice is more important. Men never did bother much about developing a perfect set of teeth and now that the stage stars with reputations already made are coming to the fore, beauty is not the prime object anymore.

"In some of the more unsightly cases of teeth, porcelain masks are made and slipped over the teeth, giving the appearance of a perfect set."

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. G. Russell Stuhler of the Sheridan-Surf hotel announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Lois Nancy Galbraith, to L. Parsons Warren, son of Mrs. William S. Warren of 2258 Lincoln Park West. No date has been set for the wedding.

London Woman Urges Better Understanding Between U. S., Britain

Great Britain and America have in the English language a common basis for efforts to bring the world to a more tranquil status of international relations, Dame Edith Lyttleton of London told an audience of 300 at the luncheon of the English Speaking union at the Blackstone hotel yesterday.

"Some people in England who haven't had the opportunity to find out the truth, imagine all Americans are rich, and that Americans are being ungenerous in demanding payment of the war debts.

"Why can't we have English teachers transferred to the schools in this country, and some from this country teaching in English schools? Why can't there be community centers or gathering places to convey the spirit of the English language to uneducated people and foreigners?"

Heidelberg's American Hall Due to Schurman's Work

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The cornerstone of the new "American Hall" of Heidelberg university for which retiring Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman collected funds, was laid today. Emil Gotschlich, rector of the university, sent a message to President von Hindenburg paying tribute to Ambassador Schurman's general initiative and affirming the university's loyalty to the fatherland.

"Our most cordial wishes accompany you on your return homeward. Please give our American friends and benefactors the warmest greetings and thanks."

Society Attends "Otello"

Many of the box occupants at last night's performance of "Otello" did not arrive until Iago's plans against the jealous Moor were well under way. Mrs. Francis J. Johnson and her guests came in just before the curtain rose on the second act. Her party included Mr. and Mrs. James C. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell and Robert F. Carr.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane arrived a little earlier, bringing with her Comte and Comtesse de Contades, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, Colin Fyffe and Donald McClure. Dr. and Mrs. Otto Schmidt and the German consul and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Hugo Simon, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Kelley were hosts in their box to their house guest, Mrs. Alfred F. Smith of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. Kelley, and Gordon Kelley. Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm L. Harris had with them Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. George F. McNulty. Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. White's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Rundall, and Warren B. Buckley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. McIntosh had as their guests Mrs. John S. Jones of Columbus, O., Franklin P. Smith and Mrs. Caswell A. Sharpe, Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney was hostess in her box to Mr. and Mrs. George N. Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr., and Carl Milles. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Doherty and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Cantwell Jr., were with Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Yager.

Mr. and Mrs. John McKinlay were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. David M. Yates and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Young. Mrs. Robert M. Lucas' box was occupied by Mrs. George A. Murphy, Mrs. James Gormley, Miss Alice Gormley, and Miss Jane Barrett. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Fiske were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin.

Time and Patience Spent in Their Care Are Amply Rewarded

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In an appreciative letter I find this "but." "But I wonder if you know how much time and patience it takes to do these things besides the housework for a family of young children."

Well, to be personal for just a moment, I do. Any one who writes about children from theory alone can not begin to understand the difficulties of time alone that confront a mother and a housewife—not to mention strength.

A woman has just so much strength—and no more.

A day has just so many hours. In fact, as some one put it—I think it was Arnold Bennett—"How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day" is quite a chore to work out. So, I understand the routine of family life and housework, and in making suggestions I have always in the background of my mind a consciousness of the terrific difficulties under which many women are bringing up their children.

But a little thinking will reveal the fact that the approach to children which is recommended in these articles brings results which are time saving and energy saving in the end. Because, if you eliminate friction, if you prevent mealtime troubles by good management, and bedtime fussing and tantrums and other disturbing happenings—you eventually save a lot of your time and energy.

For example, to use a rather general circumstance, it takes time and energy to answer your children's questions. But if you do it you get to know them better and you make them more and more intelligent, so that when necessary you can make an appeal to their reason, preventing many, many behavior difficulties that people have who "don't want to be bothered," or who can't spare the time, who don't understand their children, or who expect blind obedience from them.

Or, for another example—it is hard to put aside your housework to settle or clear up this or that trouble. You may have to leave the potatoes half peeled or stop sewing on the machine to explain or show something to the toddler instead of snatching it out of his hands and saying "Don't." But if you do you will satisfy his sense of touch and keep him from being destructive and constantly meddlesome. You may have to take your hands out of the dishwater to hold a football that is being blown up, or to mend a beloved doll, but if you do you will be establishing a workable relationship with your child. And this is the one great gain in the long run.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The splendor, sophisticated lines of this chick frock will instantly appeal to discriminating taste, for it is a new design becoming to most figures. The nipped in waistline at the front is achieved through decorative horizontal tucks that create a swathed movement through the hips and help give an effect of slenderness. The neckline is unusually becoming with pin tucks that narrow the shoulders, and a jabot frill placed at the right side. A corresponding frill is placed at the left hip. Flat silk crêpe, faille silk crêpe and crêpe satin are among the many suitable materials.

The pattern, 3161, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

His mother promptly reprimanded him. "You've been next door. I've told you repeatedly not to play with that little Roberts boy."

"I wasn't playin' with him," Orval laconically replied. "I was fightin' with him." F. K. B.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

This is a true story. The girl started to work for the man whose efficient secretary she now is at a very early age—16, to be exact. An unusually smart youngster she was, jumping rapidly from handy office girl to her present responsible place. Only seven years have elapsed in the process of her advance.

Christmas week came around recently with a bonus for the girl that was quite the largest she had ever received. In addition, for personal service to her employer, his wife and his family, a handsome gift was made her. She came home from work bearing the gift package triumphantly.

The boy-friend's gift was there awaiting her. It was an umbrella, a good one, and one of the newly abbreviated handle types, obviously not expensive but in quite good taste.

The boy called later that evening. He got sentimental, quite. Talked the prospect of getting married by next Christmas. The girl, of course, was included in the scheme. The handling was a bit awkward, it is true, but the boy is fine, nevertheless. And the girl knows it.

But what was running through her mind at the moment of the young man's sentimentalizing was this: "Next year, I'll probably have a bigger bonus. Look at the gift I have from my employer. It must have cost a hundred dollars. Jim gives me an umbrella. If I marry him, there'll be no bonus, no gift from the boss, and very likely a washing machine with the first installment paid on it for my Christmas gift.

"No I'll not listen to him. I don't want to get married until I'm 30, anyway. By that time I'll have enough money saved so that I can buy my own Christmas gifts if I want to."

It's too soon yet to know if the girl will stick to her resolution not to marry before she is 30. But is it fair, especially for a girl with brains, to compare the gift powers of a young man with that of an employer some twenty-five years his business senior? She is a nice girl—but getting a bit of a material crust on her soul. She has worked hard, true. But, after all, isn't love something to calculate into a gift, too?

There's none of it whatsoever in the employer's gift. It's purely appreciation for strenuous enough office services.

Pajamas Enliven Tropical Beaches

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Skirts on the southern beaches aren't quite so old fashioned as the horse and buggy, but they're getting along in that direction. Pajamas as is in Paris are so sweetly feminine and at the same time so boyishly free that the ladies who take their clothes south from here wouldn't dream of neglecting their pajama wardrobes. Pajama fashions change as often as any others, and the new styles Paris is making for the southern resorts are going to do a lot to increase the beach pajama habit all over the world.

The latest thing in these modes is the complete ensemble, rendered as far as possible in cotton, wool, or one of the useful silks like tussah or pongee. Styles are getting more and more dependent on location, and the beach is no place for fragile silks and satins, or any of the other hothouse fabrics. Paris thinks that cotton, linen, or crash are more beautiful for the burning sands than any other fabrics in the world, and fashionable women agree with her. They started last fall wearing cotton overalls at the Lido, and they are going on now to Palm Beach and Egypt with cotton pajamas that have the new high waist line, long hem line, and feminine silhouette of other clothes.

Pajamas for the south are gay as to color, and they have special hats and shoes designed to accompany them. and special bathing suits to be worn under them. The Schiaparelli pajama ensemble shown in our sketch is the latest type for the beach, with its brief waist and its exceedingly long, wide trousers.

The sailor middy, cut short at the natural waist line, is made of orange cotton epongé and it is pinched in at the waist line by short zipper fastenings at the sides and by the trouser belt in front. The trousers are made of green cotton epongé.

The big hat is a rough, natural leghorn covered over with a filet net made of cork tinted green and orange, over the brim. The beach sandals are made of cork tinted green and orange, and, of course, there are no stockings. Underneath is a green woolen one piece bathing suit.

Concerts for Children.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Bandages on apple trees are not necessarily a sign they are suffering from injuries. The chances are that the orchardist has bandaged the trees to set a trap for an old enemy, the codling moth, an insect which causes a $20,000,000 loss to apple growers annually. When the larvæ of this insect are ready to make their cocoons they look for a sheltered spot on the tree and if there is a band around the trunk, that makes an ideal place.

This method of trapping larvæ of the codling moth was generally used before arsenical sprays were developed and still is used as a supplementary control measure. Recent work of the United States department of agriculture sheds new light on this practice.

With the ordinary paper or burlap bands commonly used it is necessary to send men through the orchard at intervals to destroy the larvæ collected in the bands. In an effort to eliminate this job, specialists of the department have been experimenting with bands treated with various chemicals which will kill the larvæ. They report that a combination of beta naphthol and lubricating oil gives satisfactory results and causes no apparent injury to the trees.

Further experiments will be necessary before the department can state conclusively that no injury to the tree will result from the use of these treated bands. For this reason it is recommended that all tests with such bands be made on a small scale and only on trees of full bearing capacity.

In a test comparing various materials for bands it was found that those made of paper burlap were equal or superior to those of 3-ply cloth burlap the kind commonly used in commercial orchards. The paper burlap band is much less expensive than the one made of burlap, which means a substantial saving to fruit growers. Heavy roofing paper and light crêpe paper were the least effective materials tried.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Some Parsnip Soups.

Of the various parsnip soups we may make, that which is made like a stew is perhaps the most vigorous of flavor and character. We can make a parsnip stew and then sieve what is left over and heat it up for a soup.

To make such a stew cut a quarter of a pound of pork into small pieces and brown in a little butter, cooking them on all sides. Add five or six cups of cold water and bring that to a boil. In the meantime parboil six parsnips until you can rub off the skin, then slice or dice them and add to the boiling mixture. Measure before adding, then peel and slice potato equal in amount to the parsnips, and one or two onions. Add these to the stew and cook the whole until tender.

Serve as a stew, or at once mash and strain the vegetables, and serve as a soup. It will seem like a soup of some delicate meatlike stock. We can make it thicker or thinner by adding more or less of the mashed vegetables and a nice finish for it is a little cream. Even if it is served as a stew it will be finer if milk or cream is added. This should make six nice cups of vegetable broth, or the vegetables mashed separately may be used as a puree with only a little of the liquid for a vegetable course. The remaining liquid can be used just as we use our meat stock.

A parsnip soup with a characteristic flavor of its own, which one can easily acquire a taste for, and one which looks like the expensive troublesome chestnut soup, may be made as follows: For each standard measuring cup of soup allow one good sized parsnip, one cup hot milk, half a raw carrot grated or put through the food chopper, seasonings of salt, etc. Prepare and cook parsnips until tender and mash them or sieve them. Add hot milk, raw carrot and seasonings, which may include a little butter, and cook together for a few minutes. Serve in cups with whipped cream.

Another: Slice one pound of prepared raw parsnips, dust them with flour, sauté in butter to a light brown on both sides. Add one quart of boiling water and cook till tender. Strain, heat up, add salt, pepper and a little butter and a cup or more of milk and cream to make of desired consistency. Serve with a little grated carrot.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

OAKLEY LEAVES $600,000 FOR MUSIC LIBRARY

Newberry Trustees Will Govern Funds.

The Newberry library is to receive the bulk of the $600,000 estate of the late Horace S. Oakley, prominent Chicago attorney and patron of music, for the establishment and maintenance of a musical library. The will was filed yesterday before Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

Mr. Oakley, a bachelor, died aboard a liner en route to Naples from New York on Dec. 15. He was 68 years old. He was a partner in the law firm of Wood & Oakley and was a director of the Orchestral association, the Civic Music association, and the American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

Gives $10,000 to Art Institute.

His will leaves $5,000 to the Cliff Dwellers, $5,000 to the Civic Music association, $10,000 to the Art institute, $10,000 to the Orchestral association, and $5,000 to the American School of Classical Studies.

Charles B. Wood, Mr. Oakley's law partner, receives his interest in the firm and land in Villas county, Wis.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Oakley Hawley of Sioux City, Ia., receives the income of the balance of the estate together with farm lands in Dane county, Wis.

At her death the income and a portion of the principal will go to the Newberry library for the establishment of the Jane Sweeney Oakley musical library in memory of his mother. The will provides that the library be kept as a separate collection but also authorizes the library trustees to use the fund for other purposes if they so desire. The will was drawn on last Aug. 15. Mr. Oakley lived at 1210 Astor street.

Hunt Wentworth Will Filed.

The will of Hunt Longworth, grandnephew of "Long John" Wentworth, mayor of Chicago in 1860 and a descendant of one of the city's most prominent families, who committed suicide by shooting himself in his home at 1240 Lake Shore drive on Dec. 16, was also filed. The estate, according to an accompanying petition, amounts to $75,000.

This estate is left to his brother, John Wentworth, 1325 Astor street, with the understanding that it shall be invested and the income turned over to his mother, Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth. From his father, Moses J. Wentworth, lawyer and capitalist, Wentworth inherited $500,000 in 1922. A coroner's jury attributed the death to ill health.

Brigham Estate $1,000,000.

Letters of administration for the estate of Henry H. Brigham, president of the North American Car company and of the Atlantic Seaboard Dispatch company, were sought from Probate Court Clerk Mitchell C. Robin by his widow, Mrs. Belle Hanna Brigham. His estate is estimated at $1,000,000.

Since Mr. Brigham died intestate his estate will be divided by his widow and three children, Erwin R. and Henry Brigham, and Mrs. Edith B. Swan. Mr. Brigham died suddenly in New York on Jan. 4. He lived at 219 South street, Glencoe.

Dr. Magill, Canadian Wheat Expert, Dies at Battle Creek

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Jan. 15.—Dr. Robert Magill, 56, secretary of the Winnipeg grain exchange, died today at Battle Creek, Mich., where he had been a patient since last November. He was former chairman of the board of railway commissioners for Canada, chairman of the Canadian board of grain supervisors during the war, and in 1918 went to London to discuss with the imperial government the disposal of Canada's grain crop.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Strange Behavior of Little Willie

Music Floods In on Elmer; and It's Good

Orchestra Over W-G-N Is Best Feature.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The enthusiastic description used weekly in telling of the Wednesday orchestral and vocal program from New York through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9:30, might appropriately be applied to most of the major musical programs last evening. The New York program has the excellent Revelers' male quartet. The sponsors of this hour may justly be proud of the other entertainment on this program also.

The Max Bendix "Century of Progress" band, WLS, 8 to 8:30, made the welkin ring sonorously with Wagnerian selections and merrily with contrasting lighter and sprightlier numbers. This station's Anvil chorus, 8:30 to 9, was decidedly impressive in Grieg's song of the sea, "The Norsemen," and with orchestral accompaniment they sang "Drums," a telling novelty.

Again, Floyd Gibbons, from New York through W-G-N, 9:30 to 10. This time concerning the arrival of the first contingent of Yanks on French soil during the world war. And, as always, he gave an interesting array of side lights and observations. Somehow one is strangely forced to hear his entire talk for fear of missing some flash of exceptionally gripping comment.

Court Asks Attorney to Return Fee to Convict

Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday asked Attorney William M. Micon to return a $500 fee to a client whom the judge had just sentenced to serve three years in Leavenworth prison for violation of the Dyer act. The defendant, Earl A. Stevens, told the court about the fee and Micon said he had charged Stevens $500 for representing him in the case but admitted that he had not filed a plea for his client.

JOHN SEXTON, 71, HEAD OF GROCERY COMPANY, IS DEAD

John Sexton, 71 years old, president of John Sexton & Co., wholesale grocers, died yesterday in Los Angeles, after a three days' illness of pneumonia. The body will be returned to Chicago for burial.

JOHN SEXTON.

Mr. Sexton was born in Dundas, Canada, and came to Chicago in 1877 when he was 19 years old. He engaged in the grocery business and developed a chain of tea and coffee stores. In 1883 he formed a partnership with George A. Hitchcock under the name of Hitchcock & Sexton, and in 1886 took over the company under the name of John Sexton & Co. He served as president of the company for many years and for the last few years he has been chairman of the board of directors.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Louise Sexton; two daughters, Mrs. Edmund A. Egan of Chicago and Mrs. Henry A. Martin of Wilmette; three sons, Thomas G., Sherman J., and Franklin, and four sisters, Mrs. Frank Upton, Mrs. Sarah O'Leary, Mrs. Robert T. Barton of Winneconne, Wis., and Mrs. Edward L. Sargent of Dallas, Tex. He was a member of the Germania club. Before leaving for California on Thanksgiving day he had made his home at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

INSURANCE SALESMAN IS FREED.

Robert E. Hanifin, 30 years old, 2711 East 76th street, an insurance salesman, was discharged by Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen yesterday when Miss Marie Senaker, 21 years old, 1945 East 72d street, who caused his arrest on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, failed to appear.

ANNA P. NELSON, CITY RESIDENT 53 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Anna P. Nelson, 83, a resident of Chicago for 53 years, died at midnight Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Emil F. Erickson, 1631 North Meade avenue. Mrs. Nelson was the widow of Lars P. Nelson, an old time Chicago newspaper man who died two years ago. Lars Nelson for years was a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Record-Herald. Mrs. Nelson was born in Sweden and came to America when twenty years of age. Six children survive. They are Martin E., 5806 Kenmore avenue, assistant secretary of the Chicago Stock Exchange; Albert F., Rhinelander, Wis.; Mrs. D. Frank O'Neill, 3231 Leland avenue; Mrs. Erickson and Mrs. A. P. Larson, 1631 North Meade avenue; and Mrs. Julius Nielson, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Michael G. Bauer, Partner in Investment House, Dies

Michael G. Bauer, partner in the investment banking firm of Dunne, Bauer & Co., 231 South La Salle street, died of pneumonia yesterday in his home, 605 Earlston road, Kenilworth. He was born Aug. 3, 1898, in Chicago and was active in the Knights of Columbus. He was a member of the Midland, City, and Frontenac Athletic clubs. The widow and three children, Virginia, Alice May, and Robert Michael, survive. The funeral will be held from the family home at 9:30 a. m., Saturday.

Ernest L. Burrell, Belting Manufacturer, Dies in East

Ernest L. Burrell, former leather and belting manufacturer of Chicago, died yesterday in New York City where he has lived for three years. He was 64 years old. Death was due to heart disease. Mr. Burrell was in the manufacturing business for nearly 50 years. He served as president of the Charles Munson Belting Co., and later of the Burrell Belting Co., of which he was founder. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Willetts Burrell, and a daughter, Mrs. George Lindsay.

Death Takes Designer of 3 Spanish Ships Sunk by U. S.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—James Stewart Clark, 80, one of the best known naval architects of his day, who built three of the Spanish cruisers sunk at the battle of Santiago in 1898 and founded the steel ship building industry in Japan, is dead here today after a long illness.

Remove BACTERIAL-MOUTH before others discover its offensive presence

Though you may brush teeth and gums faithfully Bacterial-Mouth threatens beauty and health so long as you breathe. It is caused by germs that sweep into the mouth. They attack teeth and gums and defy the ordinary dentifrice. To have sound, sparkling white teeth and firm pink gums you must guard against this offending condition that confronts all of us. One dental cream removes Bacterial-Mouth by killing the germs that cause it. That dental cream is Kolynos.

Teeth Whiter . . . 3 shades in 3 days

USE the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for 3 days—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. Then look at your teeth, fully 3 shades whiter.

In 10 days the improvement will be so marked you will never again say that white teeth are a gift received only by a fortunate few.

Dentists have long advocated the Dry-Brush Technique as the one way to use a dental cream full strength and keep brush bristles stiff enough to clean every tooth surface and massage gums properly. Kolynos permits this approved technique.

This highly concentrated, double-strength dental cream is unique in action. It multiplies 25 times when it enters the mouth—thus a half-inch of Kolynos is equal in effectiveness to 12 inches of the ordinary toothpaste. It becomes a surging, antiseptic foam that makes wetting the tooth-brush unnecessary.

Germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth and lead to stain, decay and gum diseases are instantly killed. They vanish and the entire mouth is purified. Kolynos kills 190 million germs in 10 seconds, 424 million in 60 seconds.

This amazing Kolynos Foam removes food particles that ferment and cause decay . . . neutralizes acids . . . washes away tartar and the unsightly mucoid coating that clouds teeth.

Easily and quickly, it cleans and polishes teeth down to the naked white enamel—without injury. And for 3 hours after each brushing this cleansing, purifying process continues.

So long as you use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique teeth will remain gleaming white and sound, gums will be firm and healthy.

Look for results in 3 days

If you want whiter, sounder teeth and firm, pink gums start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. Within 3 days teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades. Gums will look and feel better. Your mouth will tingle with a clean, sweet taste. Buy a tube of Kolynos or mail this coupon for a generous trial tube —sent free.

FILIPINOS BEG FOR FREEDOM OR AN INQUIRY

Tell Senators They Can Govern Selves Now.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Immediate independence for the Philippines, while the consequences of the separation "can be minimized in their destructive effect and while the people have the ability to withstand the shock," was urged upon the senate's territories and insular affairs committee today by an official delegation representing the Philippine legislature.

Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine house of representatives and chief spokesman for the delegation, was accompanied by Pedro Gil, Democrat, or minority leader in the house, who filed a brief with the committee, and Marcial P. Lichauco, an official of the islands' department of justice.

Parties United in Demand.

Pedro Guevara, senior Philippine resident commissioner, introduced the delegation to the committee with the observation that its personnel indicated both major political parties in the islands are united in the demand for independence.

Roxas insisted that the Filipino has demonstrated his ability to govern himself, pointing out that of 20,100 civil employés in government, only 404 are Americans, virtually all of them public school teachers. Congress, he declared, should either grant independence to the islands now, as proposed in the resolution sponsored by Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah], or, as an alternative, he said, it should pass the Bingham resolution authorizing the President to call a conference at Manila next September for study of the whole problem of future relations between the United States and the Philippines.

No Dry Law Nor Drunkenness.

Reverting to his contention that the islands are now able to govern themselves, Roxas recalled that during the world war the American troops were withdrawn for service elsewhere and that Filipinos proved themselves equal to the task of maintaining order. Senator Harry Hawes [Dem., Mo.] suggested that Philippine cities "are, perhaps, more orderly than many American cities, for instance, Chicago, with its hoodlums, gang wars, and machine gun executions."

"We have no prohibition," answered Roxas with a broad smile. "I will gladly give $1,000 for every man you can find intoxicated on the streets of Manila."

Concedes Economic Risk.

Gil, in his brief, conceded that independence for the Philippines carrying with it abolition of free trade with the United States would undoubtedly "have for its immediate effect a serious economic disturbance in the islands."

"But," he continued, "there also is no doubt that after the necessary period of readjustment, the way will then be clear for the development of Philippine commerce and trade along broader and permanent lines."

FINED FOR ASSAULTING DEPUTY.

Conrad Strand, 34 years old, 3025 Fulton street, was fined $15 yesterday by Judge George B. Holmes in the Des Plaines street court on a charge of disorderly conduct growing out of an alleged attack on Deputy Sheriff Peter Barrett when the deputy sought to serve him with a summons in a civil suit.

STATE WITNESS TURNS AT CHILD SLAYING TRIAL

Gladys Parks' Father Says He Was Abused.

Camden Courthouse, N. J., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—George W. Parks, the elderly father of Gladys May Parks, claimed on the witness stand at her trial today that authorities kept food from him for three days and made him sleep on "slats" in order to bring about his making implications against his daughter. Mrs. Parks is charged with the murder of Dorothy and Timothy Rogers, young children of Alan N. Rogers of Woodbury entrusted to her care after the death of their mother.

Parks' testimony was to have been one of the important bits of the state's case, according to the outline given two days ago by Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin.

Prosecutor Pleads Surprise.

But the picture he painted of the woman's life with the two children was altogether different from that which had been promised.

Shortly after the witness began to get out of hand, Baldwin pleaded "surprise" and asked the right to cross-examine. Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd allowed him to read certain sections of the statements Parks is alleged to have made in November. These spoke of his quarreling with his daughter over the harsh treatment she was giving the children.

Claims She Loved Children.

"I had not often when I said that," Parks told the jury. He used the same phrase in answer to a number of questions based on the statement.

"Gladys loved the children," he said. "I am satisfied as to that. She kept them clean and well fed. She kept the house clean and warm. They had the best of food—beef steaks and the like—although we had to skimp a little at the end of the week like anybody else. She taught them to say their prayers a night and they called her 'Mother.'"

THE TANG SPELLS COOL, COMPLETE COMFORT

"If I could only make you realize," said the woman with such beautiful teeth, "the fresh, delightful feeling which PEBECO Tooth Paste leaves in your mouth, you would never seek another brand"... Pebeco cleans. Pebeco whitens and by checking the mouth acids, Pebeco gives you a delightful sense of absolute dental cleanliness. Don't envy beautiful, white teeth and mouth comfort. Give PEBECO a trial. In a week you'll realize what a wise decision you made.—Advt.

INDIANA FLOOD BELT PRODUCES CORN CHAMPION

"King" Colbert's Domain Just Now Under Water.

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—More than four thousand Hoosier farm men and women, from almost every country, have registered at "the big event of the year" for rural Indiana—Purdue university's agricultural conference week.

Judges at the state corn show today ended their labors by crowning a new corn king—H. L. Colbert of Washington, Daviess county, whose ten ears of Johnson county white were produced in the territory now suffering the worst flood conditions since 1913. In fact, were it not for the present high waters in the state, at least two thousand more farmers probably would have come to Purdue today, it is believed.

Reserve sweepstakes honors of the Hoosier corn show went to the veteran Shelby county corn prize winner—Ed N. Lux.

Gilman Stewart, twelve year old lad from Decatur county, was wreathed in smiles as recipient of the junior corn championship on a ten ear entry of Reid's yellow dent. His father had just previously been awarded sweepstakes on yellow corn.

With President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue delivering the address, four able farm women were awarded recognition as "master farm home makers." They were Mrs. C. W. Couden, Muncie; Mrs. C. V. Wade, Marion; Mrs. S. C. Schumacher, Rockport, and Mrs. J. B. Staton, Kentland.

ILLINOIS BUREAU MEETS

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Farm women of Illinois manifested an unprecedented interest in the power and benefits of organization here today when a first day crowd of 350 gathered from all parts of the state for the sixth annual meeting of the Illinois Federation of Home Bureaus.

Mrs. H. J. Meis, Pontiac, was elected president of the association for the coming year, to succeed Mrs. Homer Johnson, Covell. Other officers included: Vice president, Mrs. C. V. Golden, Hillsdale; secretary, Mrs. I. H. Vogel, Pontiac; treasurer, Mrs. J. V. Stevenson, Streator; and directors, Mrs. W. Schaefer, Freeport; Mrs. Earl Ross, Danville; Mrs. Glen Gilmore, Aledo, and Mrs. George Halliday, Harrisburg.

Rural organizations, whereby farm people decided "to hang together lest they hang separately," will go down in history as one of the most important results of the past decade's struggle for the existence of the American farm home, Dr. Ruby Green Smith of Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., predicted tonight before the thirty-third annual farm and home week of the college of agriculture.

"Considering what electricity has done for other industries during the last twenty years, it is hard to prophecy what it will do for the productive side of farming in the future," E. W. Lehmann, head of the farm mechanics' department, pointed out. "There is little question, however, that electricity will do more for farm homes in the immediate future than it will do for the strictly productive side of farming," he believes.

GAMES TODAY.

Harrison at Austin.
McKinley at Medill [lights].

Prep basketball fans in the west section of the City league aren't much concerned over the progress of the teams in the other three divisions of the circuit. They're too busy attempting to pick the winners in their own section which, with its six heavyweight and seven lightweight teams, is the largest in the league.

SAMMY KLEINBERG
Marshall.

Crane Tech, 1929 heavyweight champion, calls the west side home, and second sional followers are certain that if the Techs can't repeat, another team will come out of the west to retain the title. Apparently they're not going to be satisfied with one championship, however, for the fans at Crane, Marshall, and Harrison are convinced they have the next lightweight champion.

Crane and Marshall are tied for the heavyweight lead with two victories each, and if the latter defeats Tuley tomorrow the two will settle their argument next Tuesday at Crane's gym. Harrison, which has played only one game thus far, and lost it to McKinley by three points, is yet to be reckoned with. The Hornets not only have a practice record of nine victories in 13 games, but they are the only team to hold a decision over Wendell Phillips, rated the strongest team in the league. Harrison will meet Crane Thursday and Marshall on the following Monday.

Marshall Lights Revived.

The lightweights are headed by Crane and Harrison. The situation among the juniors was complicated by McKinley's 20 to 17 upset of Marshall in the opening game. As if that weren't enough, Harrison ran up the highest league score of the season to trim McKinley, 43 to 23. Marshall rebounded after its only defeat and is now leading the team scoring with 92 points in three games.

Coach Sam Lifschultz of Crane is seeking his third heavyweight title in as many years, and the squad has done its best to help him out so far. The heavies didn't start out so well, winning five and losing nine in practice games. For one thing Joe Rieff, the mainstay of last year's champions and now on Northwestern's freshman team, wasn't back. Then Capt. Stanz Melino, who had been ineligible, returned and the team began to click. They've won games with Tuley and Austin and now their fate rests with the Harirson and Marshall games next week.

Capt. Melino, who played guard last year, has been shifted to forward, where he is paired with Harry Denenberg, captain of last year's lightweights. Milt Bocek, at center, is the marksman of the team. Art Maffia and Milt Gold are the regular guards. Coach Lifschultz also operates a second team, which he regards as highly as the first. They are Mike Bauml

ECHOES.

HELPER H. J. L. recently forwarded "Echo and the Lover" and challenged other Helpers to submit lines as good as those he quoted. This defi found immediate response. To Eugene Shubart we are indebted for these verses, with the information they were written by John Godfrey Saxe, a Vermont lawyer and poet, who enjoyed a marked vogue in the late '50s and early '60s:

I asked of Echo 'tother day
(Whose words are few and often funny)
What to a novice she would say
Of courtship, love, and matrimony?
Quoth Echo plainly: "Matter-o-money!"

Whom should I marry? Should it be
A dashing dan sel, gay and pert,
A pattern of inc nstancy,
Or selfish, mercenary flirt.
Quoth Echo sharply: "Nary flirt!"
. . . . . .
But if some maid with beauty blest,
As pure and fair as heaven can make her,
Will share my labor and my rest
Till envious Death shall overtake her?
Quoth Echo (sotto voice): "Take her!"

From Helper Martha of Mendota comes:

Lover—Listen, sweet fairy, for love
I am dying! Can you not see it?
Echo—Conceit!
Lover—I pray, dear fairy, you'll send her to me.
Echo—Ptomaine!

And from Helper Pvt. Stock (whatever that nom de plume implies) we have:

Lover—Is it modesty that averts her eyes—
Those calm blue eyes I idolize.
Echo—. . . Lies!

Art and Hack.

WHAT-A-MAN SHIRES and Hack Wilson will not meet in the prize ring, despite any conversations tending toward that end. The Great One, with his taunts and braggadocio, may succeed in acquiring the Wilson goat, so to speak, but that is all it will amount to, so far as mortal combat before a paying audience is concerned.

The principal adverse reason is that the Cub management does not want that kind of advertising for its stocky outfielder. There may be some question whether the Cubs actually have any right to prevent such an affair, but there are other deterrents. Organized baseball is a peculiar institution, with the club owners holding a buried ace at all times. It would be possible to trade Hack to another club if he violated the management's wishes. That hint has been conveyed to him. Hack would prefer to remain with the Cubs, we assume, with their healthy chances for another pennant and his world series money, perhaps the winning end next time.

GAMES TONIGHT.

Boston at Chicago.
Toronto at Ottawa.
Detroit at Les Canadiens.
Montreal at N. Y. Americans.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

With the world's champion Boston Bruins as their opponents, the Chicago Blackhawks begin the second half of the National Hockey league season at the Stadium tonight. The game, which brings together the first and second place teams in the American division, will be the last in Chicago until Feb. 6, as the Hawks leave tomorrow morning for a two weeks' road trip of seven games.

Despite the high position of the cruising Bruins, who are famed for their rough play, the Hawks have broken even with them in two games this year, winning 3 to 1 on their home ice and losing, 4 to 1, at Boston. The game also will be the Hawks' last under Tom Shaughnessy as manager. Bill Tobin will succeed him after the game.

Both Strong Defensively.

Holders of the Stanley cup, which they won last March by literally battering down Les Canadiens and the defending champion Rangers, the Bruins have set several new records this year. They won fourteen games in succession and have set a mark for total goals scored.

The Bruins lead the league both offensively and defensively, having scored the amazing total of 93 goals in 23 games, a fraction better than four a game. On defense, the Bruins are only a fraction of a goal ahead of the Hawks, however, as they have averaged 2.4 goals a game and the Hawks, whose defense is next best, and far ahead of any of the other eight teams, have held opponents to 2.5 goals a game.

Play Whirlwind Games.

Both of their games have been whirlwinds of action, with the younger and lighter Hawks hitting the Boston bruisers just as often and just as hard as the Bruins checked them. Every indication is that tonight's game will be just as packed with the fire of battle.

Boston is seven and one-half games ahead of the Hawks, but the Chicagoans can't lose second place tonight, even should the Bruins win.

BRADLEY FIVE SWAMPS LOMBARD IN 35 TO 12 ROUT

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Bradley college demonstrated its basketball strength in the Little Nineteen conference here tonight by defeating Lombard, defending champions, 35 to 12. Lombard grabbed an early 6 to 2 lead, but when Bradley's fast passing attack began to function the team from Galesburg wilted.

Froebel of Gary Defeats Emerson Cagers, 15 to 12

Gary, Ind., Jan. 15.— [Special.] —Froebel High school of Gary defeated Emerson, its civic rival, here tonight in a cage game of delayed offenses that netted only nine field goals. The score was 15 to 12.

Oregon's Choice

DR. CLARENCE SPEARS.

Oregon Job Up to Dr. Spears; Leaves Today

Eugene, Ore., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Election of Dr. Clarence W. Spears of the University of Minnesota, as head football coach of the University of Oregon here, was announced tonight following a meeting of the school's executive council.

Dr. Spears has not signed a contract as Oregon coach, but it is believed here that he will do so when he meets Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, at Missoula, Mont., Friday.

Tom Stoddard, president of the student body and chairman of the executive council, said Dr. Spears will receive an annual salary of $11,500. Capt. John J. McEwan, who recently resigned as head football coach, received $8,500.

Will Join Health Service.

Dr. Spears will come to Oregon under a new professorial system to be initiated this year by Dr. Hall, officials said. He will teach in the university school of education, probably taking over various courses in football coaching. He also will join the university health service, so that he may keep in touch with developments in the medical profession.

SPEARS ALREADY DECIDED?

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—While Dr. C. W. Spears of Minnesota had not given Oregon university officials definite assurances that he would accept their offer to become head football coach, he was considering it so seriously tonight that Minnesotans felt almost certain that he would take the job. He will leave tomorrow to confer with Oregon officials.

Dr. Spears met with the senate committee on athletics late this afternoon, and tonight when they adjourned neither the coach nor the members would discuss what had happened. They merely said they had had a frank discussion, but did not know what Spears would do. However, it was learned the Gopher coach wired Oregon officials that he was open to further negotiations.

Asked Better Working Conditions.

It is understood Dr. Spears did not demand an increase in salary, but merely asked for better working conditions, which were promised five years ago. The western school, it is reported, offered Spears $2,500 more a year than he is receiving at Minnesota as well as the privilege of practicing medicine outside of the football season, a concession he has been seeking here ever since he took over the post.

BRADDOCK AND LOMSKI READY; BOX TOMORROW

Bout Jim's Last as Light Heavyweight.

James J. Braddock, the New Jersey gentleman whom the press agents are pleased to call a "knockerout," will shortly detach himself from the light heavyweight division. Regular eating, which most fighters go in for on a large scale as soon as regular fight appearances permit, has increased his poundage at an alarming rate, and nothing can be done about it except to class him as a plain everyday heavyweight.

Braddock is scheduled to become involved with Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen Pole, in the feature of Jack Dempsey's face squashing tournament at the Coliseum tomorrow night, and it probably will be his finale as a pure, unadulterated light heavy. His weight for this engagement will be in excess of 180 pounds, which exceeds the limit of the light heavyweights' union.

Braddock Has Weight Advantage.

Lomski, whom the betting boys already have designated as the catcher for the evening's entertainment, will scale in at a mere 174 pounds. Lomski is looking upon the engagement with enthusiasm, but there is more than a little fear that he may discover too late that the extra eight or nine pounds Braddock carries will be in the latter's right arm. This is the same right which has caused woe for previous Braddock opponents, and it is the same right by which promoters hope to build the fellow into a serious claimant for the vertical heavyweight title. Most of the present contenders incline toward the horizontal.

Both Braddock and Lomski engaged in their final strenuous work yesterday. As might be expected, Braddock slapped a couple sparring mates with gloves and gusto. Lomski did the same to a couple unsuspecting lads at his workshop.

Trafton Fights Tonight.

James C. Mullen, who has the distinction of being known as a veteran promoter, will sponsor a nine bout show at the Jai Alai Fronton this evening. Big Boy Trafton, whose chief claim to fame is that he is the only man extant boasting a decision over Shires, is slated to pick up a few stray dollars by fighting four rounds, or less, with one Rudy Hoffman, who desires to ascertain whether he is as good a fighter as he is a life guard, law student, and physical culture instructor.

RETAINS TITLE

Laufer Leads Lake Shore to Swim Triumph

Walter Laufer, blonde Lake Shore Athletic club speed merchant, led his club to its second victory in the second of the indoor Central A. A. U. swimming meets at the Chicago A. A. pool last night.

The national amateur 100 yard champion found plenty of competition for his Central division title, but successfully staved off the challenges of M. Wilcox of the C. A. A. and Al Schwartz, Northwestern, who finished behind him in the order named.

In the team point rating, the Lake Shore club led with 19. C. A. A. swimmers were second with 11, and Northwestern third with 10.

The junior low board diving championship, the third title at stake, was won by John Marron, competing unattached. His exhibition on the spring board was closely contested by George Le Bret of the C. A. A. Summaries:

100 yard free style championship—Won by Walter Laufer, L. S. A. C.; M. Wilcox, C. A. A., second; A. Schwartz, N. U., third. Time, :53 3-5.

220 yards breast stroke championship—Won by A. Horn, unattached; B. Howlett, N. U., second; W. Elliott, C. A. A., third. Time, 2:55 2-5.

Junior low board diving championships—Won by John Marron, unattached; George Le Bret, C. A. A., second; Fred Strauch, U. of C., third; Kenneth Willard, unattached, fourth.

100 yard exhibition handicap—Won by F. Springer, C. A. A., 5 seconds; R. Howell, C. A. A., second, 2 seconds; R. Breyer, C. A. A., third, scratch. Time, :59.

150 yard back stroke, exhibition handicap—Won by J. Tittle, C. A. A., scratch; A. Foote, C. A. A., second, 4 seconds; Halsted, C. A. A., third, 6 seconds. Time, 1:58.

Interscholastic 40 yard swim—A. Highland, Schurz; P. Valentine, Lane, second; J. Tischler, Schurz, third. Time, :19.

DENIED PATH TO CLUB, GOLFER 'SPOILS' COURSE

Wenham, Mass., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—When Fred M. Bachelder joined the Wenham Golf club as a charter member away back in 1899 he permitted the club to place five of its eighteen holes on land which belonged to him. The rental was nominal.

Now a golf player, especially of the "charter member" klan, is willing to tramp many, many miles pounding the ball up hill an down vale, but he likes to curtail his exercise before and after pounding the ball.

So Mr. Bachelder ordered the ground keeper to cut a path through the high grass from his fence to the club house. The grounds committee, for sometimes they do defy even charter members, ordered the ground keeper not to.

So Mr. Bachelder snatched back the ground which contains the five holes. It also makes two more holes unusable to the club.

Mr. Bachelder threatens to extend his five holes to eighteen and open a public fee course.

OPAL A. A. FILES ENTRY OF 33 FOR SILVER SKATES

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The Opal A. A., which holds its ninth annual ice races at Douglas park Sunday, will be represented by thirty-three in THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derby at Garfield park, Jan. 25 and 26.

The entry, made by President Robert J. Little, is topped by Alfon James and Charles Serro as competitors in the men's senior. James has been a contender for the last three years and with an even break in the luck, President Little expects him to finish among the first three. Serro, too, is a powerful skater. Aside from these two the Opal A. A. will be represented by nine others in the same event.

Ray Discher and Dan Cherrin are among those who will carry Opal A. A. colors in the intermediate. Walter Wilke, LeRoy Sandler, and John Bell will be the point possibilities in the junior and Paul Fiercé and Katz Knorps in the juvenile. Ann Simmons, Marge Barrett and Minerva Bower constitute point winning threats in the girls' junior.

Sterling Enters 70.

L. J. Sterling, instructor at Delano playground, nominated seventy boys and girls for the s[illegible] races. Sterling stated that his skaters are in excellent condition. Sterling sent in names of twenty-one for the boys' junior, fifteen for the juvenile, ten for the senior, and nine for the intermediate. He also entered five girls in the junior.

Otto Kaecke, instructor at Belding playground, filed names of twenty-nine skaters. Kaecke has developed two silver skates winners. In 1928, Wallace Fee took the juvenile race and last year Pricilla Richey was victor in the junior. The Belding entrants, by the way, have scored points in Derbies promoted by various clubs this winter.

An entry of six skaters from the Elgin, Ill., Skating club also was received. Elmer and Fred Baker are picked to score points in the intermediate and Mervin Lobauer in the senior. Ralph Smith, who will compete in the intermediate, is the Elgin champion for 1929. The entry was made by Henry E. Traub.

Entries Close Sunday.

Entries close Sunday at midnight. The board of control of the Western Skating association will meet tonight at the Hyde Park post of the American Legion, 1629 E. 70th street, to complete plans for the races.

Donie Bush to Come to Chicago Next Monday

Manager Donie Bush of the White Sox yesterday forwarded word to Business Manager Grabiner that he will be in Chicago Monday to decide a few important matters before the training trip.

LONG LEFTS OF CUBAN PIERCE SAM'S DEFENSE

10,000 See Bout at Miami Beach.

SAMMY MANDELL.

A late rally by the Cuban enabled him to reach even terms with the Rockford sheik, who found an adversary that matched blow for blow.

Promoter G. R. K. Carter reported a $32,000 gate. Mandell's contract called for $10,000 of the receipts, while Quintero worked on a 12½ per cent basis, with a small guarantee.

The champion, crafty and speedy, with a right hand that worked overtime at short range, encountered a southpaw who tossed a left that carried more power than anything Sammy could show. Mandell was better at close range. In contrast Manuel whipped home long, looping lefts that had the champion's head rocking more than once.

Sammy carried the fight to the Cavalier in the early rounds, but his margin was not great. When it began to look as if the champion had Manuel's style solved, the Cuban launched an attack in the fifth and sixth rounds that gave him a clear margin.

Mandell never was able to reach the Cuban consistently with right or left. So the champion was forced to fight at close range. He cuffed the Cuban with hooks to the body, short uppercuts to the chin and occasional back hand blows with little damage.

The Cuban smacked Mandell lustily in the first round and started well in the second, only to run into a barrage of short rights that made him back up.

Opens Cut on Sammy's Eye.

Sammy kept going in the third. In the fourth the Cavalier beat Sammy with both hands in two exchanges and during a mixup landed a glancing left, opening a cut over Sammy's eye.

Manuel gave Mandell a licking in the seventh, starting the rally with a stiff right to the chin that sent Sammy's head back. Quintero kept up his good work in the eighth and but for a series of stiff rights that Sammy pumped home just before the bell would have been well in front.

Other Florida Bouts Planned.

The bout was an exhibition of speedy boxing and action. The boys seldom had to be told to break, lost no time in getting things started, and gave the fans a show for their money.

Mandell and Eddie Kane, his manager, plan to stay in Florida for bouts in Tampa and Jacksonville before leaving for Chicago to prepare for the bout with Jimmy McLarnin.

Kane, after the fight, said that he would make no objection to the decision. "I thought Sammy had a shade because he led the bout virtually all the way," he said, "but that was only my opinion. Referee Bill Haack was in there to give a verdict, and we make no protest on his opinion."

Mandell said that he did not feel at his best, due to the postponement and his inability to adjust his training after he once was in shape last Friday, but he made no protest of the decision.

SCOTT CONFIDENT AS HE SAILS FOR SHARKEY BATTLE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PETE WINS PRIZE; AS DECOY HE'S NOBODY'S GOOSE

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Talullah, La., Jan. 15. — The star performer of our goose hunting expedition this afternoon was Pete. He's a character worth knowing. Step right up. "We'll introduce him.

Pete is a handsome Canada goose. Until five years ago he made the north and south migrations with other honkers. Came another fall. He was wing tipped and captured for a decoy by L. D. Adams, Tulsa, Okla., sportsman, who spends each winter in this wonderful game country along the Mississippi. Pete, in time, became a great pet. He would follow Adams around like a dog. Adams taught him to honk on signal, a sharp whistle. So the former wild bird became domesticated. He became a decoy that could be toted around in boat or wagon without being confined. One could tell him to hop up on the seat. There he'd stay.

Remained Away Months.

Now the most interesting tale concerning Pete follows. A year ago Peter wandered or flew away, his wings not having been clipped. From then until last October the handsome honker remained away. Where he went none knows. He may have made a migration north in the spring with other geese. He might has joined a few honkers in the marshes along the river. Where Pete spent the months between January and October still is a mystery.

One afternoon some of the colored boys on the Hall Allen plantation, hearing the loud honking of a wild goose looked out to the decoy pen just as a large goose was descending. It landed outside the pen, excitedly "talking" to the other geese inside. One look was all that was needed to recognize Pete. [A broken toe made Pete easy to identify.] The delighted colored boys called Adams.

Resumes Star Role.

Pete stood still when his old master called, "Pete, where have you been?" Then picking him up Adams tossed him into the yard with the other decoys.

This winter old vagabond Pete has resumed his rôle of domestic goose star decoy. How that fellow does broadcast when a flock of geese shows up.

George Long, Prominent on Turf, Dead

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15. — (AP) — George J. Long, 77, prominent turfman whose horses twice won the Kentucky Derby, dropped dead while in a business conference in his office here today. Doctors said his death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Long, known as the master of of Bashford manor, captured his first Kentucky Derby with Azra in 1892. In 1906 he repeated with Sir Huon. His filly, Kathleen, won the Kentucky Oaks. For many years he was a member of the state racing commission, to which he was appointed by governors of both political parties.

Sold String Ten Years Ago.

For years Mr. Long owned one of the largest strings of race horses in the country. About ten years ago, however, he sold a majority of them. Since this sale Mr. Long's colors have been carried by but a few horses. He had several 2 year olds wintering here at the time of his death.

Prominent in Business.

Mr. Long was president of the Interstate Water company, a director of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company, and a major stockholder of the Frankfort Water company. He had been prominent in Kentucky business life for more than half a century.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Nellie Long, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Peabody, and a son, Dennis Long, all of Louisville. Funeral services probably will be held at Bastford manor, one of the show places of Kentucky.

ALUMNUS' GIFT GIVES HARVARD NEW STRUCTURE

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15. — [Special.]—Out of the ashes of the historic Harvard locker building on Soldiers' field, which was burned almost to the ground with the loss of many priceless athletic trophies, a completely modern sports structure, costing close to half a million dollars, will begin to rise perhaps within a month.

William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, today announced that the new building will begin to take shape immediately through the gift of a Harvard alumnus, Clarence Dillon Sr., head of a New York banking firm, whose son, Clarence Dillon Jr., will be manager of the Crimson football team next fall.

BULTMAN, HUSKY CENTER, TO LEAD MARQUETTE TEAM

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Arthur [Red] Bultman of Green Bay, Wis., 195 pound center, tonight was elected captain of the 1930 Marquette university football team at a dinner in honor of the 1929 Golden Avalanche.

Kieckhefer Wins 2 Blocks; Leads Cochran, 200 to 77

New York, Jan. 15.— (AP) —Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago three cushion billiardist, gained a lead over Welker Cochran, former world's 18.2 balkline champion, today in the first two blocks of their 500 point three cushion match.

Kieckhefer won both of today's blocks. He took the afternoon session, 50 to 33, in 43 innings. Each had a high run of six. Tonight Kieckhefer won, 50 to 44, in 45 innings. The victor's best run was six; Cochran's, five. The total score now stands 200 to 77 in favor of the Chicagoan.

MOON MULLINS—LOST, BUT NOT FOUND

I THINK I'LL GO BACKSTAGE AND TELL EGYPT ABOUT SEEING PERCYFIELD AT THE SHOW WITH A DIZZY BLOND WEARING PEARLS—IT MAY THROW SOME LIGHT ON HER ROBBERY—OH DEAR ME—I DO HOPE NOBODY TAKES ME FOR ONE OF THOSE GIDDY CHORUS GIRLS GOING IN HERE.
STAGE DOOR KEEP OUT
HEY! JUST A MINUTE—ARE YOU THAT NEW ECCENTRIC DANCER THEY HIRED?
I AM NOT!
KEEP OUT
WHADDA YOU DO, SING?
NOT SO THE LIKES OF YOU COULD HEAR ME.
THEN—WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE FOR CRASHIN' IN HERE?
MY GOOD LOOKS—WHAT DID YOU THINK?

3 Prep Titles in a Row, Aim of West Side

Tall Lightweight Center.

The lights have the second tallest center in the league in Bob Reardon. Capt. Sid Newman and Warsaw are at forwards and Dave Rick and Al Pearl hold down the guard positions. Reardon's 6 feet 2 inches make him valuable in controlling the tipoff, while Warsaw's eye and the floor play of Newman and Rick will make the team hard to beat. They won seven and lost five in practice.

The west section has another champion in Harrison, which won the Illinois district tournament at La Grange last year with a combined heavyweight and lightweight team, the first Chicago school ever to win the honor. The Techs will defend the title in the meeting starting March 6.

Harrison's heavyweights have appeared in the city semi-finals during two of the three years Wilfrid Smith has coached them. The boys who have been breaking into the box scores most frequently thus far as Capt. Bill Dorfman, Jim Strugala, and Benny Niebow, guards; Gene Godina, center and high point man, and Walter Ostaszewski, Harry Stastny, and Joe Rudman, forwards. Dorfman and Ostaszewski, the latter a "substitute, were the only boys to return from last year's team. Dorfman will be lost to the team by graduation. John Wasco, however, will be eligible at that time. The team has defeated Elgin, Batavia, Schurz twice, Phillips, La Grange, Oak Park, Lindblom and Roosevelt. They've lost to St. Mel and Joliet by one point scores and Sycamore, Riverside and McKinley.

Wills Coaches Marshall.

The lightweights are one of the surprises of the section by their overwhelming defeat of McKinley. Capt. Eddie Odron and Ray Skora, forwards; Jim Sisulak, center, and Harry Masters and Abe Gordon, guards, compose the regular lineup, with Ed Russ, Shorty Libkin, and Harold Morris as substitutes. Masters, who has been one of the big factors in the team's success, will be graduated next month, but by that time Ed Polivka will be eligible. The team will be after its fifth victory in eight days against Austin today.

Coach Ernest Wills, who also tutors the Marshall football team, has great hopes of finishing high with both of his teams. The heavies are led by Hyman Feigenberg, who graduates in midyear. He couldn't make the lights last year, but now he's one of the best shots in the section, making eight baskets against Austin Tuesday. Alex Teitelbaum plays the other forward, while Ipzy Applebiood attends to the tipoff. Harry Lustig and Jock Rieff are the guards.

Capt. Sammy Kleinberg is one of the reasons for Marshall's hopes for its first lightweight title since 1917. He's a forward and with Louie Gratch, a guard, played on last year's team. Oscar Tucker, center; Leon Marks, forward, and Sid Rosenthal, guard, are the other regulars, Rosenthal injured his wrist in practice recently, but George Horwitz has filled his job well. The team won six straight in practice, defeating Lindblom twice, Parker, Lane, Lake View, and Morton.

Di Orio and Gentile Graduate.

McKinley's two teams, the heavyweights coached by Ed Merkel and the lights by Edward Zahoric, may prove to be stumbling blocks for the stronger entries before the season is over. The lightweights gave a demonstration in their opener, when they turned back the strong Marshall quintet. The team's lineup is as follows: Di Simone and Bartle, and Di Orio, forwards; Arnold Della Penna, center, and Frank Benestent and Sebastian Corbino. Di Orio's loss by graduation will be a big handicap to the team.

The heavies show a good practice record of eight won and three lost, excluding their victory over Harrison and their defeat by Marshall. Trip Gentile, the star of the team, will be in the diploma line at the end of the month, but Frank Lehman is ready to take his place. Wilbert Madison, Joe Wheeler, Bob Placek, and Jim Murphy are the other regular members.

Coach George Ring, who brought Austin a sectional football title last fall, is seeking to do the same in basketball. Capt. Jim Magine is the boy around whom the Austin attack is built. Harry Carruthers, a good pinch shot, and Red Pellar are the forwards and Epstein and Weber the guards.

Olson Coaches at Tuley.

Gilbert Olson is the heavyweight coach at Tuley and it's his first year at the job. Sam Wandner, guard, and George Saltzman, forward, are the co-captains of the team, while Nate Moseson, center; Dave Tempkin, forward, and Leo Fischer, guard, complete the regular five. Butch Laken leads the lightweights from his guard position, and is paired with Frank Goldstein. The forwards are Jack Salzman and Irving Silver and Ed Bobroff handles the center job. Both the heavies and lights won a pair of games and lost six.

Medill, coached by Sam Center, has only a lightweight team entered, due to the fact that it has a small enrollment and also that most of the heavier boys in the school went out for soccer. Isadore Schultz and Jim Carlucci, forwards; Rocco Yacilla, center, and Anthony Mazza and Capt. Jerome Cohen, guards, are the regulars. Only nine boys are on the squad. The team's only victory was over the school alumni.

LANDIS CALLS, ART SHIRES ON GREEN CARPET

Charles Arthur Shires, the White Sox first sacker, whose pugilistic efforts this winter have been causing some of the magnates concern has been summoned for a conference with Baseball Commissioner Landis. The latter yesterday made known his plan to talk to the highly publicized boxer-player on Saturday.

The nature of the business the commissioner intends to bring to Shires' attention isn't known, but it is presumed that the boss of baseball merely wishes to advise Shires that he had better quit fighting of his own accord and not jeopardize his baseball career.

Shires also will be questioned on the matter of suspension hung on him late last season when he slapped Manager Blackburne of the Sox.

After renewing his acquaintance with the commissioner Shires will be in a position to talk contract with his owner, Charles A. Comiskey, who has not been in sympathy with his star firstsacker's ring activities. Shires recently wise cracked that he would ask for $25,000 from the Sox, but he probably will be willing to compromise after hearing the speech of welcome Comiskey has prepared for him.

Art Shires is signed to meet Battling Criss in a four round bout Jan. 24 on the Chicago Stadium card, according to Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Stadium. Shires also is signed to meet a "suitable opponent" on the Jan. 31 show.

Meyers, "Bull" Montana Match Holds Tonight

Johnny Meyers, former middleweight mat champion who had his eyes on the lightheavy crown of the toe hold profession, will meet "Bull" Montana of movie fame in the windup of a show slated for tonight at the K. of C. clubhouse, 4715 Madison street. In the semi-windup Jimmy Demetral and Bobby Bylund will tussle.

De Paul and Detroit Meet in Cage Tilt

Detroit university and De Paul will resume athletic relations tomorrow night when the Titan and Blue Demon basketball teams meet at De Paul gym. The game will be the first between the two schools on the hardwood floor, although they have clashed twice on the gridiron.

Coach Lou Conroy's quintet is a stronger aggregation this season than that which wore the Titan colors a year ago.

The Detroiters lost a couple of tough battles to Assumption college at the start of the season, the first by 1 point and the second 26 to 24 in an overtime game. Since then the Titans beat Olivet and St. John's of Toledo, and lost to Michigan State and Dayton by 26 to 20 and 28 to 20 counts.

A victory over Detroit would climax a successful home season for De Paul, which has defeated all its foes to date —namely: Valparaiso, North Dakota State, and South Dakota State. Saturday morning the De Paul squad departs on an eighteen game road trip.

FISCHER THROWS MALKOV OUT OF WRESTLING RING

Climbing back into the ring the Rogers Park policeman was thrown by the world's middleweight wrestling champion. The time of the fall was one hour, nineteen minutes and twenty seconds. Because of his injuries, Malkov was not allowed to continue.

Fischer was the aggressor and the decision of Referee Benny Reuben met with the approval of the 1,500 fans who paid $3,000.

Al Chappell, local middleweight, won from Joe Scharell of England in the opening bout in 2:59 with a cross body lock. Charley Peterson and Pete Shick went thirty minutes to a draw in the second bout. In the other match Joe Visiak and Gus Clein wrestled 30 minutes to a draw. They weighed 165 pounds.

Crane Junior Five Beats Illinois Pharmacy, 32-26

Sachs Explains, Lambert Denies, That Agreement

Publication of Loyola's agreement to discard its familiar zone defense for a man to man style of play in the game with Purdue, Jan. 30, aroused Piggy Lambert, Purdue coach, to protest yesterday.

Lennie Sachs, Loloya coach, kept calm while Lambert was broadcasting denials of having asked Loyola to change its style of play.

"The news that we are drilling on a new style [for us] of defense probably got out," Sachs explained, "through members of the squad. The game with Purdue was arranged when Lambert was attending the Big Ten, or Big Nine, conference here in December.

"We were very anxious to get on Purdue's schedule and when Lambert asked if we used the zone style of play, knowing that the conference teams prefer the man to man style, I replied: 'Yes, we do, but in our game with Purdue we'll use the man to man system.' Piggy said that would suit him better.

"I realized that this change in play might hamper us, but considered that Lambert had a right to ask the change.

"I certainly don't want to cause Lambert any embarrassment and we'll use any style of play Purdue wants us to."

Lambert asserted last night there was "some misunderstanding." And that seems to end the discussion.

BRUINS WIN BY TWO POINTS OVER COLORED CHAMPS

The Bruins' 9 point advantage at the end of the first half was mighty useful to the Chicagoans last night at the Stadium and they nosed out the New York Renaissance five, 24 to 22, in the first game of the series.

The New York boys are the colored champions of the United States and recently defeated the Bruins by 32 points. Tuesday night they won at Fort Wayne, 29 to 25.

Bramhall Grabs Lead.

Art Bramhall, playing at forward in place of Capt. Ray Kennedy, helped his mates get away to a lead, scoring three times in the first period. Chicago had 8 points before Pappy Ricks, the visitors' ace, counted from under the basket after 16 minutes of play. Not only was New York unsteady in its attack but its defense failed to stop the short passing game of the Bruins. Saitch's tip in made the score 13 to 4 for the half.

The Negro five got down to business in the final period and with 4 minutes remaining were trailing, 11 to 15. But Ricks, who had scored 5 points in this drive, went out on fouls and the fire died down.

Hickey's two free throws on Mayer's foul set the score at 19 to 15. Then Slocum's free throw and Saitch's field goal cut the advantage to a point. Ely added a penalty toss, then passed to Hickey under the basket and Chicago resumed a 4 point margain. After Slocum hit the net from mid-floor Hickey scored on a pass from Bramhall. Saitch's long shot in the last 4 seconds ended the New York attack.

Taylor Trunks Win.

The Taylor Trunks won from the Olivet girls, 35 to 10. Violet Krubaeck, Trunks center, scored 21 points. The 125 pound team of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic defeated the West Town A. Z. A., 18 to 11, in the opening game, to keep their record clear on the Stadium floor. Lineup:

CONGER FALLS, FINISHES LAST IN 1,500 METERS

New York, Jan. 15—(AP)—Ray Conger, Illinois A. C., fell as he went into a sprint finish in the Myles McHugh Memorial 1,500 meters run over the board track of the 102d Engineers' armory tonight and was able only to take third place. Gus Moore, Pittsburgh, won the event, with Gus Venzke, Swedish-American club, second. There were only three parts pants.

The race, scheduled as the feature of the Pastime Athletic club games, lost its international color through the withdrawal of Eino Purje of Finland on account of illness.

Running in his usual style, Conger trailed his two rivals until they swung into the last lap. With Moore leading by a scant 10 yards, the former Iowa star attempted to pass Venzke. In doing so he touched the foot of the Swedish-American runner and fell sprawling on the board track. Moore went on to win easily in 4:04 2-5.

With the absence of Purje, Willie Ritola, Finland's veteran distance runner, added the international touch, but he, too, was defeated by Joe McClusky, Fordham's freshman cross country champion. He breezed the two miles in 9:22 to finish 10 seconds in front of the Finnish star, who was fourth in a large field. Ritola started from scratch, conceding McClusky 75 yards.

BETTER DEMAND APPEARING FOR STEEL PRODUCTS

Car Loadings Show Improvement.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Further improvement in the demand for steel, as reported by the mid-week reviews, and more active general trade, as shown by the railroad movement of commodities, were the bright spots in yesterday's news. However, the effect of these items was tempered by the fact that prices for finished steel show further weakness, while both steel mill operations and railroad freight hauling are considerably below a year ago.

"Both of the leading steel producers are now making raw steel at the rate of 70 per cent of capacity, compared with 65 per cent last week and a low as 40 per cent in the closing week of 1929," the Iron Age says. "This recovery is impressive, since buyers still are cautious and limiting specifications to nearby needs. Average ingot output for the country is placed at 65 per cent.

"As these requirements gain, the industry is less conservative in appraising business prospects and confidently predicts further improvement. With business on the mend, the downward revision of prices is interpreted as an effort to stabilize a market that had been subject to widespread irregularities.

See Steadier Situation.

"The temptation to make concessions was strong during a period when the dearth of prompt specifications forced frequent roll changes and intermittent operations. But with releases growing in volume, producers believe a steadier price situation is at hand."

The Iron Trade says that automobile and railroad business constitute the chief props of both the finished steel and pig iron markets.

"Requirements of the automotive industry, while not much over half of last January, are rising steadily," the review says. "Railroad support is more manifest in specifications than in new business, although inquiry for new equipment continues brisk. Bridge work, apartments, hotel, and similar structures are taking seasonal amounts of structural materials but the lag in industrial construction is a handicap. Steel pipe buying is negligible."

Freight car loadings for the week ended Jan. 4 totaled 776,259 cars, which marked a gain of 137,814 cars over the preceding week, but a decrease of 22,423 cars from the corresponding week in 1929.

Building construction continues quiet. Net contracts awarded during the first eight business days of this year in thirty-seven states east of the Rocky mountains totaled $124,-111,300, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation. This marked a decline of about 1 per cent from the same period last year.

Employment Data.

Data on industrial employment and international trade in December were less favorable than a year before but showed 1929 as a whole was better than 1928. Employment last month declined 2 per cent from November and was 3.8 per cent below December, 1928, according to the department of labor, while pay rolls declined 0.8 per cent from November and 5.8 per cent from December, 1928. But for all of last year employment was 3.9 per cent above 1928 and pay rolls were 3 per cent higher.

December exports totaled $434,000,-000, a decline of more than $41,000,-000 from a year before, and imports totaled $311,000,000, a decrease of more than $28,000,000. But for 1929, exports aggregated $5,248,483,000, a gain of more than $120,000,000 over 1928, and imports totaled $4,400,634,000, an increase of more than $809,000,000. Therefore, our favorable trade balance was about $848,000,000, compared with about $1,037,000,000 for 1928.

The gold movement last month resulted in a net loss of $64,426,000 to this country, compared with a gain of $23,314,000 in December, 1928. But for all of 1929 there was a net gain of $175,066,000, compared with a net loss of $391,863,000 in 1928. Stock market activity and high interest rates caused an influx of the metal to this country during the early months of last year.

Cites Gov't Obligation to Joint Land Bank Investors

BY SCRUTATOR.

A ray of hope for the unfortunates who since 1916 have invested in the stocks of the less successful joint stock land banks since 1916 and some cheer for bondholders in those banks is offered in an amendment to the original federal farm loan act which was proposed in the house recently by Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois.

In brief, Mr. Rainey proposes that the government accept a moral responsibility for the losses of such investors and allow them to surrender their stocks and bonds for replacement with consolidated bonds so issued that the twelve federal land banks guarantee them.

The federal land banks, separate from the joint stock land banks now, are in good condition. To stabilize any bond issues that they may have to make, if the legislation is passed, it is provided that the United States treasury shall purchase up to 200 millions of these securities within two years if it is necessary in order to keep the issues at par.

Says Relief Is Needed.

In a speech printed in the Congressional Record, Mr. Rainey declared that it was "unfair and outrageous" to permit bondholders and stockholders of the joint stock banks to lose money. He recalled that the land bank system of farm loans was started by a letter written by President Wilson, calling attention to the soundness of the securities, and that the federal farm loan board had sent out numerous bulletins in the early days likewise advising of the soundness of the entire system.

Unlike the federal land banks, the joint stock institutions had capital privately raised. Warnings have from time to time been issued against speculation in their stocks. It should be understood that each of these joint stock land banks stands alone and that success depends on individual management. The result of this has been that some have been quite successful and some failures. Mr. Rainey stated that of the forty-nine institutions now in existence only twenty-two declared dividends in 1929 and seven others are to suspend dividend payments in a short time.

Bonds of all the joint stock banks are secured by mortgages on farm lands. Here again the responsibility of the government comes in, as the federal farm loan board agents appraise the properties and assure the board that each contemplated loan does not exceed 50 per cent of the land value and 20 per cent of the improvements' value.

Dumping Lowers Values.

That these agents have erred grievously at times is evident. The proof lies in the fact that these banks as a whole have taken over thousands of farms and have sold many of them at prices too low to cover the mortgages.

This dumping of farm land on a buyers' market is, according to Mr. Rainey, setting low values on farm lands and distressing the farmer.

The method of restoring confidence in the land banking system and repaying the losses of the holders of joint stock land bank bonds and stocks is drastic. But the needs of the holders are great. Representative Cramton in the last congress introduced a resolution in which he stated that their bonds had fallen a hundred million dollars in value and that the stocks had, on the whole, depreciated by half. Conditions are no better now.

The idea that the bonds, at least, of the joint stock land banks were quasi-governmental instrumentalities was fostered until quite recently. It is difficult to see how the government can evade an obligation to do everything possible to save the losers in the system.

NET EARNINGS OF CITIES SERVICE ARE 29% HIGHER FOR 1929

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Cities Service company today reported net earnings for 1929 at $43,452,386, a new high record and more than 29 per cent above the 1928 total. Per share earnings of $1.18, compared with $1.14 for the twelve months ended Nov. 30 last.

The company spent more than $100,-000,000 for construction and acquisitions in 1929 and has planned a $150,-000,000 program for the current year. The number of stockholders increased from 100,000 to 341,000, comprising the second largest group of any company.

Net earnings for December also constituted a record for one month, totaling $5,043,802, a gain of 55 per cent over the same month of 1928.

One of the most important developments of the year, the report said, was the production developed in the Oklahoma City pool, discovered late in 1928 by a subsidiary. At present one of the City Service companies has a potential daily production of 300,000 barrels in this area.

VOTE IN FAVOR OF GENL. ELECTRIC STOCK SPLITUP

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Holders of approximately 75 per cent of the outstanding common stock of the General Electric company, at a special meeting here today, voted in favor of a proposed four for one split up of the present no par value common stock.

It was expected that the split will be made Jan. 24, upon completion of the filing of certificates with the secretary of state and county officers and that certificates for the additional shares will be mailed on Jan. 27 to holders of stock on record Dec. 16.

With the completion of the stock split the total authorized common stock of the company, it was announced, will be 29,600,000 shares without par value.

MORGAN CORP. MAKES FIRST, ANNUAL REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—The first annual report of the United corporation, created a year ago by a group consisting of J. P. Morgan & Co., Drexel & Co., and Bonbright & Co., Inc., shows assets of $323,307,177 at the close of 1929, or more than double the assets of $150,000,000 announced at the formation of the company.

The balance after dividends paid on the $3 cumulative preference stock amounted to $3,555,676, equal to 49 cents a share on 7,252,515 common shares, but computing the income receipts of the company at the rates in cash now being paid upon the securities in its investment portfolio, and assuming a rate of 3 per cent upon its cash and working balances, the earnings applicable to the 7,252,-515 shares of common stock outstanding are at the rate of 80 cents a share.

North Amer. Light & Power Votes $23,000,000 Budget

A budget of approximately $23,000,-000 for additions and improvements was voted by the directors of the North American Light and Power company yesterday. A substantial portion of this amount will be expended this year on the company's St. Louis terminal and on natural gas developments in Kansas.

Heavy Gasoline Market Brings Cut in Oil Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—Overproduction of crude oil and a slow, heavy gasoline market today caused Humble Oil and Refining company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, to reduce the price it will pay for Texas light crude oil by 25 to 41 cents a barrel. The reduction in price was also adopted by the Texas Corporation, large producing and refining concern.

This is the first general change in crude oil prices since May 20, last, when an advance of approximately 25 cents a barrel was put into effect. Both grades of coastal crude were cut today 25 cents a barrel.

A statement issued by W. Farish, president of Humble, explaining the cut was declared by the Standard Oil of New Jersey to "present accurately and fully the economic conditions in the industry today," in view of which "a reduction in crude oil prices was inevitable."

Step in Adjustment.

Humble, Mr. Farish said, was obliged to post the reductions in order fairly to adjust crude oil prices with prices of petroleum products. "In spite of commendable efforts over the last year on the part of many producers to limit their crude oil output," he continued, "to market or refinery demand, and in spite of the fact that these efforts have been conspicuously successful, an overproduction of crude oil exists today.

"Although crude oil production over the last few weeks has been maintained in line with refinery runs, this balance has existed only because refineries are running excessive amounts of crude, and already large stocks of gasoline are being increased at an alarming rate entirely above that justified by anticipated requirements. The effect of this has been further to depress market for products, especially gasoline. The price of gasoline is the dominating factor in determining crude oil prices.

"Under present conditions of excessive crude production, which has brought about a price for fuel oil below its value based on coal, larger yields of gasoline from each barrel of crude run are being realized each year by our refineries, due primarily to increased cracking and increased casing head gasoline.

Cites Lack of Balance.

"Consequently refinery demand for crude has not increased proportionately to demand for gasoline. While we expect an increase in gasoline consumption of 8 per cent in 1930 we know that most economic methods of producing the gasoline required would call for but little, if in fact any, more crude than was consumed by refineries in the United States in 1929.

"The revision that we are making today is necessary because of lack of balance between supply and demand of petroleum products, particularly gasoline.

"In our opinion this condition can best be remedied through further conservation on the part of producers looking to limiting of crude supply to economic refinery demands."

FOX COMMENTS ON PAYMENT OF SCRIP DIVIDEND

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Commenting on the decision of the Fox film directors to pay in scrip the current quarterly dividend of $1 on the class A stock, William Fox, president of the corporation, said today:

"The corporation had and has sufficient surplus, amounting to over $22,-000,000, out of which the directors lawfully could declare and pay such dividends, and at the time such dividend was declared it was expected that the temporary financing arising out of various acquisitions would be permanently funded so that there would be no difficulty in meeting the cash requirements for this dividend, amounting to $920,000."

Announcement was made of the organization of the Fox Securities corporation for the purpose of providing funds for the Fox Film corporation and the Fox Theaters corporation and their subsidiary and controlled companies.

The Fox Securities corporation is offering an issue of $35,000,000 7 per cent three year gold notes. The trustees for this issue are the Broadway National Bank and Trust company of New York.

U. S. Steel Plans Final Step in Bond Retirement

Before Feb. 1 directors of the United States Steel corporation will announce the third and final step in the corporation's $400,000,000 bond retirement plan, initiated early in 1928, it was learned from sources close to the corporation yesterday.

Expect No Rail Meetings on I. C. C. Plan for Month

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Wall street hears that no meetings of eastern railroad executives to consider the revised consolidation plan of the interstate commerce commission are likely for a month or six weeks. In the meantime, each of the trunk line systems is studying the proposals and having a corps of accountants and traffic experts prepare figures showing just how each road would fare if the plan was carried into effect.

Anaconda Closes Copper Mine at Butte, Montana

New York, Jan. 15.—The Anaconda Copper Mining company has shut down its Leonard mine at Butte, Mont., stating that due to the increase of more than 44,000 tons of refined copper it was thought necessary to make a reduction in the output. The company hopes the shutdown will be of short duration.

Continental Bank Takes Stock Off N. Y. Exchange

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—In line with the policy of many other banking institutions in New York who have withdrawn their shares from trading on the New York Stock exchange, stockholders of the Continental Bank and Trust company today voted to take similar action. Shares of the National City bank, of the Chase bank and of other institutions formerly traded in on the stock exchange, were removed from the listing several months ago and now are traded in over the counter.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 15.—This was "Chicago day" on the New York stock exchange.

Operations centered around the shares of two or three big Chicago corporations, particularly those of Montgomery Ward & Co. which led the list on a dash for the lowlands in the morning and back toward the higher levels in the later dealings.

Chicago orders dominated price movements to a very large extent, the forenoon weakness in various groups being blamed primarily on the offerings of three large firms having Chicago wires, while the statement of George B. Everitt, president of Montgomery Ward, denying a flood of rumors about his company's financial standing and declaring that its position in this respect had never been better, did more than anything else to stimulate a worthwhile rally which developed in the last hour of trading.

Vicious While It Lasts.

The bear attack on Montgomery Ward was a pretty vicious affair while it lasted, forcing the price down some five points to a new low for the year of 38¾. The selling was accompanied by a number of disagreeable reports, one of which was that the 1929 statement expected late this month would be decidedly disappointing and another having it that the dividend was to be reduced. In his statement wired from Chicago shortly after the turn of the day Mr. Everitt declared that the 1929 earnings would show dividend requirements covered by an ample margin and in fact set the whole flock of disquieting reports effectually at rest.

200 Experts Confirm The High Investment Caliber of Selected American Shares

Recently a well-known financial magazine sent a questionnaire to 200 leading bankers, economists, and investment experts asking for their opinion regarding the 30 best stock "buys" from a 12 months' standpoint.

Among the stocks standing highest on the lists of the entire 200 experts, most of the stocks underlying this Trust were represented. In the answers to a similar inquiry sent out by another publication, 21 out of the 25 stocks underlying Selected American Shares stood first, and the remaining 4 ranked very high.

These are but two of many instances where the preferences of independent experts have convincingly confirmed the sound investment judgment embodied in Selected American Shares.

Buy now into the property and profits of these 25 great companies, their tremendous earning power and future growth—while their stocks are still selling at bargain levels—through Selected American Shares. You will participate in all the income, all the profits, in proportion to your holdings.

Shares may be purchased in denominations of 10, 25, 50, 100, 250, 500, 1,000 and 2,500 through your dealer, bank, broker or direct.

Convertible Bonds— an Excellent Purchase at this Time

BECAUSE of the present low levels of stock prices, many bonds which are convertible or carry stock purchase warrants, are now selling on their merits as bonds alone. In most cases those purchasing this type of bond today pay nothing for the convertible or warrant feature. For this reason this type of security is unusually attractive at this time. Following are several choice bonds of this type which we recommend.

Insull Utility Investments, Inc.
Ten-Year 6% Debentures

A public utility investment company with interest charges being covered 3¼ times. Convertible into common stock during 1930 at $65 per share, and on a sliding scale thereafter. Each debenture carries a warrant entitling the purchase of 10 shares of common stock at $65 per share during 1930. The common stock last year sold as high as $149 per share. Price at the market to yield over 6%.

Federal Screw Works
Convertible Ten-Year 6½% Notes

This company is one of the largest manufacturers of screw machine products in the world. Preliminary figures indicate that interest charges for 1929 have been covered over 8 times. Each note is convertible into 12 shares of common stock on or before September 1, 1931, and on a sliding scale thereafter. With the continued rapid growth of this company, this conversion feature over a period of time should prove valuable. Price 99½ to yield over 6½%.

Southern Cities Public Service Co.
6% Convertible Debentures, due 1949

This company serves gas to many of the largest cities in the southeast. Interest charges on these debentures are being covered over 2¼ times. Each $1,000 debenture prior to November 1, 1934 is convertible into 22 shares of Class "A" stock of Central Public Service Corp. This stock sold as high as $57½ per share last year and the bonds as high as 120. These debentures are a very attractive public utility investment. Price 98½ to yield 6.13%.

Atlas Stores Issue Up on Earnings Outlook.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks showed a tendency to rise yesterday along with the New York market, but gains were modest and the volume showed some shrinkage from the previous day with a total of 145,000 shares.

Atlas Stores and Jefferson Electric were actively traded in at higher levels, finishing with gains of 3 and 4 points, respectively. Anticipation of a favorable earnings statement, to be issued in a few days by Atlas, was interpreted as the reason for the strength in the issue.

Continental Chicago fell to a low of 62¾ during the session, but steadied and finished less than a point under its previous close. Chicago corporation was slightly lower.

Approve Stock Increase.

Insull Utility was a fraction lower on light trade. Stockholders yesterday approved the increase in common stock from 3,000,000 to 6,000,000 shares. The increase was made to enable the company to make conversions of debentures into common stock and to meet the conversion rights on the preferred second series. The $60,000,000 debentures were listed on the Chicago exchange yesterday with formal action by the board of governors.

Governors also approved listing of 163,000 shares of no par value participating A common stock of the Diversified Investments, Inc. Diversified Investments is a Delaware corporation formed in 1925. It holds stock in a number of independent telephone companies operating largely in the central states and adjacent territories.

Additional listings approved yesterday included: Central and South West Utilities company, 28,736 shares; Allied Motor Industries, 146,975 shares; Van Sicklen, 50,350 shares; National Securities Investment company, 95,150 shares; Community Water Service company, 60,900 shares; Loudon Packing company, 15,000 shares.

Transfer of memberships to Paul G. Devlin, Robert M. Markwell, and Joseph A. Kroeck was approved by the board.

Buys Natural Gas Rights.

Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company has purchased natural gas rights in Morgan county, Ill., according to an announcement by President Frank P. Parrish. The price paid for the rights was not announced.

The formal report of the Bastian Blessing compny for the year ended Nov. 30 shows net income of $689,325, equal to $5.99 a share on the common stock outstanding at the end of the period and to $6.20 a share on the average amount of stock outstanding during the year.

As of Nov. 30 current assets totaled $1,764,513 against current liabilities of $316,124. Surplus was $1,361,547.

International Shoe.

Net income was $17,031,434, which was equivalent to $170.31 per share earned on 100,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock [par $100], and $4.37 per share earned on 3,760,000 no par common shares outstanding. After provision for preferred and common dividends there was a surplus for the year amounting to $7,031,434.

In the year ended Nov. 30, 1928, net income was $15,761,776, equal to $157.62 per share on the preferred and $4.03 per share on the common, the same number of shares of each class outstanding as in 1929.

As of Nov. 30, 1929, current assets were 13.9 times current liabilities. Inventories amounted to $28,984,525, a decrease of $6,198,000 in twelve months.

With the payment of a 75 cent quarterly dividend on Jan. 2, 1930, the company increased its annual dividend rate on the common stock from $2.50 per share to $3.

Both the preferred and common stocks are regarded as high grade.

Union Electric Light and Power.

G. G. M.: Union Electric Light and Power company [Mo.] general mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series "B," due Aug. 1, 1967, are the direct obligation of the company and, together with the series "A" bonds, are secured by a direct mortgage lien on the entire fixed property of the company and by the deposit under the general mortgage of $8,808,000 principal amount of the company's 5 per cent refunding and extension mortgage bonds.

Net earnings before interest for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1929, were more than 5.3 times interest on the funded debt during that period and more than 3.5 times the annual interest requirements on all funded debt to be outstanding upon the issuance of the $15,000,000 additional series "B" bonds recently offered.

Fisk Rubber.

F. M.: Fisk Rubber company reported gross sales of $30,083,471 for the first half of 1929, against $30,989,846 for the like period of 1928.

The company showed a net loss of $236,713 for the first half of 1929, against a net loss of $4,983,134 for the first half of 1928.

Larger Earnings
Many of the great American corporations are now doing a larger business than ever before. Earnings of Cities Service Company, a $900,000,000 corporation, have increased every year since 1921, and prospects for next year are exceedingly bright. We recommend the purchase of Cities Service Common Stock at the present market to yield over 7%.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW LOSSES; SUPPORT FAILS

Co-ops' Cash Purchases Attract Attention.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish sentiment forged to the front in the wheat trade yesterday and with the greater part of the day's news favoring a lower level of values there was a lack of aggressive support except such as came from holders of bids, and the finish was at net losses of 1⅛@1¼c.

May wheat sold at a new low on the present movement, touching $1.27⅛. Some support was on reports that the coöperatives bought several more cars of No. 1 northern spring at Minneapolis at $1.25, the farm board loan figure, and also bid $1.22 for No. 2 northern, the first time mention has been made that purchases would be made of a grade other than that on which the farm board based its loans.

Liquidation was on at Winnipeg and that market led the decline, closing 2¾c lower. Liverpool wheat was weak and 2@2¾d lower, there being free selling on the prospective reduction in world's import requirements of 240,000,000 bu by Broomhall. On the basis of this figure world's import requirements would be around 672,000,000 bu, practically the smallest in over 8 years, and compared with actual clearances in 1928-'29 of 913,000,000 bu. Buenos Aires closed ⅞@1¼c lower, and Rosario 1@1¼c lower.

Coöps Ignore Futures.

The buying of cash wheat at Minneapolis by the coöperatives is attracting more and more attention, as they announced their intention of taking the country run grain at the basic prices regardless of the action of the May delivery. President Legge of the farm board has been invited to appear before the senate agricultural committee to outline the policy of that body regarding wheat, and as the national cotton coöperative association is permitted to trade in futures, it would not surprise some members of the trade if the wheat coöperative was permitted to do the same.

Export demand for wheat from Europe remains very small, with only 200,000 bu reported sold in all positions. A cargo sold at the Pacific coast below a replacement figure, while Australia sold a cargo to Japan on Tuesday. The foreign exchange situation, it is believed, will necessitate the southern hemisphere, and possibly Canada, selling wheat freely sooner or later.

Kansas City Corn to Chicago.

Purchase of 52,000 bu cash corn to come here from Kansas City, with reports that western markets were also offering grain combined with a belief that there would be an increase in the country movement in the near future, led to general local and commission house selling of futures and with a lack of support the close was at net losses of 1⅞@⅞c.

Argentine corn was reported as offered at Seattle, Wash., at $38.50 per ton, or slightly above prices asked by western shippers. Illinois and Indiana continue to complain about the quality of the grain still remaining in the fields to be husked. Choice cash corn in the same market was ⅛@1c higher compared with May, while poorer kinds were steady. Buenos Aires May closed 1¼c lower.

EGGS IN SHARP DECLINE

January egg futures crashed downward on the Chicago Mercantile exchange and closed 1¾c lower for storage standards and 1¼c on January fresh. Slow storage outgo, previous discounting of the cold wave, and wide-spread liquidating contributed to the reaction. Settlements were at a slight improvement on bottom price. Sales were 390 cars and receipts 9,209 cases.

Easing of butter future levels was laid to discouraging storage movements which counteracted a ½c rise in spot prices of standards. The largest loss was ½c on the February delivery. Sales were 81 cars and receipts, 6,117 tubs. Prices follow:

JOHN A. CARROLL IS NEW HEAD OF SOUTH SIDE BANK

Reports of changes in officers and directorates of Chicago banks continued to come in yesterday. At the annual meeting of the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank A. K. Brown was chosen chairman of the board to succeed John A. Carroll, who becomes president. Eugene E. Ford, former president, is retiring. Eugene Abegg, vice president, was also named cashier. Other changes reported by various banks are:

ADAMS STATE—H. S. Tykal, director; J. C. Slama, vice president; R. F. Kochka, cashier; J. A. Bily, assistant cashier.

Net earnings of the Crawford State bank last year were the best in the history of the institution. After deductions net was equal to $15 a share on the capital stock outstanding.

LESS COTTON CONSUMED; PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER

Consumption of cotton in December was the smallest for the period in recent years, it being 453,892 bales, compared with 533,301 bales last year. The report was yesterday construed as bearish, being below trade expectations, yet it had little influence as a market factor. Trading was light, the range of prices narrow and irregular, futures in Chicago being 2 points lower to 3 points net higher.

Spots were unchanged. New York, 17.45c, with sales of middlings 800 bales. New Orleans was 17.05c; Galveston, 17.40c; Houston, 17.30c. Prices follow:

CHINESE NATIONALIST GOV'T WILL COLLECT DUTIES ON GOLD BASIS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Nationalist government's ministry of finance announced tonight that beginning Feb. 1 the Chinese customs duties on foreign imports would be collected on a gold basis, instead of silver.

The government reached this decision in consequence of the drop in value of the Mexican silver dollar in China from 49 cents a year ago to less than 35 cents at present. This decline has seriously embarrassed banks and business generally, has halted movement of commodities, and raised their prices.

An unnamed gold unit, which will be equal to forty gold dollar cents, will be used, said the ministry's announcement. This gold unit will displace the silver Haikwan tael long used as a unit in calculation of foreign imports.

Beginning Feb. 1 and until March 15, the gold unit will be considered as worth 1.5 Haikwan taels. After the latter date, the gold unit will be valued at 1.7 taels until the government establishes a different rate.

Explaining its order the finance ministry said its action was inevitable as a result of the silver slump; it was necessary in order to protect the government's finances.

Shanghai import and commercial circles received the order with the greatest concern. Most firms stated that the action would further increase the prices of all articles imported, despite the reassurances of the finance ministry.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat prices in Chicago are down to the lowest in nearly a month, with the trade bearish and regarded as short. At the same time, the average operator expressed the belief at the close that selling short on such breaks as of late was dangerous, although prices here are above the government's loan basis. Every time there has been a decline to about that level the market has run into supporting orders, which makes traders nervous.

Corn traders who several days ago thought the market had turned for the better were disappointed by its decline in the last few days. This break induced operators who have been short for several days to take profits, which, with buying against bids, was the main sustaining factor. There was a purchase of 52,000 bu of white and mixed corn at Kansas City to come to Chicago, which was a basis for much of the late selling.

UTAH POWER AND LIGHT.

November gross was $1,058,791, compared with $1,002,387 for November, 1928. Balance after taxes and charges was $389,080 for November, against $405,106 for the like month of 1928.

First Mortgage Fee and Leasehold 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series of 1958

Dated November 1, 1929 — Due November 1, 1958

Semi-annual interest, May 1 and November 1, payable at the offices of G. L. Ohrstrom & Co. and of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in New York City and Chicago. Principal payable at the principal office of the Trustee. Coupon Bonds in interchangeable denominations of $1,000 and $500; registerable as to principal. Redeemable, at the option of the Corporation or through operation of the sinking fund, in whole or in part, on any interest payment date, upon thirty days' published notice, to and including November 1, 1932, at 105; thereafter, to and including November 1, 1937, at 103; thereafter, to and including November 1, 1947, at 102; thereafter, to and including November 1, 1957, at 101; and thereafter at 100; in each case with accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption. Interest payable without deduction for normal Federal income tax not in excess of two per cent per annum. Refund of certain Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Kansas and California taxes not to exceed four mills, Maryland tax not to exceed four and one-half mills, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and District of Columbia taxes not to exceed five mills, Michigan exemption tax not to exceed five mills, and Massachusetts tax measured by income not to exceed six per cent, to resident holders upon written application within sixty days after payment, all as provided in the Mortgage. Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee.

The Mortgage provides for a quarterly Sinking Fund, beginning November 1, 1930, sufficient to retire these Bonds at or before maturity.

Building: The principal office of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company will be located in The Manhattan Company Building, which is now being erected on the north side of Wall Street, New York City, adjacent to the Assay Office and Sub-Treasury of the United States, and extending through to Pine Street. This is one of the most desirable locations for a bank and office building in the Wall Street financial district. The building rises to a height of 70 stories and will be one of the outstanding commercial structures in the world. Except for a small portion on the westerly side of the Pine Street frontage, the building is scheduled for completion by May 1, 1930.

Forty Wall Street Corporation has entered into a contract with the United States Government for the purchase of the Assay Office site, adjoining the building. The statistics contained herein with respect to the estimated income of the building, the deductions therefrom and the estimated value of the completed property, are based on the acquisition and improvement of a small tract (aggregating 1,117 square feet) proposed to be presently acquired from the Government, but exclude the balance of the Assay Office property, possession of which cannot be presently obtained.

Gross Income	$5,067,899
Operating Expenses, Ground Rent, Maintenance, Insurance, Allowance for Vacancies of $400,000 which is over ten per cent of the estimated annual rent roll (exclusive of the space to be occupied by the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company), and Taxes, other than Income Taxes	2,341,000
Balance	$2,726,899
Maximum Annual Interest on these Bonds	$ 750,000

The Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, a subsidiary of The Manhattan Company, has leased and contracted to lease space in the building at an annual rental of over $1,000,000, of which over $893,000 commences May 1, 1930 and the balance prior to May 1, 1931. Leases and contracts for leases have already been signed for more than sixty per cent of the estimated net rentable area of the building. The annual rental from space already leased or contracted to be leased is considerably in excess of estimated annual operating expenses, maintenance, insurance and real estate taxes, average annual ground rent and maximum annual interest charges on these Bonds.

Security: These Bonds are, in the opinion of counsel, secured by a direct first mortgage on the land owned in fee by Forty Wall Street Corporation and the leasehold estates of the Corporation, subject to the aforementioned lease of space to the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company. The Corporation has agreed that if, by December 1, 1930, it shall have acquired the aforesaid small tract on Pine Street, aggregating approximately 1,117 square feet, it will convey this property to the Trustee, subject to no prior lien, as additional security for these Bonds. If such property shall not have been acquired by December 1, 1930, the Corporation agrees to retire, through the Sinking Fund, not less than $1,500,000 in principal amount of these Bonds. The value of the completed property, including fee, leaseholds and building, has been independently appraised at $22,000,000. On the basis of this valuation, these Bonds will represent less than a fifty-seven per cent loan. Completion of the building has been guaranteed by Starrett Brothers, Incorporated, and The Starrett Corporation.

Management: The building is being erected by Starrett Brothers, Incorporated. It is owned and will be operated by Forty Wall Street Corporation, which, like Starrett Brothers, Incorporated, and Starrett Investing Corporation, is a subsidiary of The Starrett Corporation.

Price 96½ and Accrued Interest, to Yield Over 6.25%

The above information is summarized from and is subject to a letter of Col. W. A. Starrett, the President of the Corporation, to the Bankers. These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to the approval of counsel; also subject to change in price and prior sale. Delivery may be made in the first instance in temporary or definitive Bonds or in interim certificates of a New York City bank or trust company.

Top yesterday, $14.60; average, $13.25.

Estimated hogs at Chicago today, 7,000 cattle, 44,000 calves, and 15,000 sheep.

A slight slump in the hog market early yesterday carried the extreme top to $10, which stands highest of the week and equals the second highest price in more than three months. Buyers, however, succeeded in blocking the rise in prices soon after the start, and obtained enough weighty lots at 5@10c reduction to force the general average down 5c at $9.65.

The weakness in the market for medium and weighty stock brought larger sales out for the biggest mid-week drive in some time, and only 5,000 head were estimated left at the close. In spite of the fact that Monday's receipts, which threw a "scare" into many of the bullish traders, totaled 7,768, arrivals during the first three days at 124,800 compare with 142,613 a week ago, with 145,560 a year ago and with 155,353 two years ago.

Holds Up Well.

The cattle market held up remarkably well and better than was first expected, under pressure of the largest Wednesday receipts in six weeks. Top sales equaled the highest of the week and some medium and weighty beeves showed price gains of 15@25c compared with the preceding two days.

Prime 1,353 lb steers reached $15.50, while $16.00, the top, was paid for 1,000@1,138 lb long yearlings. Mixed steers and heifers averaging 652 lbs. sold at $14.75. Cows and heifers were slower to sell and in spots had to go at slights losses. Calves ruled strong to 25c higher. Stockers and feeders were scarce and strong to 25c higher. Total receipts at 44,500 compare with 44,156 the previous Wednesday and with 44,526 two weeks ago.

Lambs Recover Loss.

Following an additional break of 15@25c at the opening yesterday, the lamb market came almost to a standstill for several hours when salesmen held on for more money. Much of the loss was recovered in mid-session and later, with closing sales almost in line with the previous session.

Several loads of the best handyweight lambs reached $14.00, while bulk of 75@90 lbs averages brought $13.50@13.75. Aged sheep and yearlings shared in the early decline. Feeding lambs were unchanged.

URGES CHICAGO BUILDERS ADOPT CREDIT CONTROL

Craig Sees Elimination of Dishonest Practices.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Chicago builders and building material interests were urged yesterday afternoon by E. M. Craig of the Building Construction Employers' association to establish a comprehensive credit control plan, which would eliminate dishonest practices of the irresponsible contractors from the local construction industry.

Mr. Craig informed the meeting of building contractors and owners of building material yards that immediate action is necessary now to accompany the construction business through its present dormant state and back to a more active status. The building interests met in the auditorium of the Builders' building.

Explains Plan.

M. J. Biddle of Detroit explained the Biddle plan of credit control and stated that the most effective result is obtained through a consolidation of the entire building industry. He said this plan also includes banks and finance institutions and that direct supervision is recorded by the credit system of every branch which enters into the building of a structure.

Mr. Biddle stated that under the comprehensive or consolidation system of credit control all branches of the building industry are notified when a general building contractor or subcontractor is delinquent in his payment of bills.

"This arrangement insures the public against the irresponsible type of contractors by preventing them from carrying on operations," he said.

"A structure built by a man unable to meet his obligations is soon cluttered with material liens and legal clouds and the credit control system would prevent this condition."

Spots "Sharpshooters."

Several builders spoke on the necessity of including banks and bond and mortgage companies in the chain of credit control units. One contractor stated there are some "sharpshooters" among the bond and mortgage groups and pointed out that one of these firms operated a refinance company. He said that when financial adversity visited any building in which this bond company was interested plans were made to have their refinancing organization take over the building and adjust bills by agreeing to discount them.

Under the comprehensive credit control plan for the Chicago building industry each trade group like the electrical contractors, the plumbing contractors and each unit of meterial interests will organize an individual credit bureau and then operate through a central credit bureau. It was pointed out all legitimate builders and material interests will be protected through an interchange of information and certain standards of credit maintained.

The equivalent of over eight times Chicago's population passed through the Chicago and North Western passenger station in Chicago during 1929, surpassing all previous years in passenger traffic handled through this station with nearly 1,250,000 gain over the next highest year, according to Fred W. Sargent, president.

The total number of passengers for last year was 25,840,726, an increase of 1,270,696 over the previous year, and of 1,235,415 over the record year of 1920 when the American railroads had their heaviest travel.

July was the peak month of 1929, with 2,368,000 people passing in and out of the station. Race crowds to Arlington Park helped to swell this total. Christmas business, the heaviest in recent years, placed December second in high months with 2,270,349 passengers. Both months were higher than the peak period of 1920, July, when 2,200,226 people were handled.

Passenger business has shown increases in the Chicago station since 1922, excepting slight drops in 1926 and 1927, Mr. Sargent pointed out. There is no indication that 1930 will fall short of the 1929 figure.

A SPECIALTY

We have a DOLLAR DOWN sales setup on a popular priced household necessity that means sales. Being a salesman YOU are naturally looking for something of MERIT that will SELL.

Answer this question to yourself: If you had two articles that ARE IN GREAT DEMAND and were in a position to SELL THEM for HALF of what any other merchant has to charge, how many ORDERS a week do you feel YOU could write at a DOLLAR DOWN and a dollar per week?

JUST ONE MEASLY ORDER A DAY WITH A DOLLAR DEPOSIT PAYS YOU $30 A WEEK IN FULL. NOTHING DEFERRED and WE GET YOU INTO THE HOME at our own expense and pay you on all other purchases that your customer makes.

IF YOU ARE SEEKING A GOOD, LEGITIMATE STEADY INCOME AND WANT SOMETHING THAT SELLS—WE HAVE IT! Interviews between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. only. See Mr. Ackerman.

223 E. WASHINGTON-BLVD., 11TH FLOOR.

for 3 experienced salesmen and 2 beginners for special position with large Chicago concern. Must be ambitious and willing to learn our modern methods; must have good references, mature judgment, and be over 30 years of age; personality more essential than experience.

A FAIR SALARY IF YOU QUALIFY.

Excellent future where earnings will be commensurate with your ability. Do not write or phone. Call in person only. You will be given a courteous interview and told at once if you are suitable for this particular position. If you convince me that you are sincere I can place you in our sales department at once.

Apply between 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m.

STUDEBAKER
WE MAKE FRIENDS NOT PROFITS FROM USED CARS

We must handle used cars as an accommodation to purchasers of new Studebaker cars. We do not attempt to make a PROFIT on them. But we do want each used car to make another FRIEND, for this business. That's why all our used automobiles are sold at bargain prices and backed by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

PACKARD
What Is a Bargain?

Is it a good car at the right price, or is it any car at a low price? Is the final answer in the first cost, or in the final cost?

We are in a permanent business and we must sell used cars in volume the year round. Our used cars are selling and do sell steadily because they are really good cars—good for many thousands and miles of real satisfactory service—and because the prices give the buyer exceptional value.
